WASHINGTON, Aug. 18.—Great Lakes, coastwise and gulf carriers today urged the Shipping Board to grant applications involving approximately sixty steamship lines for rate increases in conformity with advances allowed railroads by the Interstate Commerce Commission. A majority of the lines are now operating at deficits which threaten their existence, Examiner H. E. Manghum was told by witnesses.

Votes for Women Throughout American Nation Becomes Fact.

Carrie Chapman Catt.

Alice Paul.

Of Revered Memory.

Susan B. Anthony, the great leader whose gentle courage carried the fight onward in the darkest days of the suffrage contest, is remembered lovingly today by all the women who have fought side by side with her in the past, and by that ever-increasing company that has "carried on" since she gave the trust into the hands of others and passed on.

Among the hundreds of brave women who have battled for the ballot a few names seem uppermost at this hour of triumph, among them being Mrs. Carrie Chapman Catt, who led at home and carried the fight recently into countries abroad; Miss Alice Paul, the little militant who has been very much to the forefront during the recent political conventions and who has directed much of the contest that resulted in victory in Tennessee; Mrs. Abby Scott Baker of the National Woman's Party, who shares the victory with Miss Paul, and Jane Addams of Hull House fame, whose name is linked with woman's welfare in perhaps a broader way than any one of her sisters who have been prominent in suffrage.

OLD PARTIES SEEK WOMEN'S VOTES.

Republicans Preparing Campaign; Democrats Are Confident.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

CHICAGO, Aug. 18.—Within an hour after Tennessee ratified suffrage, Republican national headquarters was preparing for the campaign among women voters.

The first shot was fired when Senator Harry S. New, chairman of the speakers' bureau, and all women leaders here issued statements.

Senator New declared that "among the sisterhood of States, twenty-nine Republican, with the tardy and reluctant aid of six Democratic, have accomplished this for womanhood."

NEW YORK, Aug. 18.—When news of the passage of the suffrage amendment by the Tennessee Legislature was received at Democratic national headquarters today, George White, national chairman, made the following statement:

"Tennessee holds the proud position of furnishing the vote by which the Nineteenth Amendment has been ratified. The Democratic party welcomes the women of the nation and awaits their vote in November with confidence as to the result."

RACES FROM MID-PACIFIC TO ILL WIFE.

Government Cuts Red Tape to Bring Husband from Midway Island.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 18.—Racing to the bedside of his wife, dangerously injured in Berkeley July 24 by a train, Cable Operator George Allen, stationed at a lonely post on Midway Island, 1200 miles northwest of Honolulu, was picked up by the U. S. transport Sheridan under special orders from the War Department. The Sheridan is to arrive today.

Allen received the news of his wife's injury over the cable, which passes through his station. The company's cable tender had just departed from Midway and no transportation was available. Allen appealed to the War Department. After brief consideration it was decided to slash some official red tape and bring Allen home.

The transport Sheridan had already left Manila. A wireless changed its course to Midway Island. There Allen was taken aboard. Mrs. Allen has been notified that her husband will arrive tomorrow. She is still in a critical condition.

Tulare Traffic Officer is Held for Murder.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

FRESNO, Aug. 18.—Percy Menafee, Tulare county traffic officer is being held in the Tulare County Jail without bail on a charge of murder, following the shooting and killing of Thomas Blake of Bakersfield, in the city of Tulare, last night, according to advices received here.

Menafee shot and killed Blake when he said the latter endeavored to escape in an automobile after Menafee had placed him under arrest for driving an automobile while intoxicated. The murder charge was placed against Menafee by A. E. Blake of Bakersfield, a brother of the dead man.

TROTZKY IN TALK CALLS VOLUNTEERS

Soviet Leader at Meeting in Honor of Bela Kun Issues Invitation.

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

MOSCOW, Aug. 18.—Leon Trotzky, soviet Minister of War, today issued a call for volunteers for service on the southern front. The call was issued in the course of an address at a meeting in honor of Bela Kun, Communist leader and former Foreign Minister of Hungary.

Trotzky's speech was devoted almost entirely to an exposition of measures by which, he declared, France and England had aided Gen. Wrangel, anti-Bolshevik leader in South Russia. It was greeted with enthusiasm.

Gen. Wrangel's movement is universally condemned here. Some declare that they have little confidence in his strategic or administrative ability.

It is constantly apparent that there is a growing solidarity of all elements against foreign intervention.

"What's the Use?" All Conspiring At Liquor Laws.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

CHICAGO, Aug. 18.—Capt. Hubert M. Howard, appointed State prohibition enforcement director at the beginning of the "dry" epoch, sat at his desk in the Federal Building today and told some of the reasons why he had quit the $5000 a year job to return to the practice of law. The main reasons, as stated by Capt. Howard, are:

The burden of constant political pressure.

Lack of co-operation on the part of other government officials.

Big and small conspiracies to evade the prohibition law.

Capt. Howard's resignation is effective September 1. He says he has experienced many trials and tribulations since taking up the job of trying to enforce the dry law.

"What's the use," he said, "in the time I have been here, every possible channel has been used to bring pressure to bear on this office to conspire against the law it is supposed to enforce. When I first took up the job I learned that a certain bank president had some notes on a wholesale liquor dealer. He went to the liquor dealer and told him he would cancel his notes for ten barrels of whisky.

"The point is that when a prominent citizen with a reputation to sustain will take chances to get liquor you can bet that everybody else with a thirst will also take a chance.

"If a man were crooked this job would be worth anything he pleased to graft. The State director controls the supply and that is the key to the whole situation."

RADICAL ALIENS ON WAY; TO BE DEPORTED.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

NEW YORK, Aug. 18.—Thirty-three aliens, under warrants of deportation, arrived at Ellis Island today from cities of the Central West. Eleven are radicals being sent out for advocating overthrow of the government by force. There are now sixty-six alien radicals at Ellis Island.

LUMBERMEN ADDRESSED BY HARDING.

Senator Advocates Forest Policy that Would Make Nation Self-Reliant.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]

MARION (O.) Aug. 18.—A forest policy that would make the United States "self-reliant" in timber production was advocated by Senator Harding today in a short speech here to a picnic of the local lumbermen's association.

Citing the shortage of housing facilities, he declared the nation must begin to "think of timber crops as we do of other cultivation," and must stamp out carelessness and neglect in their care.

"The one thing which the government may do is to adopt that policy which will assure to future generations the timber necessary to our lumber needs," he said.

"There remains a large supply on the Pacific Coast, but the problem of transportation makes this supply unavailable to the East and Middle West, unless we contemplate a cost of transportation which will continue to discourage building enterprise.

"It is common knowledge that there is ample land in this country to produce a sufficient supply of timber if it is only stocked with trees. With timber growing, on the one hand, and forest preservation and protection on the other, there isn't any reason why the United States should not be self-reliant in lumber."

New York Street Yields a Trace of Yellow Metal.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]

NEW YORK, Aug. 18.—Engineers in charge of an excavation in the heart of New York's financial district today were treasuring some tiny yellow metal flakes that one of them scraped from his muddy shoes. Tests have been applied and indications point to discovery of gold in the very shadow of the subtreasury building.

The engineers offered the theory that the metal might have been lost in an old canal which traversed the site years ago. The locality was the site of the first American navy yard.

Thousand Cases of Whisky on Way to Mexico.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

SAN DIEGO, Aug. 18.—The motor ship Alejandro is on the way to Magdalena Bay today with 1000 cases of Scotch whisky aboard. The liquor was loaded at Vancouver several weeks ago for delivery at Ensenada, but about the time the motorship arrived here the trouble in Lower California between the Cantu forces and the Mexican Federal authorities was at its height and the vessel remained here until last night.

The whisky was valued at about $200,000 by the owners of the boat.

POLES AND REDS MEET AT MINSK.

Russ Demand Guarantees from Polish Landlords Against New Attacks.

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

MOSCOW, Aug. 18.—The Russian soviet peace terms were read to the Polish delegates at their first meeting with the soviet representatives in Minsk yesterday. The Polish answer will be returned tomorrow. An official statement said:

"The Minsk conference opened today at 7 p.m. with a speech by Chairman Danishovsky, after which credentials were exchanged. Danishovsky emphasized Russia's respect for Poland's independence, sovereign rights and right to determine her own form of government, and said Russia accorded Poland more territory than the Entente.

He said Russia must demand from the landlords of Poland such guarantees against renewed attacks as would not be necessary from the workers and peasants of Poland. The Polish delegates proposed to hold the next sitting August 19, but the Russians insisted it be held on August 18, which was agreed to.

Thumb-Print Law Takes Profits of Wichita Burglars

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

WICHITA, Aug. 18.—Wichita has a city ordinance requiring pawn brokers, junk dealers and second-hand storekeepers to take the thumb prints of all persons from whom they make purchase. Each day a detective visits all second-hand shops on quest of articles reported stolen. Should he find them he takes the accompanying thumb prints to headquarters and starts a search for the owner of the thumb.

The ordinance is forcing thieves to leave the city to sell their stuff. Such a trip is not only hazardous, it takes the profit out of the business. A burglar who has to take a trip to Kansas City or Denver before he can make a sale is likely to stay away from Wichita in the future. As a result burglary is on the decline here.

Last Antelope Herd Drifting Into Nevada.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

PORTLAND (Or.) Aug. 18.—The last important herd of antelope in Eastern Oregon is straying over the border into Nevada because of scarcity of grass on the Oregon side, according to U. S. Game Warden George Tonkin, who was here several weeks investigating the proposed problem of a preserve for the animals.

The greatest enemies of the antelope, says Tonkin, are sheep herders, who kill them for food, and "big game" sportsmen from Eastern States who imagine, according to Warden Tonkin, that in killing the half tame animals they are getting a sample of near African hunting.

CANTU OUT, SALAZAR IN

Transfer is Made at Mexicali.

Open Warfare Across Border Avoided by Resignation of Governor.

Change in Peninsula Government Affected Without Ostentation.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

MEXICALI (Lower California) Aug. 18.—Gen. Luis M. Salazar succeeded Col. Esteban Cantu as Governor of the Northern District of Lower California at 6 o'clock tonight.

The change in governors was effected without ostentation, but with a certain ceremony which impressed through its simplicity.

The transfer of authority consumed about thirty minutes.

Reading and discussing an agreement under which Col. Cantu agreed to relinquish office took up much of the time, together with the reading of telegrams to and from Adolfo de la Huerta, provisional President of Mexico, indicating the approval of the central government in the eight articles embodied in the agreement.

The signatures of Col. Cantu, Genl. Salazar, Jose M. Aguilar, Territorial Secretary of State under Cantu, and V. Alessio Robles, editor of El Democrata, of Mexico City, and special representative of the provisional President, were affixed to the agreement.

CONDITIONS NAMED.

The agreement, which brought to a peaceful end the movement of Col. Cantu to resist occupation of the district by Federal forces, provided:

First, that all acts of the Cantu administration should be considered as sanctioned by the Federal government and all Cantu employees be relieved from responsibility in connection with them.

Second, that all Federal employees of the Department of Finance who have been working in Mexicali and who obeyed the orders of Col. Cantu, shall be relieved of their duties.

Third, that Col. Cantu be allowed to resign from the Governorship in a decorous and dignified manner and that the central government accept his resignation in the spirit shown by him.

Fourth, that consideration be given Col. Cantu's recommendation that all secondary employees of his administration be retained, so as to avoid the introduction of disorder into the official program of the district, and that the new Governor make changes, that are necessary slowly and deliberately.

Fifth, in consideration of the important and loyal services by the security force, or military police, of the district, the central government agrees to recognize their present rank in the service, and to make it optional with them whether they remain in the military forces of the district, or pass into the Federal army of the Republic.

Sixth, Luis M. Salazar is nominated and accepted as Governor in the place of Esteban Cantu.

Seventh, the Federal government insures and guarantees peace and freedom from political persecution to all inhabitants of the district.

Eighth, the Federal government grants and decrees amnesty and freedom from molestation to all persons in the district or out of it, who have taken any part in the recent disturbances or conditions which were classed as rebellion by the general government.

MEET NEW GOVERNOR.

When the agreement had been approved by the principals, and signed, the heads of the various departments of the Cantu administration, both civil and military, who were present by Col. Cantu's orders, were informed of the conditions, and were introduced by Col. Cantu to Gen. Salazar.

After greeting the new Governor as their chief, they turned to Col. Cantu to bid him goodby.

Many displayed emotion as they clasped his hand. Few said more than a simple farewell and an expression of good will.

SEA-GOING HACK HAS WILD RIDE.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

GLOBE, Aug. 18.—An interesting note that involves Arizona's remarkable features of weather, concerns the experience of three Globe mining men, H. C. Mallory, T. R. Drummond and Anton Trojanovich, and a sea-going automobile in the "dry" wash of Dripping Springs Valley.

There, where travel rarely is impeded in the sandy bed of the wash, they were overtaken by a cloudburst. It lifted the machine and carried it along at racing speed for a mile, where the party was stranded on a welcome bar.

After pumping out the staunch craft the homeward journey was resumed without assistance.

POLES' GREAT OFFENSIVE IS DISASTROUS TO REDS.

Strategy Threatens Communications of the Bolsheviki and Maneuver Recovers Much Lost Ground.

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

PARIS, Aug. 18.—Warsaw seems to be saved from the Bolsheviki. President Pilsudski's armies no longer are fighting a defensive battle and the bold offensive on both wings has reached the first objectives. The Poles appear to be pausing before attempting to develop their success.

The offensive on the left wing, led by the French generals, Henry and Billotte, has yielded important results.

It has once more put the Poles in possession of the key to the Warsaw defenses—the fork between the Narew and Bug—while the forces advancing toward Mlawa will force the Bolsheviki to beat a hasty retreat and reopen the direct railroad to Danzig.

MANEUVER THREATENS.

The maneuver on the right between the Vistula and Bug threatens the communications of the main Bolshevik forces. The movement has driven the Bolsheviki back all along the line toward Brest-Litovsk for distances varying from twenty-five to fifty miles.

There is much speculation as to how the Polish counter-offensive will affect Minsk peace negotiations.

The Polish counter-offensive, with Thorn as its base, has successfully cleared the Danzig corridor of Russian troops, according to a report received from the French mission to Poland today. The Polish forces are still driving eastward, the report says.

They have captured Novo-Minsk, a short distance east of Warsaw, according to a dispatch from the Polish capital today. The battle of Warsaw appears to be favorable to the Poles, the dispatch adds.

BERLIN REPORTS SUCCESS.

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

BERLIN, Aug. 18.—A telephone message from Posen stated that the Poles had forced the Russians back from the Vistula 15 kilometers.

A Konigsburg dispatch reported success for a Polish counter-attack along the line Plonsk-Novo Georgievsk, proceeding from Giechanow. A Bolshevik attempt to cross the Vistula, north of Ivangorod was reported frustrated, and the Poles were said to have resumed counter-operations southeast of Warsaw.

CLASH WITH FRENCH.

Uninterrupted rifle fire and hand grenade explosions were reported to be proceeding at 1 a.m. at Kattowitz, Upper Silesia, where serious fighting occurred last night between French troops and civilians, who struck in protest against the Russo-Polish war and demanded disarmament of the occupational troops. In the riots last night, eleven were killed and twenty-six wounded.

Another report said the occupational troops were prepared to deliver their arms to the custody of the security police. A trade union delegation last night entered into direct negotiations with the interallied commission and demanded disarmament of the occupational forces. The delegates offered safe conduct for the troops on their departure.

The French military commandant, Col. Blaucart, said he would rather die than agree to this, according to the report.

FRENCH TO PROTEST.

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

PARIS, Aug. 18.—The French government intends to protest energetically against the decision of Sir Reginald T. Tower, Allied high commissioner at Danzig, who yesterday forbade further debarkation at Danzig of French munitions for Poland, it was learned today.

Several French munition ships are anchored outside Danzig. Sir Reginald, according to a report from the French Ambassador to Poland, takes the attitude that he has not sufficient Allied troops to preserve order if further munitions are unloaded.

Sir Reginald has asked the Supreme Council for new instructions, pending the arrival of which he will maintain his decision. The Council of Ambassadors, which is acting as the Supreme Council, does not meet until September.

REDS "JUST MARCH."

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

WARSAW, Aug. 18.—Bolshevik forces advancing into Poland march ahead without any concern for their lines of communication, according to statements of refugees gathered by the Warsaw Gazette. They have lost touch with the bases of operation, and refugees state they had no difficulty in leaving their villages, for there was nothing behind the relatively thin Bolshevik front line. They declared it was possible to travel many miles without seeing a single soldier.

"A vigorous effort on the part of the Poles would be sufficient to inflict a decisive defeat upon the soviet armies," the newspaper declares. "That is why the Bolshevik high command is so anxious to finish the struggle as quickly as possible. Soviet prisoners confirm this information, adding that the successes gained by Gen. Wrangel in Southern Russia are causing considerable anxiety. The Russian government, therefore, wants to finish with the Poles so that it may turn its attention to Gen. Wrangel.

"The Bolsheviki believe the capture of Warsaw will end the war with Poland, a belief which is not shared by the Poles. Soviet commissars are holding out dazzling prospects of rich booty in Warsaw. Little impression is being made, however, for the morale of the army is decreasing. In the region of Brest-Litovsk a number of worn-out and hungry detachments have refused to obey orders, and it has been necessary to replace them. Summary executions had no effect. The soviet soldiers are tired of war."

POLES WILL GET ALL AID WITHIN LAW.

Colby Tells Delegation Nation's Hands Are Tied at Present.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, Aug. 18.—A declaration that the American government would support Polish independence "to the full extent of the constitutional power confided in the Executive" was made today by Secretary Colby to a delegation of American citizens of Polish extraction, who called to present memorials adopted at mass meetings.

"Every measure that can legally be taken will be adopted to render effectual the position of this country," he said, but added that the question of material aid on any broad scale was a political one.

"We cannot go to the relief, even of Poland," he said, "provided the view prevails that we have no concern with anything beyond our national borders. The question you see in its larger and true aspect is a political question. . . . I call your attention to the fact that the attitude of this government can only be the attitude of its people; and you, as American citizens, have the power to determine the trend and the weight of public opinion."

Mr. Colby said there were those who opposed any intervention, "that calls on us for active effort," and who had "flouted and rejected the enlightened machinery devised in conjunction with the Treaty of Versailles to cope with such conditions as now unhappily exist."

He also said there were those in this country who "are surveying conditions that now exist in Central Europe with a satisfaction that they make no attempt to conceal."

The secretary said "the appropriations which relief measures imply, and without which action on an adequate scale is impossible, must be made by Congress."

Mr. Colby said many steps for Polish relief had been taken, which it was "unnecessary and inadvisable" for him to discuss.

Declare Wilsons' "Put One Over" on Lloyd George.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

BUTTE (Mont.) Aug. 18.—Franklin D. Roosevelt, Democratic candidate for Vice-President, told a Butte audience today that Republicans were playing a shell game on the American people in respect to the League of Nations.

Enemies of the League, he said, were still busy circulating the story that England has six votes in the League to America's one.

"It is just the other way," said Mr. Roosevelt, "I honestly think that Wilson put one over on Lloyd George."

As a matter of fact, the United States has about twelve votes in the Assembly. Until last week I had two of them myself and now Secretary Daniels has them.

"You know, I have had something to do with the running of a couple of little republics. Facts are that I wrote Haiti's constitution myself, and, if I do say it, I think it a pretty good constitution."

Roosevelt said that Haiti and San Domingo, Panama, Cuba and Central American countries who had at least twelve votes in the League's assembly, all regarded Uncle Sam as a guardian and big brother, and that this country would practically have their votes in the League.

He added that the assembly of the League was merely a deliberating society and that the real power of the League was in the council in which the British empire had one vote and the United States one.

ANACONDA (Mont.) Aug. 18.—Tribute to the part played by the Federal clerks in Washington during the war was paid by Franklin D. Roosevelt, Democratic Vice-Presidential nominee here today when he addressed a labor picnic.

"The government cannot expect and is not securing effective service at a salary of $900 a year," he said.

DEER LODGE (Mont.) Aug. 18.—"We cannot put our faith in Europe we must toil and strive for the improvement of our own nation," Franklin D. Roosevelt, Democratic nominee for Vice-President, told farmers of Deer Lodge, Silver Bow and Powell counties at their annual picnic near here today.

"The flag stands above partisan politics. It has a better, nobler meaning than that. It is not a question of politics, but of whether we are going forward or backward," Roosevelt declared. "We must look forward. We won't be satisfied with the ideals of our ancestors. We must work shoulder to shoulder in order to attain our own ideals."

NATIONAL SUFFRAGE WON BY WOMEN OF AMERICA.

Ratification Victory in Tennessee Gives Millions the Right to Vote in Presidential Election.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

NASHVILLE, Aug. 18.—The amendment extending equal suffrage to American women was ratified today for inclusion in the Federal Constitution, the Tennessee House voting, 50 to 46, to concur in the Senate resolution adopted Friday, 25 to 4.

The action made Tennessee the thirty-sixth State to approve the amendment, which lacked tonight only formal certification by Secretary of State Colby to complete its acceptance.

At the last moment Speaker Walker, antisuffrage leader, changed his vote from "nay" to "aye," paving the way for a motion to reconsider. Under House rules he can present such a motion within the the next two legislative days.

Should today's vote be confirmed or the House fail to take further action before adjournment Friday, millions of women will be free to vote in the Presidential election. Only successful litigation contesting the legal right of this Legislature to ratify the section could prevent them.

Steps for such a test of the provision of the Tennessee constitution involved already have been taken by the Tennessee Constitutional League.

Ninety-six of the ninety-nine members of the House were present today, and the alignment, until a vote on concurrence was taken, was a tie, each faction polling forty-eight votes on a motion by Walker to table the resolution. On the ballot for concurrence the line-up was 49 to 47 until the Speaker changed his vote.

The motion to reconsider may be carried by a majority vote of the members present and, since Walker can act without a moment's notice, suffragists planned to be on hand in full force the next two days.

Suffrage leaders said they expected no defections, but as a precaution were tightening their lines tonight, while opposition leaders were waging an active campaign to increase their strength.

END COMES SUDDENLY.

The end came suddenly. Debate on the motion to concur had been in progress little more than an hour when Speaker Walker called Representative Overton to the chair and took the floor to reply to a suffragist who had charged special interests were at work to defeat ratification.

"I resent the iniquitous remarks that special interests are here alone against this measure. I resent this on behalf of the womanhood that is both for and against suffrage," he said.

"I move that this measure go where it belongs, to the table."

Instantly the chamber was in uproar. Suffragists clamored for recognition while a chorus of "Second the motion" came from the antis.

Mr. Overton refused to recognize anyone and ordered the roll called. The result was in doubt on unofficial tallies. An appeal to the clerk developed that his tally showed a tie, 48 to 48.

SECOND ROLL CALL.

Overton ordered a second roll call, which showed a tie of 48 to 48, and the Speaker declared the motion lost for want of a majority.

Instantly antisuffragists demanded a vote on the original motion to concur in the Senate action. Another tie meant rejection of the amendment. When the Speaker put the motion hundreds of suffragists regarded the battle lost.

The vote at the outset was on partisan lines, but when the name of Representative Harry T. Burn, Republican, was called, he voted "aye." He had voted to table the resolution and his change gave suffragists the needed majority.

The stand of other members was unchanged until the name of Representative B. P. Turner, Democrat, was reached, and he passed. Instantly there was a shout of satisfaction from the antis. He had voted against the motion to table and his failure to vote balanced opposing forces, but just before the end of the roll call he requested the clerk to record him as voting "aye."

LAUNCH DEMONSTRATION.

Suffragists launched an uproarious demonstration. Hundreds of suffrage bannera were waved wildly and many removed the yellow flowers they wore and threw them upward to meet a similar shower from the galleries.

A motion to adjourn until tomorrow was offered after the official vote was announced, but in the uproar it was doubted whether any members heard it.

The intention to attack the legality of ratification if the House failed to rescind its action was discussed tonight. The clause of the Tennessee constitution on which would be based the test is Article II, Section 32. It follows:

"No convention or General Assembly shall act on any amendment of the Constitution of the United States proposed by Congress to the several States, unless such convention or General Assembly shall have been elected after such amendment is submitted."

The present Legislature was elected in November, 1918, before the suffrage amendment was submitted.

The article was adopted in 1870, as a result of the ratification by the Legislature of the Fourteenth Amendment after the Civil War.

WANT ANOTHER STATE.

Suffrage leaders declare they will not slacken their efforts, as they desire to have at least one other State ratify before the November elections, as they expect a fight to be made against Tennessee's action because of the clause in the State constitution which prohibits any Assembly from acting on an amendment not submitted before the members were elected.

Both United States Solicitor-General Frierson and the Attorney-General of Tennessee have declared this clause to be unconstitutional in the light of the recent decision of the Supreme Court in the Ohio referendum case.

THE LINE-UP.

The line-up of the Democrats and Republicans on the vote for ratification follows:

Democrats—Aye, 35; no, 34; absent, 1.

INTENSIVE DRIVE.

Ratification by the Tennessee Legislature was the culmination of an intensive drive made by suffrage proponents to have the amendment made effective in time for the woman of the country to vote in the Presidential election in November. The drive was started when West Virginia became the thirty-fourth State to ratify early this year.

Washington was the thirty-fifth to ratify and on the same day it acted—March 22—Gov. Townsend of Delaware called a special session of the Legislature of that State to act on the amendment. The Delaware Assembly met early in May and the Senate quickly ratified, but action by the House was delayed, despite pressure brought to bear by the leaders of both great political parties and by President Wilson.

Finally, on June 2, the Legislature adjourned with the ratification resolution still in the House committee of the whole.

Meantime, the Louisiana Legislature met and efforts were made to have it act favorably. President Wilson appealed to Gov. Parker to recommend ratification, but the Governor declined to do so. The ratification resolution was taken up late in May and was debated at intervals through the month of June and into July. Gov. Cox, the Democratic Presidential nominee, threw his influence on the side of the amendment, declaring that the Democrats of the Legislature owed it to their party to ratify the amendment.

The Legislature finally adjourned on July 3, however, without acting.

While the Louisiana Legislature was considering the question appeals for planks favorable to suffrage were made to both the Republican and Democratic conventions and the Republican convention was picketed by representatives of the Woman's party. Suffrage planks were inserted in both platforms.

After the Republican convention adjourned the women turned their attention to Vermont, making an effort to have Gov. Clement call a special session. An appeal was made to Senator Harding to use his influence with the Governor, but the Senator declined.

Shortly afterwards President Wilson appealed to Gov. Bickett of North Carolina and Gov. Roberts of Tennessee to call special sessions of their legislatures and they consented.

While this was going on Gov. Clement came to Washington to confer with Senator Harding and hopes ran high in suffrage quarters. Upon his return home, however, Gov. Clement announced that he would not call a special session and proponents of the amendment turned their attention to Tennessee and North Carolina as the last hope.

The Tennessee Legislature met August 9 and the North Carolina Assembly convened the following day. The Tennessee Senate acted within less than a week.

Charles S. Fairchild, New York, president of the American Constitutional League, brought proceedings in the District of Columbia Supreme Court, asking that Bainbridge Colby, Secretary of State, be enjoined from issuing a proclamation declaring the amendment ratified. The basis of the suit was the allegation that ratification by the West Virginia Legislature was accomplished by fraud and that any action by Tennessee would be void on the ground that the Legislature lacked authority under the Constitution.

Justice Bailey dismissed the proceedings on the ground that the court was without authority to inquire into the action of State Legislatures in ratifying the amendment and that it had no authority to pass on the validity of such an amendment.

KEEP UP FIGHT.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]

RALEIGH (N. C.) Aug. 18.—Suffrage supporters were unable to obtain a reconsideration today of the vote which yesterday [illegible] the resolution ratifying the [illegible] amendment. The upper house of the Legislature adjourned at 1 o'clock and under its rules the question cannot come before it again except through favorable action of the lower house.

The ratification resolution now in house committee, will be reported out and made a special order of business tomorrow morning.

EXPRESSES SATISFACTION.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]

MARION (O.) Aug. 18.—Expressing satisfaction with the action of the Tennessee Legislature, Senator Harding said:

"All along I have wished completion of ratification, and have said so, and I am glad to have all the citizenship of the United States take part in the Presidential elections. The Republican party will welcome the response of American womanhood to its appeal to the confidence of all our people."

COX GRATIFIED.

COLUMBUS (O.) Aug. 18.—The following statement commenting on Tennessee's ratification of the suffrage amendment was issued today by Gov. Cox:

"The civilization of the world is saved. The mothers of America will stay the hand of war and repudiate those who trifle with a great principle. The action of the Tennessee Legislature has another significance. It is an earnest of the Democratic policy to pay its platform obligations."

BARTLESVILLE (Okla.) Aug. 18.—W. J. Bryan when informed here today of the ratification of suffrage by Tennessee, clasped his hands and cried: "Hurrah for Tennessee."

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]

CINCINNATI (O.) Aug. 18.—Mrs. Jerome Sturm, Cincinnati anti-suffragist leader, announced today that suit would be filed to test the validity of the ratification of the suffrage amendment by the Tennessee Legislature.

Mrs. Sturm said that the suit, already prepared, was in the hands of Nashville lawyers.

NEW YORK, Aug. 18.—The National American Woman Suffrage Association is preparing to meet any attacks which may be made to prevent the suffrage amendment from becoming law, according to New York headquarters of the organization.

"It expects the Secretary of State to proclaim the amendment ratified," the statement said.

CLEARS ATMOSPHERE.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

NEW YORK, Aug. 18.—Will H. Hays, chairman of the Republican National Committee, on his arrival today from Marion, issued a statement expressing the gratitude of his party to the Tennessee Legislature for its passage of the woman suffrage amendment.

"Both parties recognize that the effects of the approaching Presidential election will influence our national life, for weal or for woe, for at least fifty years," he said. "With the constitutional right given the millions of American women we will liberate a body of public opinion on the campaign and its issues which will prove itself one of our greatest national assets."

"We want these women in politics. We want them in politics this year more than ever before. Ratification of the amendment clears the political atmosphere.

RATIFICATION FLAG IS FLYING.

Alice Paul Hoists Banner When News Received.

Does Not Fear Reconsideration, She Declares.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

WASHINGTON, Aug. 18.—The ratification flag is flying tonight over the National Woman's Party headquarters here. Telegrams from Nashville brought the news of the ratification of the suffrage amendment by the Tennessee Legislature early this afternoon, and Miss Alice Paul promptly replaced the purple, white and gold banner floating beside the American flag over the portico with another bearing eighteen gold and eighteen purple stars on the central bar of white.

For a moment only the little group of suffragists gathered on the driveway and stood watching the symbol of victory. Then they went inside and to work to make that victory certain.

"We do not fear the results of efforts to reconsider, but we shall, of course, do everything possible to prevent such action," said Miss Paul.

FLOWERS AND TEARS.

All the afternoon women who have worked with her since 1913, when the Woman's party was the Congressional Union for Woman Suffrage, housed in little basement offices in F street, a stone's throw from the treasury, have been calling at the national headquarters in Jackson Place, many of them with flowers in their hands and not a few with tears in their eyes, to try to tell Alice Paul how they feel about her and the part she took in bringing to a close the long fight for the national enfranchisement of women begun by Susan B. Anthony half a century ago.

Miss Paul's own feeling is expressed in the following statement, which she issued immediately upon receipt of the news of the action of the Tennessee House:

"The victory of women today completes the political democracy of America and enfranchises half the people of a great nation.

"It is a victory which has been won not by any individual or group, but by all those women who since the time of the revolution have suffered and protested against the humiliation of disfranchisement and proclaimed the equality of men and women.

"All women of the United States are now entitled to vote in the coming elections on the same basis as men. But our work cannot yet end. Ratification must be protected in the courts against the attacks of its opponents. It must be safeguarded, if possible, by the winning of a thirty-seventh State.

WORK TO DO.

"In certain States, also, provision must be made for admitting women to the polls and providing for their registration in accordance with law. The Woman's party at once will get in touch with the Attorney-General of each State with the object of aiding in this matter, which we anticipate will cause no difficulty or delay.

"With their power to vote achieved, women still have before them the task of supplementing political equality with equality in all other fields.

"In State and national legislation, as well as in other fields, women are not yet on an equal basis with men. The vote will make it infinitely easier for them to end all discriminations and they will use the vote toward that end.

"The National Woman's party, organized in 1913 to secure the passage of the Federal suffrage amendment, has accomplished the purpose for which it was founded. It will meet in convention within the next few months to decide upon its future."

CANTU MAINTAINED SUPREMACY WHEN OTHERS ROSE AND FELL

Col. Esteban Cantu, military and civil Governor of the Northern District of Lower California, had maintained his supremacy since 1914, while in other parts of Mexico, governments rose and fell. His friends said he remained in power because he kept aloof from disturbances in Mexico City and along the United States border.

Internal dissatisfaction in Lower California with certain policies of the Cantu government, and what was described as a departure from his course of aloofness, led to trouble for the Governor in 1920. Many residents of his district opposed Cantu's licensing of gambling and liquor, and his orders permitting Chinese immigration. The Cantu government received large revenues from both the immigration and from the licenses, which were issued, mainly, to persons operating along the border.

Cantu's position had grown less secure because of these factors, before the overthrow of Carranza. He had expressed his allegiance to that regime and was slow, after its overthrow, to declare himself in accord with the de facto government headed by De la Huerta. When he finally did recognize the new regime, it has been said, his power began to wane.

RELATIONS GREW STRAINED.

Gen. Obregon, representing the provisional government, sent Baldomero Almada to Mexicali to succeed Cantu as Governor. The latter publicly announced he would yield to Almada, but following a demonstration by persons who wanted him to remain in office, he changed his expressed intention and determined to remain.

Thenceforth relations with the provisional government grew more strained until finally each side issued a proclamation, the provisional government declaring Cantu a traitor and announcing a campaign for his removal, and the Governor severing his relations with the De la Huerta government and announcing that he proposed to stand on his rights as a Mexican citizen and hold his office.

Throughout his stay on the peninsula, Col. Cantu maintained his headquarters at Mexicali, a border town, twin of Calexico, Cal., and in the years he directed affairs, Mexicali grew to one of the most pretentious towns of Lower California. With a population of 11,000, including 7000 Chinese farmers, merchants and laborers, it boasts of a concrete and adobe government building, started two years ago and still unfinished, a stone barracks and several substantial frame buildings used for government purposes, all of them built under Cantu's direction, with revenue derived from import duties and local taxes. Americans with business interests in Mexicali, and in the Imperial Valley below the border, praised him highly for his progressiveness and fair dealing.

BUILT 75-MILE ROAD.

In addition to the erection of the government buildings at Mexicali he pushed to completion a camino (road) from Mexicali to Ensenada, on the west coast, more than seventy-five miles in length, and which, in many places, had to be blasted out of solid rock. Paralleling this road he installed telegraph and telephone equipment, connecting up the two towns and smaller ones for the first time, with means of communication other than by courier or mail.

Col. Cantu was sent to Mexicali from Chihuahua city in 1911, to drive from the district a band of filibusters who had assaulted the jail, killed the jailer and released the prisoners. The attack was charged to members of the Industrial Workers of the World, who were said to have attacked the place in order to liberate one of their number.

At the time, Cantu, though but 30 years old, had seen considerable service as an officer in the Mexican army. He held the rank of captain, having been graduated ten years before from the Chapultepec Academy, Mexico's West Point.

WON SPURS AS FIGHTER.

Soon after leaving the national academy, Cantu won his spurs as a fighting man, in a decisive campaign waged against Indians in Sonora. He never was wounded but had many narrow escapes.

Before Cantu's arrival at Mexicali, the filibusters, whose ranks had been augmented by close to 200 men, making, in all, a force of close to 250, had driven off Gov. Celso Vega, who had hurried to the scene with troops from Ensenada.

Between the departure of Vega's troops and the arrival of Cantu's Federals, Rodolfo Gallegos, a rancher, stepped into the limelight, and, with the business men back of him, organized a force of volunteers who drove out the invaders. Callegos's valor was recognized in the following election and he was made Presidente of Mexicali. Later, however, he rebelled against Cantu and joined the revolutionary movement in Sonora, the Mexican State separated from Lower California by the Gulf of California.

GALLEGOS IS ROUTED.

Gallegos, after obtaining a command, elected first to try his mettle against Cantu and marched overland with the announced intention of attacking Cantu. Cantu, by this time, elevated to a colonelcy, met Gallegos more than half way. They clashed on the east bank of the Colorado River, near what was then Colonia Lerdo, and now called San Luis, in Sonora, and Gallegos was routed.

Diplomacy was then brought into play and Gen. Angeles was sent by Villa to interview Col. Cantu. Cantu told the emissary of his determination to keep strife out of Lower California, and agreed to embrace the Constitutionalist cause, providing the authorities would attempt no changes of a radical kind. Gen. Aviles clashed with Cantu within three months over Aviles's efforts to popularize Villa's currency. Cantu declared that nothing but gold would be recognized, as it has been throughout the varying stages of plots and counter plots, following the overthrow of President Diaz, the Madero administration that of Huerta. Aviles later found asylum in California, where, with others, he was accused of promoting a revolution.

Cantu's determination to maintain gold as the circulating medium in Lower California was illustrated by his insistence that his troops, often referred to as the best paid soldiers in the world, received their pay in gold at the rate of $1.10 a day.

Col. Cantu was born at Linares, near Monterey, Mex., in 1881. His brother, Lieut.-Col. Jose Cantu, was an officer of the Carranza army, and until recently represented Cantu at Mexico City. In 1913, Col. Cantu married Anna Dato of Calexico, Cal. There are three children.

scene, displayed no sign, during the farewells. He greeted each man with a smile and a cordial handshake. But when the goodby had all been spoken, he seemed relieved.

The transfer of authority took place in the little building, which for several years has been the seat of government for the northern district of the territory.

At the close of the ceremony, Senor Robles announced Col. Cantu would leave Mexical tomorrow for Los Angeles, where he would pass a day or two with his wife and children, who went to that city two weeks ago.

From Los Angeles, Senor Robles stated, the retiring Governor would go with him to Mexico City, for conferences with Gen. Alvaro Obregon and Provisional President De la Huerta. His further plans were not made public, but it has previously been announced he would resume his colonelcy in the Mexican Federal army.

REPLY FOR KAMENEFF.

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

LONDON, Aug. 18.—Premier Lloyd George, in a detailed reply to the request of Leo Kameneff, of the Russian mission in London, for an exact definition of Great Britain's attitude toward Gen. Baron Wrangel, anti-Bolshevik leader in South Russia, says that the British government never had the intention to detach the Crimea from Russia, or secure its possession to Gen. Wrangel or encourage Wrangel in his offensive.

The British government, adds the Premier, is only concerned with insuring the safety of troops and refugees under Wrangel, who, Mr. Lloyd George says, has been warned that the British will decline all responsibility if he undertakes intervention.

Makes Fight for Prohibition Easier, Says Wheeler, Counsel for Antis.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

WASHINGTON, Aug. 18.—Prohibition leaders believe that ratification of the suffrage amendment will be a great thing for their cause.

"Ratification of the Nineteenth Amendment," said Wayne B. Wheeler, counsel for the Anti-Saloon League today, "makes the fight to maintain and enforce national prohibition much easier. Not all women favor prohibition, but an overwhelming majority favor it and they will naturally favor a Congress to sustain and enforce it. The liquor interests have always been aggressively against woman suffrage. The women know it and they will not help an outlawed enemy to be reinstated."

COLBY READY FOR ACTION ON SUFFRAGE

Promises Prompt Promulgation of Amendment Upon Notification.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, Aug. 18. Prompt promulgation of the woman suffrage amendment, should action of the Tennessee Legislature today be confirmed, was promised by Secretary Colby when word of the vote reached the State Department. He was prepared, he said, to issue the necessary proclamation immediately on receipt of official notice that Tennessee had ratified.

At national headquarters of suffrage organizations news of the ratification invoked enthusiasm.

Secretary Daniels announced a telegram he sent Gov. Roberts of Tennessee, saying:

"Congratulations. The volunteer State has done itself lasting honor."

Suffrage workers will be assigned at once to organizing districts and counties, Mrs. Maud Wood Park, chairman of the National League of Woman Voters, said.

"Our slogan is 'Every Woman a Voter in 1920'," she said. "The ratification has cleared the [illegible] unhealthy conditions of [illegible] tion. The future is full of [illegible] but the promise of [illegible] will make a vote a [illegible] tunity.

"We do not fear the result of [illegible] effort to reconsider, but we shall, of course, do everything possible to prevent such action," said Miss Paul, chairman of the [illegible] Party.

The effect of the action in Tennessee, she said, was to enfranchise the women of nine districts [illegible] where women could not vote in November as the State Presidential ticket had been held up by referendum petitions. In the other doubtful States ratification would permit women to vote in Congressional elections, she said.

The Woman's Party also announced steps toward a [illegible] celebration at the capital for [illegible] taken. Included in the [illegible] will be presentation of marble [illegible] of the trio of suffrage pioneers, Susan B. Anthony, Elizabeth Cady Stanton and Lucretia Mott, which it is hoped will be placed in the Hall of Fame or on the grounds of the Capitol. The statue of Frances Willard is the only woman's figure in the Hall of Fame.

SUFFRAGE RATIFICATION BY TENNESSEE ENDS CENTURY-OLD STRUGGLE OF WOMEN.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

WASHINGTON, Aug. 18.—With the ratification of the suffrage amendment by Tennessee and the signature of the Secretary of State to the proclamation declaring the Nineteenth Amendment to the Constitution ratified, ends the century-long struggle of American women for political independence. In contrast with the war for American independence, which lasted eight years, the war for woman's independence, which began with some of the revolutionary mothers, has lasted almost 150 years.

The suffrage amendment, introduced in 1878 as the Sixteenth Amendment to the Constitution, became in turn the Seventeenth, Eighteenth and finally, the Nineteenth, before it passed Congress in 1919. Agitated in Congress for forty-one years before its passage, it was ratified in a little more than a year by the necessary thirty-six States and has just become a part of the law of the land.

WASTING NO TIME.

But suffragists, with their long awaited victory in their hands, are apparently wasting no time over reminiscences, for Alice Paul, chairman of the National Woman's party, which has always worked solely for the Federal amendment, when asked to comment on the occasion, said:

"We have ended political discrimination against women. It is the first great step toward equality and alters the whole status of women, but the fight against discrimination in other fields has only begun. With the vote as a tool, the women of America can forge for themselves a place of equal responsibility and equal power with the men of the nation.

"Whether or not the best method to this end is through a separate woman's party will be a matter for decision, as far as the members of the National Woman's party are concerned, at a convention to be held in the near future."

Among the discriminations still existing against women, are these:

THE DISCRIMINATIONS.

(1.) In many States the father is the sole guardian of the child during his life time and in a few States he still has the right to name by will whomsoever he pleases as the guardian after his death, thus having the power to will away the custody of even an unborn child.

In other States, while provision is made that the surviving mother may be the sole guardian if she remains a widow, they do not take the guardianship away from a widower upon his remarriage.

(2.) In a number of States the mother inherits nothing from the estate of a deceased child if the father is living.

(3.) In States where there are no equal guardianship laws, the mother has no right to share in the earnings of minor children.

(4.) The husband has the exclusive right to choose the domicile.

(5.) Women are eligible to only a very few minor offices in States where they have not had the right to vote, and legislation will be necessary to make them eligible in some States, even after they have the right to vote.

(6.) Under the present civil service law the heads of departments can select men for positions, regardless of the fact that women have made higher marks in examinations and stand first on the lists.

(7.) Women who marry aliens lose their citizenship and right to vote, while men who marry aliens are in no way affected in their right of franchise.

(8.) In some States women are not eligible for jury service.

CORRECTIONS EASY.

Corrections of those injustices will be easy, according to suffrage leaders, now that women have the vote, and the struggle against discrimination in other lines will not be so long as the struggle against political injustice has been.

The roots of the suffrage struggle in this country were laid in revolutionary times. The women of the revolution were vigorous in asking inclusion in the constitution with the men. Abigail Adams, the wife of John Adams, threatened rebellion unless the rights of women were secured.

"REMEMBER THE LADIES."

In March, 1776, she wrote to her husband, then in the Continental Congress.

"I long to hear you have declared an independence and, by the way, in the new code of laws, which I suppose it will be necessary for you to make, I desire you would remember the ladies, and be more generous and favorable to them than your ancestors. Do not put such unlimited power into the hands of husbands. Remember, all men would be tyrants if they could.

"If particular care and attention are not paid to the ladies we are determined to foment a rebellion, and will not hold ourselves bound to obey any laws in which we have no voice or represenation."

As a matter of fact, in a number of colonies, for instance, Virginia and New Jersey, women did vote.

NO ORGANIZED AGITATION.

During the early days of the republic's history there was no organized suffrage agitation. It was not until 1848 that the first woman's rights convention ever held in the country was called by Lucretia Mott and Elizabeth Cady Stanton.

This convention, the seventy-second anniversary of which will be celebrated by the convention of the National Woman's party, was the starting point of the real struggle for woman suffrage. The convention adopted a "Declaration of Independence," which demanded equal rights in the universities; in the trades and professions; the right to vote; a share in all political offices; complete equality in marriage; the right of married women to personal freedom, property, wages and children; the right to make contracts, to sue and be sued, and to testify in courts of justice.

ARRESTED FOR VOTING.

It was this convention which interested Susan B. Anthony, suffrage pioneer and first suffrage militant, in the struggle for women's rights. Miss Anthony was, from the very beginning, interested mainly in securing the franchise through a national amendment. For a number of years she sought an interpretation of the Fourteenth and Fifteenth amendments, which would include women. She went so far in her efforts as to vote at the polls in 1872. She was arrested for so doing, tried and fined, but never imprisoned, although she refused to pay her fine.

DRAFTS AMENDMENT.

Her sentence convinced her that the only hope for women lay in the drafting of a new amendment and she drew up in 1875 what passed Congress in 1919 as the Nineteenth Amendment to the Constitution.

It passed in exactly the form in which Miss Anthony drew it up:

"The right of citizens of the United States to vote shall not be denied or abridged by the United States or by any State on account of sex."

FIGHT WAGED.

After the first introduction of the amendment in 1878 it was not acted upon until 1887, when the Senate defeated it by a 2 to 1 vote. After this defeat suffrage agitation took the form of State campaigns under the direction of National American Woman's Suffrage Association. By 1913 State suffrage had been granted by nine States to their women, but the Federal amendment had dropped completely out of sight.

As far as the political eye could discover national suffrage was as dead as a door nail in 1913, when the National Woman's party was organized by Alice Paul and Lucy Burns.

When Miss Paul came to Washington, even suffragists predicted the amendment could not be passed for fifty years. An overwhelming majority of Congres opposed it, political leaders were indifferent. President Wilson had given the matter no consideration.

Within seven years after the organization of the Woman's party, the President had become convinced that the welfare of the nation demanded the passage of the amendment, every political party had included in its platform an equal suffrage plank and the amendment had passed both houses of Congress and been ratified by thirty-six States.

The Woman's party campaign is explained by Mrs. Abby Scott Baker, political chairman, in this way:

"From the beginning the National Woman's party held the party in power responsible for the passage of the suffrage amendment, and did this through the political power in the hands of western women voters. An organization was built up in every State.

CONSTANT PRESSURE.

"Constant pressure was secured from the constituents of members of Congress, an din the national campaigns western women were urged to vote against the candidates of that party which, while in power, had refused to enfranchise women. Women voters, of course, could not attack individual men as antisuffragists because no candidates in suffrage States were antis. Their only chance of using their votes for the freedom of other women was to turn them against the party in power.

"While this organized pressure was brought from the States the Woman's party in Washington, through the chairmen of its departments, worked with the national political leaders, and in a series of demonstrations centered the attention of Congress and the country upon the responsibility of the administration and President Wilson as the leader of the majority party for the enfranchisement of women. We began by deputations and petitions. We ended by silent picket at the White House gates.

WOMEN JAILED.

"In the determination to keep suffrage an issue between four and five hundred women were arrested and 210 served sentences in jail, but action by Congress or the President has followed every big suffrage demonstration by the National Woman's party."

"The ratification campaign which has put through the suffrage amendment in record time is outlined by Anita Pollitzer, legislative secretary of the National Woman's party.

"In the ratification campaign the national political powers forced by pressure from the States to capitulate and pass the amendment in Congress, have in their turn been used by suffrage leaders to secure favorable action from legislatures in the States.

"More than one special session—for instance those in Wyoming and South Dakota—have been secured entirely through work in the national capital.

RECORD BROKEN.

"Ratification of this amendment has broken the record in regard to the number of special sessions called and the speed with which it has been secured. But the speed has been attained in spite of obstacles that ranged from the Japanese menace to school code fights, and from ancient personal prejudices about women and the home, to modern political fears of the "irreconcilables" that women, if they had the chance, would vote for the League of Nations.

These obstacles have necessitated campaigns against either the Governor or the Legislatures in all but five of the thirty-six States that have ratified, Wisconsin, Ohio, New York, Arkansas and Montana.

"But bright spots do stand out in the campaign. Kansas is one, where the Legislators, after suggesting themselves, paid their own expenses to a one-day session. Pennsylvania is another, for in that supposed stronghold of the 'anti' sentiment, the Legislature on the day of ratification blazed with purple, white and gold banners, and the Legislators stood up in their seats and waved the flags of women's freedom as they cheered the victory.

HAPPY SURPRISE.

"Kentucky, too, was a happy surprise for the South, when in its enthusiasm it ratified the amendment on the first day of the Legislature's session, a day usually given over to strictly routine business.

"It might indeed have been considered a bright spot when, in the hard-fought battle in Maine, a member rose in the lower House of the Assembly and waving his hat in a gesture to include his constituents, prayed that he should never see his wife and mother 'wallowing in this filthy mire.'

"Nor was the moment entirely without its brightness when the Governor of Maryland replied to a question from a deputation of suffragists as to what his name would be in history, if he refused to help enfranchise the women of his State by backing silently through an open door and disappearing.

BITTER OPPOSITION.

"How bitter the opposition to suffrage was, became evident as ratification neared completion. In the last doubtful States, New Jersey, West Virginia and New Mexico, 'plots' had to be thwarted, parliamentary tricks turned, powerful interests circumvented. In West Virginia the Legislature, deadlocked, was held in session while a vote was rushed from California. It was only when the supporters of suffrage appeared armed with pillows, thermos bottles and decks of cards, that the opponents gave up their effort to adjourn the session before the extra vote on the suffrage side arrived.

PLOT FOILED.

"In New Mexico a plot to make the native vote the goat and so wreck the chances of women's voting in the next election, was spoiled in the nick of time. As for New Jersey, the day after that State was ratified, it was publicly proclaimed at the capital among certain opponents of the cause, 'Why, New Jersey wasn't supposed to ratify!'

"After the Republican majority allowed the defeat of the amendment in Delaware, only two hopes remained in the North. Vermont and Connecticut, both with Legislatures friendly to the amendment but whose Republican Governors refused to call special sessions.

REPUBLICANS PICKETED.

"When appeals from the people of these States, from State conventions and from State political leaders failed to secure the special sessions, the Woman's Party went to Chicago and in the withering heat picketed the Republican National Convention to get action by national Republican leaders to force the Governors of Vermont and Connecticut to allow their Legislatures to meet. Silent lines of white-clad pickets held aloft, during the entire convention, the purple, white and gold banners bearing the words, 'How long will the Republican party continue to block suffrage?'

"The answer of the Republican convention was a plank, but not the thirty-sixth State. Senator Harding, Republican Presidential nominee, then became the center of the suffrage campaign. Deputations were sent to him to get his promise that sessions would be called in the two laggard States. The women again were disappointed.

"But the Woman's Party had discovered that the Ohio referendum decision had made ratification by the Tennessee Legislature possible in 1920. President Wilson took advantage of the Democrats' chance to score and asked Gov. Roberts of Tennessee to call a special session. The Governor agreed to do so and the Woman's Party besieged him with telegrams urging that the session be called without delay in order that the women of Tennessee might vote in the State and Congressional primaries in August.

"Another source of pressure was the Woman's Party Committee, which interviewed delegations from every State at the Democratic National Convention in San Francisco and secured strong pressure from national leaders. The session was finally called for August 9 and the amendment ratified August 13.

"Perhaps it would have been cheaper for politicians, after all, to hand women the vote as a present, years ago, instead of affording them, by their fifty years opposition, a training in the ways of politics that makes their vote a threat to the old order of things."

NOTE SLIGHT DECLINE IN WHOLESALE PRICES.

RECESSIONS IN FARM PRODUCTS, IN FOOD AND CLOTHING, SAYS REPORT.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

WASHINGTON, Aug. 18.—Wholesale prices in the United States continue to decline, according to the Bureau of Labor Statistics, which announced today, a decline of 2¼ per cent in representative markets for July, 1920, as compared to the previous month.

Farm products, food and clothing, the report says, showed considerable price recessions. The decrease for farm products was 2.9 per cent, for food it was nearly 4 per cent and for clothing it was virtually 5½ per cent. Smaller decreases were recorded for lumber and building materials, chemicals and drugs and miscellaneous commodities.

On the other hand fuel and lighting materials continued upward with an increase of nearly 2½ per cent. Metals and metal products registered a slight increase, while the group of house furnishing goods showed no change.

Loose Rim Breaks Leg.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

PHOENIX, Aug. 18.—Capt. Harry E. Smith of Washington, a transcontinental tourist, has been detained at Flagstaff by a broken leg, sustained when a loosely-fastened rim snapped from an auto wheel. The tire had blown up through overinflation.

SELLS-FLOTO CIRCUS SUED.

"Assorted Wild Animals" and Elephants Are Attached.

Sheriff Has Visions of "One Rings" in Jail Yard.

Woman and Son Are Asking for $28,000 in Damages.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

KANSAS CITY, Aug. 18.—Visions of one-ring circuses without number, to be held in the jail yard, floated before the eyes of William J. Wright, Jr., Wyandotte county Sheriff, when he placed an attachment upon Snyder, Maw, Tribly, Siam, Frisco and Billy Sunday, six of the choicest elephants in the Sells-Floto Circus, and on five camels and eleven cages of "assorted wild animals," including the world renowned "blood sweating behemoth."

The animals were to be held until the settlement of a damage suit for $28,000 filed against the company. Sheriff Wright, who sought expert advice from the trainers, was told about the diet and training of the animals held by him under due process of law.

"ASSORTED WILD ANIMALS."

The eleven cages of "assorted wild animals, "as they were described in the attachment, include snakes, monkeys and many other varieties of animals. The estimated value of the eleven cages was $10,000.

The six elephants were valued at $12,000 and the five camels at $3000. The attachment also was served on thirty of the circus horses, ten sorrel and twenty blacks, valued at $3000.

The attachment proceedings were filed by attorneys for Mrs. Katherine Toelle, 1723 Penn street, Kansas City, and her 11-year-old son, John Toelle, who are suing the circus company for $28,000 damages, alleged to have been sustained by the son when he was thrown from a flat car at the circus near Kearney, Neb., on July 11.

JUDGMENT IN LATHROP CASE IS AFFIRMED.

APPEAL COURT HITS AT SHOOTING OF PRISONER HELD FOR MINOR CRIME.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

SACRAMENTO, Aug. 18.—Peace officers or private citizens are not warranted in shooting a person arrested for committing a misdemeanor, even though the prisoner attempts to escape.

This was the gist of an opinion handed down today by the Third District Court of Appeal in affirming the judgment in the case of Ruble C. Lathrop, convicted in Merced of assault with attempt to commit murder. He was fined $300 and sentenced to three months in jail.

Lathrop shot Joseph M. Soares when the latter attempted to escape after he had been arrested by Lathrop for hunting on the latter's land.

ILLINOIS EXCESS IS TEN MILLIONS.

Revenue from State Exceeds Governmental Expenses.

Seventeen Commonwealths Fall Below Expenditures.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

WASHINGTON, Aug. 18.—Illinois, the director of the census announced today, led all the States of the Union in excess of revenues over governmental expenditures for the last fiscal year.

In thirty-one of the forty-eight States the revenues exceeded the expenditures for governmental costs, including interest on indebtedness and outlays for permanent improvements.

The total excess of revenue for these thirty-one States was $50,192,814, or 71.6 cents per capita.

Illinois produced the greatest excess of revenue with $10,097,851. Other States in which the excesses were more than a million dollars were:

Massachusetts, $6,229,663; Minnesota, $4,564,959; Iowa, $3,426,372; Connecticut, $3,224,014; Missouri, $3,148,892; New Jersey, $3,034,414; Wisconsin, $2,846,847; Oklahoma, $1,681,419; Pennsylvania, $1,602,290; Washington, $1,112,483; Montana, $1,080,214; Kentucky, $1,075,319.

The other States to produce an increase each less than a million dollars were; Indiana, North Dakota, South Dakota, Nebraska, Kansas, Virginia, West Virginia, North Carolina, South Carolina, Florida, Tennessee, Alabama, Arkansas, Texas, Wyoming, Colorado, Utah and Nevada.

REVENUES FALL.

In the remaining seventeen States the revenues fell below the expenditures by $15,378,246, or 43.2 cents per capita; and in five of these seventeen States sufficient revenues were not collected to meet current expenses and interest. Taking the forty-eight States as a whole, the excess of revenues over expenditures was $34,814,068, or 31.1 cents per capita.

LARGE SUM.

The aggregate revenues of all the States during the fiscal year were $675,217,202; the aggregate expenditures for current governmental costs, including interest, $549,257,702, and the aggregate outlays for permanent improvements, $71,145,432.

Of the total revenues $527,819,167, or more than three-fourths represented receipts from the various kinds of taxes.

About 45 per cent of this amount, or $237,234,778, was derived from the general property tax, made up of taxes on real estate and personal property.

Of the remainder the largest item, $168,439,185, was contributed by business taxes other than on the liquor traffic; $104,222,552 came from special property taxes; $48,025,730 was raised from license taxes other than on business.

SURF STILL YIELDS MYSTERIOUS PHIALS.

BOTTLES APPEARING ON NEW YORK BEACHES CONTAIN EXPLOSIVE GAS.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

NEW YORK, Aug. 18.—The mysterious yellow phials, containing a white substance, identified as calcium hypochlorine, used to purify water, which have been appearing in the surf for two weeks, continued today to be cast up on the beaches near here.

Boys are enjoying a belated Fourth of July, combined with a miniature trench warfare. "Bombing raids" are popular, because the phials explode with a bang when crashed against stones. The odor of chlorine released when the "bombs" are broken adds the thrill of a gas attack.

A chemical analysis of the contents of a phial today by an army officer here confirmed previous analysis. The officer said there was evidence of decomposition, which caused the explosion. He urged that the phials be destroyed, as they were not exactly safe playthings.

The source of the phials is still a mystery.

YOUTH CHARGED WITH DROWNING YOUNG BOY.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

DEERFIELD (N. J.) Aug. 18.—Melville Keene, 15, was arrested today on a charge of first degree murder in connection with the death of Carlton Riley, 11, who was drowned near here last Sunday.

The warrant was sworn out by the dead boy's father and is based on a story told by Carlton's younger brother, who said Keene lured them to a pond and pushed Carlton into deep water, although he knew the boy could not swim.

The brother said that he pushed a log to Carlton, but that Keene snatched it away, and pushed him under the water and held him there until he drowned.

LOVE'S YOUNG DREAM IS GIVEN SAD JOLT.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

NEW YORK, Aug. 18.—Marcelle Viacaria, a French girl, 17 years old, who came to this county on the French liner Rochambeau in June to marry Ivan Fiske, a soldier of the A.E.F., was released from Ellis Island today after a detention of ten weeks.

She fell in love with Fiske while he was in France. Since his return to this country he had, according to the records of the Immigration Bureau, sent many letters and cablegrams to the girl urging her to come here to marry him.

When she arrived on the Rochambeau, accompanied by her mother and younger brother and sister, she found that Fiske had married a young widow at Pittsburg in April.

Colorado River in Grand Canyon Park to be Bridged.

Spanning of Gorge Will Open Up New Territory.

Construction Work to Start Soon; Bids Received.

BY ROBERT B. ARMSTRONG.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

WASHINGTON, Aug. 18.—Before winter sets in the United States park service will have bridged the Colorado River in Grand Canyon Park and opened up new trails for the tourist on the north side of the wonderful chasm.

Bids for the construction of this suspension span were advertised for August 5, but the tenders were unsatisfactory and the work of readvertising is now under way. The new bids will be opened within a few days and work pushed with all energy so that the bridge and the new trails on the northern rim of the canyon can be used by early fall and thenceforward.

NEW BRIDGE.

There is now no way to cross the gorge. The new bridge which will cost somewhere between $6000 and $10,000 will be for foot passengers and pack animals and will be swung across the river one mile straight down from the rim of the canyon. It will connect with Bright Angel trail on the south side and on the north side also connecting with this bridge will be constructed a new trail of about fifteen miles, a large part of which will skirt the rim of the canyon on the north side. This new trail will cost about $15,000 in addition to the bridge cost.

Automobile travel from Zion Canyon Park and the north can now be safely undertaken to the north rim of the canyon, but up to this time there has been no way for tourists to cross the river to the south side and enjoy the developed portions of the canyon on the south side.

OPEN UP TERRITORY.

The new bridge will permit touring parties from the north to cross over to El Tovar and the camps on the south side and will give those arriving by train a chance to explore the wonderful scenery from the northern rim which heretofore has been absolutely inaccessible.

Park officials declare it will probably be impossible to ever arrange for a bridge across the canyon at this point for the accommodation of motor vehicles as it is necessary to go down into the gorge, itself the distance of a mile to swing this foot bridge and the engineering difficulties and grades to say nothing of the financial cost would make a motor bridge impossible.

However, with the new bridge, auto parties from California going to the north side of the canyon by way of Daggett can have the entire canyon made accessible and its construction will open up a new and interesting portion of this unique and increasingly popular playground.

HUNDREDS OF MEN ARE FIGHTING FOREST FIRES

CALL FOR HELP SENT TO REDDING—BLAZE IN TRINITY RESERVE TAKES SPURT.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 18.—Four fires in California national forest sand one in a small growth on the lava beds at Alturas were being fought by hundreds of men today, according to announcement by the forest service headquarters. Two of the fires, the one on the lava beds and the other in the Tahoe National Forest near Independence, Inyo county, were said to be under control.

A fire in the Shasta National Forest near Sisson will be controlled within five days if conditions remain favorable, it was announced. But little change was reported today in the fires which yesterday were sweeping uncontrolled through portions of the Lassen and Trinity forests. A call for fifteen more fighters was sent to Redding today as a result of a new spurt taken by the fire in the Trinity Forest.

DISCUSSES NEEDS FOR CHURCH UNITY.

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

GENEVA (Switzerland) Aug. 18. Among the speakers at the last meeting of the Faith and Order Congress here was Bishop C. H. Brent of New York, who dealt with the growth of fellowship in the conference and declared he believed it had reached a point where questions of organization could be discussed.

Bishop Charles Gore of Oxford, another speaker, said:

"It is necessary, if we are to progress, to face fully what our differences are as to the church and the nature of unity. We need a test as to whether it is possible for us to agree on what we think the united church should be."

POISON DEATH CASE BAFFLING.

Special Investigator in Charge of Kansas Case.

Many Witnesses are Being Grilled for Evidence.

Hixon's Assistant Admits Going With Widow.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

HIAWATHA (Kan.) Aug. 18.—The inquest into the death of Luther Hixson, who died several days ago from poison, conducted by a special investigator, retained by Brown county officials, has resulted in the grilling of many persons in an attempt to shed light on the mysterious death.

Neil Hansen, a retired farmer, was one of those questioned today. He said he saw a man writhing in the Hixson front yard about 5 o'clock the morning of Hixon's death. It has been said by relatives that Hixson experienced his first convulsion at 5 o'clock.

Arthur Wyatt, who sold Hixson a confectionery store and then assisted him in operating it, was questioned at length. Answering questions, he said he was on a picnic with Mrs. Hixson the Sunday preceding her husband's death. Other couples who were on the picnic were questioned.

Mrs. Wyatt was questioned regarding her husband's association with Mrs. Hixson. She admitted she had heard some talk.

Mrs. Hixson, wife of the dead man, and Mrs. Norris, her mother, will be questioned tomorrow and will be asked to relate again the circumstances surrounding Hixson's death.

The inquisition is being conducted in the office of the County Attorney. Persons in many parts of the county have been subpoenaed.

TORSO OF WOMAN FOUND IN HUDSON.

MYSTERIOUS CASE IS HOLDING ATTENTION OF THE NEW YORK POLICE.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]

NEW YORK, Aug. 18.—The torso of an unidentified woman, with head, arms and legs chopped off, was found last night by longshoremen in the Hudson River. Clinging to the skin were shreds of cloth, wisps of twine and minute pieces of wrapping paper.

The police expressed the opinion that the package probably had been weighted down, but that water had rotted the wrappings and the torso allowed to come to the surface. Medical examiners estimated it had been in the water about two weeks. The police believe the woman was about 25 or 30 years old.

The Guldensuppe case, to which the present mystery bears resemblance, held the attention of the country for many weeks twenty-three years ago. The trunk of a man later identified as that of William Guldensuppe, a Turkish bath rubber, was found floating north of Brooklyn bridge. The legs and arms, similarly wrapped, were later fished out of the East River. The head never was found.

Later a man and woman confessed that they had killed Guldensuppe, cut up his body in a bathtub and then threw the pieces off a ferry boat.

FRANCE AGREES WITH AMERICA.

sia. We must be prepared to make every concession, promise and sacrifice, to entice our foes into the conclusion of this peace.

"'We shall know that we have but concluded a truce permitting us to complete our preparations for a decisive onslaught, which will assure our triumph.'

ZINOVIEV STATEMENT.

"In the same connection, on Feb. 2, 1919, Zinoviev, intimate associate of Lenine and Trotzky, said: 'We are willing to sign an unfavorable peace with the Allies. It would only mean we should put no trust in the bit of paper we should sign. We should use the breathing space to gather our strength, in order that the mere continued existence of our government would keep up the world-wide propaganda which soviet Russia, has been carrying on for more than a year.'

"On another occasion he is reported by Mr. Lincoln Eyre to have said:

"'Our propaganda system is as strong and as far-reaching as ever.'

"The Third Interhationale is primarily an instrument of revolution. This work will be continued, legally or illegally. The soviet government may pledge itself to refrain from propaganda abroad, but the Third Internationale, never.'"

TEXT OF NOTE.

Following is the translation of the note of the French government as given out by the State Department:

"Mr. Secretary of State:

"The President of the Council and Minister of Foreign Affairs, having taken cognizance of the note relative to Russia, addressed by his excellency, the Ambassador of Italy, has charged me to inform your excellency that he has learned with satisfaction that the government of the republic is in entire agreement with the Federal government, as regards the principles formulated in this document.

"The government of the republic is of the same opinion, as the Federal government, concerning the present rulers of Russia. As your excellency expressed it, they are not in power, by the will or the consent of a considerable portion of the Russian people, but represent a small minority of the nation.

POWER BY FORCE.

"They have seized power by force and by trickery; during the two and a half years that they have retained power, meanwhile subjecting the country to savage oppression, they have not authorized popular election. On the contrary, they have put obstacles in the way of the creation of a popular representative government, based on universal suffrage.

"Events have proved that the present system of government in Russia is founded on the denial of every principle of honor and good faith, and of all the usages and convention which are the basis of relations between nations and individuals.

"The responsible heads of this regime have frequently and openly boasted of being ready to sign agreements and contracts with foreign powers, without having the least intention of observing them. They claim that no contract or agreement concluded with non-Bolshevist governments can bind them morally.

PROMISES NOT BINDING.

"After having proclaimed this doctrine they have applied it. They have declared they would foment revolutionary movements in other countries, in order there to establish a Bolshevist regime. Furthermore, they recognize that they are themselves subject to the control of a political faction having international ramifications and they have boasted that their promises of non-intervention in other countries would in no case be binding on the agents of this organization.

"All these judgments of the American government are absolutely true. In consequence the Federal government considers it impossible to recognize the present masters of Russia as a government with which the relations common to friendly governments can be maintained.

"The government of the republic has reached the same conclusion. It cannot have official relations with a government which is resolved to conspire against its institutions; whose diplomats would be instigators of revolt, and whose spokesmen proclaim that they will sign contracts with the intention not to observe them.

"In complete accord with the Federal government, the French government believes in the necessity for an independent Polish state and the French people, like the American people, ardently desire the maintenance of the political independence and the territorial integrity of Poland.

ARMISTICE AGREEMENT.

"This is why there is agreement between the French government and the American government to encourage all efforts made with a view to bringing about an armistice between Poland and Russia, while avoiding giving to the negotiations a character which might result in the recognition of the Bolshevist regime and in the dismemberment of Russia.

"The Federal government, as the interpreter of the feelings of the American people, desires to help the Russian people in whose future the United States retains an unshaken faith. The government of the republic associates itself unreservedly with this declaration.

"The French government has never altered in its determination to uphold the principles so clearly formulated by the United States. It is in this spirit that it has decided not to approve the armistice conditions toward Poland unless they are in conformity with these principles.

"It is this spirit also that, after mature examination, it has in fact recognized a Russian government which declares it accepts the same principles.

"In informing your excellency of the reception given to the declarations of the American government by the French government, I am instructed by M. Millerand to notify you that the French government is happy to have this one further assurance of the close harmony of feeling which animates the French and American peoples when the future of civilization is at stake.

"Accept, Mr. Secretary of State, the assurances of my high consideration.

[Signed] "BEARN."

TO PROTECT EMBRYO STARS OF THE SCREEN.

SAN FRANCISCO JUDGE WANTS ACTION AGAINST CROOKED CINEMA SCHOOLS.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 18.—Efforts to halt wholesale victimization of ambitious cinema students anxious to become stars at the hands of unscrupulous "teachers" of the celluloid drama are to be made by Dist.-Atty Matt Brady as the result of a request from Police Judge Sylvester McAtee today that proper steps be taken to prevent "further impositions."

The condition of so-called motion-picture schools came to a head in the Police Court this morning with the arrest of Leon Casper, head of a cinema instruction bureau at 2121 Market street. His arrest was at the instigation of Tom L. Williams, who had aspirations to become a star and who testified that he paid good money for a course.

On the witness stand Casper admitted that Williams was without histrionic possibilities. This admission evoked a burst of wrath from Judge McAtee. He said:

"This so-called motion-picture school is a trap for the misguided ambitious victims, 95 per cent of whom, I venture to say, have no chance of getting into the pictures. On the showing of this case the defendant cannot be reached under the State Labor Law. It is to be hoped, however, and I recommend it to the attention of the District Attorney, that some means within the law may be found to stop this imposition upon the forlorn ambitions to be Charlie Chaplins, Mary Pickfords and Bill Harts."

HOOVER WOULD BAR ASIATICS.

Ex-Food Administrator Does Not Mince Words.

Asserts Lower Standard of Living Grants Exclusion.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

PORTLAND (Or.) Aug. 18.—Herbert Hoover, who spent today in Portland, is for keeping the Asiatics out of the United States. He minces no words in saying so.

"There are two vital reasons why we cannot have Asiatics in this country," said Mr. Hoover. "In the first place, the product of the intermarriage between our race and theirs is a degenerate. The oriental cannot be absorbed by us."

NO DISCRIMINATION.

Here the former Food Administrator paused to explain that he said "oriental" and not "Japanese." He does not think it fair to pick out the Nipponese to the exclusion of other nationalities whose birthplaces are in Mother Asia.

"One can easily see that the children of mixed oriental and American parentage are not what make for good citizenship," he continued. "For 150 years all around the borders of Asia Eurasians have been born.

LIVING STANDARD LOWER.

"In the second place, the standard of living and of life of the oriental is so much lower than ours that white people cannot compete with the stranger from across the Pacific. Not only are these low standards prevalent with the first generation of these immigrants, but in the second generation as well."

Mr. Hoover spent a busy day in Portland, making two addresses and receiving numerous calls from acquaintances of his boyhood days.

He had not been here for thirty years and told of his futile attempt to visit his boyhood home without being recognized. Traveling with his family, he said, he had avoided the public by camping out in the woods and might have succeeded in remaining incognito had he not run out of food. Going into a hotel in Salem for provender, he said, he ran squarely into a man with whom he had fished thirty years ago.

He declined to discuss politics.

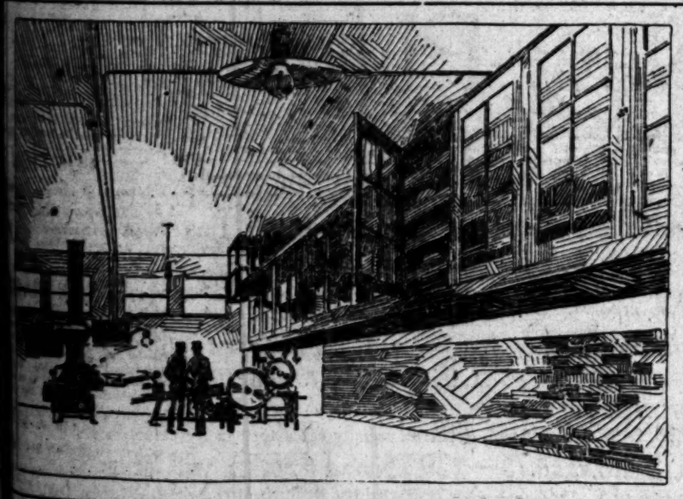
The Story of Modern Bread Making—Chapter XIII.



"Proofing" the Loaves

DOUGH, after fermentation, is in a very delicate condition and cannot stand to be put through the various subsequent processes in too rapid succession.

This explains the value of the 10-minute "proofing" which takes place after the rounding process and before the moulding into loaves. In this ten minutes the dough has a chance to recover from the shock of the dividing and rounding machines, and to resume its light consistency.

The long, glass-doored cabinet shown above is an automatic proofer. Its doors are kept closed during proofing, as the air inside is furnished by the same machine which provides pure moist air to the fermenting room.

The balls of dough are taken from the rounding machine by cups set at intervals along a belt conveyor. They are then conveyed back and forth inside the proofing cabinet, the journey requiring approximately ten minutes.

The exact timing of such processes as proofing, together with the regulating of temperature and humidity of air in the proofer, help to explain the standard high quality of HOLSUM Bread.

In many bakeries this part of the baking process is thought to be unimportant, and much of the food value and delicate flavor is lost by lack of scientific understanding of proper treatment at this stage.

REPUBLICANS CO-ORDINATE.

Congressional Committee to Open New Headquarters.

Will Co-operate With Party Leaders for Victory.

Aim for Majority in Congress, With G.O.P. President.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

CHICAGO, Aug. 18.—A new and important move in the direction of giving more activity to the Republican campaign and of energizing and co-ordinating it to the utmost, is the establishment this week by the National Republican Congressional Committee of permanent headquarters in Chicago.

Congressman S. D. Fess of Ohio, chairman of the Congressional committee, and J. R. McCart, executive secretary, will spend most of their time here between now and November. Without any letting down whatever in the vigor of the campaign for Republican control of Congress in the East renewed and re-enforced energy will be thrown into the contest throughout the West.

The closest possible co-operation is arranged between the Republican National Committee headquarters here and the National Republican Congressional Committee, with view to the election alike of a Republican President and a Senate and House which will give full Republican control. The headquarters of the Congressional committee have been opened in the Auditorium Hotel in the same building as the Republican National Committee.

Chairman Fess and Secretary McCart will be in intimate touch with National Chairman Hays and Vice-Chairman Adams and the other leaders in the headquarters of the national committee.

This is the second distinct recent move showing the close co-ordination the Republican leaders have brought about. A few weeks ago an agreement was reached whereby the national committee, the Congressional committee and the Senatorial advisory committee united in the establishment of a joint speakers bureau of which Senator New is national director.

Congressman Good of Iowa is the western director and Col. Thomas Miller is the eastern director.

AGE FIFTEEN; WEIGHS 245 POUNDS; NO JOKE.

BROOKLYN PAT BOY IS HELD FOR SHOOTING CRAPS WITH OTHER LADS.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

NEW YORK, Aug. 18.—"It's no joke when you weight 245 pounds and are only 15 years old," sighed Max Molta, Brooklyn, yesterday, at the Brownsville station, where he was locked up for shooting craps with other boys.

"You're a white hope," said Desk Lieutenant Reilly. "I do not know whether I should lock you up for shooting craps or blocking traffic. I have to hold you for the children's court."

"Don't let them take me to a place like that," pleaded the boy. "They'll kid me when they see a big guy like me lined up with a bunch of puny kids."

"It's too bad, but the law compels me to do it," snapped the officer.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

SUPERIOR (Wis.) Aug. 18.—The Martin Pattison homesite, occupying an entire block on Bay street and P avenue overlooking Lake Superior, has been offered to the board of directors of the Superior Children's Home by its owner, Mrs. Martin Pattison.

The dwelling, which is valued at $200,000 and generally conceded to be one of the finest at the head of the lakes, is occupied by Mrs. Pattison and family.

Mrs. Pattison was one of the founders of the Children's Home, which is far too small, and was a director of the institution for seven years.

DODSON STOPS SALE OF CALOMEL

"Dodson's Liver Tone" is Taking Place of Dangerous, Sickening Chemical, Say Druggists

Every druggist in town has noticed a great falling off in the sale of calomel. They all give the same reason. Dodson's Liver tone is taking its place.

"Calomel is dangerous and people know it." Dodson's Liver Tone is personally guaranteed by every druggist who sells it. A large bottle doesn't cost very much but if it fails to give easy relief in every case of liver sluggishness and constipation, just ask for your money back.

Dodson's Liver Tone is a pleasant-tasting, purely vegetable remedy, harmless both to children and adults. Take a spoonful at night and wake up feeling fine; no biliousness, sick headache, acid stomach or constipated bowels. It doesn't gripe or cause inconvenience all the next day like violent calomel. Take a dose of calomel today and tomorrow you will feel weak, sick and nauseated. Don't lose a day.—[Advertisement.

PREDICTS A REPUBLICAN VICTORY IN CALIFORNIA.

Secretary of State Asserts That Record-Breaking Registration is Indicative of Party's Triumph in Fall.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

SACRAMENTO, Aug. 18.—Commenting today on the record-breaking registration figures, for the California State primary, August 31, in which the Republican party overwhelms all other political affiliations, Secretary of State Jordan said:

"The record-breaking registration in California for the August primary election is indicative of two things: First that California is growing fast, and second that the people are taking more interest in primary elections.

"This registration is the greatest in the history of the State, and I look for a big vote to be polled at the election, August 31. Also the Republican registration of 779,854 against the Democrat 285,449 is the greatest in history.

"The registration for the August primary increased more than 140,000 over the registration for the Presidential primary election last May, and I look for even a larger registration for the general election next November.

CERTAIN VICTORY.

"To me the overwhelming Republican registration indicates certain victory for the Republican Presidential standard bearers in California in November. The difference between the Republicans and Democrats is almost three to one in favor of the G.O.P. California always has been a strong Republican State, but now she is stronger than ever. Never before have the Republicans shown such great strength in the State.

FAST DISAPPEARING.

"The small Progressive registration proves that that party is fast going to its grave.

"The 143,077 men and women who declined to state their party affiliation will be prevented from voting at the primary election, although they will be eligible to vote at the general election in November."

The registration, according to party in the fifty-eight counties in California follows:

THEODORA BOOTH IS LATEST WAR BRIDE.

DAUGHTER OF FOUNDER OF VOLUNTEERS MARRIED TO ARMY LIEUTENANT.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

NEW YORK, Aug. 18.—Romance comes in the wake of war much more surely than peace, and nowadays scarcely a week passes that does not bring with it a story that had its beginning in the days of stress.

The latest one is that of Miss Theodora Booth, only daughter of Gen. Ballington Booth, founder and commander-in-chief of the Volunteers of America. The general and Mrs. Booth announce the marriage of their daughter of Lieut. Jesse A. Montee, U.S.A., of Superior, Wis.

For half a month the pretty daughter of the general has been married to Lieut. Montee, for the ceremony was performed on July 30, last, at the Booth home at Blue Point, L. I.

The romance began "over there," as Miss Booth met her future husband while she was traveling with her mother through that part of Germany which was under occupation by American troops.

HEALTH DEPARTMENT IS WANTED BY BOARD.

FEDERAL GOVERNMENT ASKED BY CALIFORNIANS TO CONSERVE PEOPLE.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]

SACRAMENTO, Aug. 18.—"It is time that human beings in the United States be given at least equal consideration with plants and animals."

Thus ends an appeal issued by the State Board of Health for a Federal health department, with representation in the President's Cabinet. The appeal said in part:

"There is no Federal department to advise the citizen how to conserve his own health, how to prevent the contraction of communicable diseases, how to develop physical strength, energy, vitality and reserve.

"There is need today for stronger, better American citizens, and a Federal health department should be established to provide service for making citizens into better, healthier Americans. It's executive should have a place in the President's Cabinet."

OHIO STEAM LINES REFUSED RATE RISE.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]

COLUMBUS (O.) Aug. 18.—The Ohio Public Utilities Commission today refused to permit steam lines in the State to raise passenger rates 20 per cent; milk rates and excess-baggage charges, 20 per cent, and place a 50 per cent surcharge on Pullman space rates, as in the recent order of the Interstate Commerce Commission.

NEW BIBLE SERVICE FOR TERCENTENARY.

DRAMATIC REVIEW PREPARED FOR USE IN PILGRIM CELEBRATION.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

NEW YORK, Aug. 18.—For the Pilgrim tercentenary celebration throughout America, Percy Mackaye has specially written for the American Bible Society a dramatic service of the Bible, entitled "The Pilgrim and the Book."

This service, the first of its kind, is designed to be used in churches of all denominations and participated in by congregation, choir, Sunday-school, etc.

The length of the service will be about an hour. Its theme is the power of truth, as revealed in the Bible, to set free the human soyl, in particular, from the shackles of persecution and the fear of death. This theme applies historically to the spiritual struggle and achievements of the Pilgrim forefather, but also symbolically to man himself as a Pilgrim seeking "freedom to worship God."

JUDGE NEED NOT TELL WHO OFFERED BRIBE.

SACRAMENTO GRAND JURY EXCUSES BUSICK FROM DISCLOSING NAMES.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

SACRAMENTO, Aug. 18.—The Sacramento County Grand Jury today excused Superior Judge Charles O. Busick from disclosing the identity of the two persons the jurist said offered him bribes for a court verdict that would permit a dance hall to continue operations.

Judge Busick said he first was offered $5000 in cash, and that a second offer of $3000 for his political campaign fund was made. He told the grand jury he did not believe it advisable to tell the names of the parties who made the offers because they merely represented "somebody higher up."

Judge Busick was not questioned by the grand jury, merely acknowledging a formal statement and then being excused. Later the jury issued a public statement, agreeing with the jurist that the names should not be divulged.

Vote Favors 6-Cent Fare.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]

SIOUX CITY (Iowa) Aug. 18.—Six-cent car fare for the next three years was granted by a vote of nearly three to one at a special election yesterday.

Stomach Trouble.

There are many who should be greatly encouraged to know that stomach troubles can be cured. Mrs. T. E. Hullinger, Mansfield, O., was sick for three months with stomach trouble and constipation. She saw Chamberlain's Tablets advertised and decided to try them. Let her tell it: "The first dose did me more good than all of the medicine I had previously taken, and by taking two bottles of the tablets I was positively cured."—[Advertisement.

CALLES WILL OUST GERMAN ARMY OFFICER

Mexico to Dismiss Man Who Acted as Carranza Emissary During War.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

MEXICO CITY, Aug. 18.—Dr. Maximilian Krumm Heller, who holds the rank of colonel in the Mexican army, will be summarily dismissed, according to Gen. Calles, Minister of War.

"This doctor is an adventurer and I have no use for him in the army," said Gen. Calles today.

"I am surprised to find that important commissions have been entrusted to him."

Heller was attached to the Mexican legation in Berlin, during the Carranza regime, and during the World War, made several trips between Germany and Mexico.

His name was frequently mentioned in connection with alleged German connections of Carranza, intended to incite anti-American and pro-German sentiment in Mexico. Heller at one time came seriously to the attention of the British authorities who detained him in London, but his naturalization as a Mexican saved him.

It is known here that diplomats of the allied and associated powers in Mexico City were offended at the official position given Heller here, but it was said tonight that nothing official had been done to call the matter to the attention of the Mexican government.

Gen. Calles has known Heller for several years, and showed plainly, that he was disgusted because Heller was given army rank without his knowledge.

SIX BAREFOOT URCHINS SERENADE HARDING.

SING CAMPAIGN SONG AND HAVE PICTURES TAKEN WITH G.O.P. NOMINEE.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

MARION (O.) Aug. 18.—Senator Harding received his littlest front-porch delegation today. It consisted of six barefoot Marion urchins who marched up in military dignity under the command of a cocky little leader, bearing aloft an American flag and a Harding picture nailed to the back of a snow shovel. They serenaded the Senator with a campaign song and were rewarded with a handshake and a smile apiece and the privilege of having their pictures taken with the nominee.

MARION (O.) Aug. 18.—Senator Harding, Republican nominee, today visited Lincoln Park, where he was a guest at the first annual picnic of the Eleventh District Lumbermen's Association and made an informal talk.

Senator Harding this afternoon received a delegation of Indians. When the nominee told them that they were entitled to full citizenship and that they would get a square deal in the event of Republican success this fall, there was a mighty whoop.

CAR SHORTAGE GROWS; GRAIN CROP CAUSE.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, Aug. 18.—Car shortage in the United States and Canada increased slightly during the week of August 1, when the supply was 132,370 cars less than the demand, compared with a shortage of about 125,000 cars the previous week, according to reports today to the commission on car service. Increase in grain movement was said to be the cause.

Car congestion showed marked improvement, the commission's reports stated.

JENKINS SEEKS TO CLEAR NAME.

Indian Witnesses Repudiate Former Statements.

Early Decision Expected by Court at Puebla.

Wants Vindication, Says Former Consular Agent.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

MEXICO CITY, Aug. 18.—William O. Jenkins, former United States Consular Agent at Puebla, Mex., today placed before the American Embassy additional testimony regarding his reported kidnaping in October, 1919, by Mexican bandits led by Federico Cordoba. This evidence is said to clear him of the charge of perjury now pending.

The new testimony is alleged to be a repudiation by Indian witnesses of their statements at former hearings, when they claimed to have seen Jenkins at the Hacienda de Santa Lucia, State of Puebla, on Oct. 22, 1919, in company with Cordoba and on friendly terms with the bandit chieftain.

Jenkins says he expects an early decision by the Federal court at Puebla, acquitting him. He denies any intention of bringing a civil suit against the government, and maintains he still legally holds the office of United States Consular Agent.

ONLY WANTED TESTIMONY.

"I did file a civil-suit," he said to the Associated Press today, "but it was done to get a copy of the testimony which would clear me, because the Puebla State law does not permit the court to furnish transcripts of criminal cases. My sole interest is to disprove the perjury charge, which arose from the fact that my testimony disagreed with that which the Indians now retract.

EXPECTS EXONERATION.

"I have no intention of going to Washington to report," he continued, "since I have not been summoned." I never received notification that I was not still consular agent. In view of this new testimony of the Indians confessing perjury, there is no doubt that the Federal court reviewing my case will exonerate me. The criminal case which I have instituted against the Indians still is pending in a Puebla State court, but I hope the judge will consider the pressure against them at the time they testified and also the fact that I am not pushing the prosecution in passing sentence.

"I have no intention of leaving Mexico to visit the United States," he added. "I am not under bond. The present government of Mexico is friendly toward me and I have no worry regarding my present status, but I do wish to clear my record."

Sixteen Children Are at Parents' Second Wedding

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

SHENANDOAH (Iowa) Aug. 18. In the presence of their sixteen children, Mr. and Mrs. John Walker of Shenandoah, were last night married for the second time.

The Walkers were married years ago. The first time they lived together about thirty-five years and raised sixteen children.

Then differences arose. Two years ago they were divorced.

Shortly thereafter Walker married a widow with three children. They lived together only a short time when they were separated. There was another divorce.

Walker and his first wife finally settled their differences and last night were remarried. All the sixteen children attended the wedding.

"The Salt Lake saw that it held the whip hand, and it simply drove a hard bargain."

George Dunlop, representing the Municipal League, submitted yesterday that organization's union terminal plan, which suggests that a union depot be built at Sixth street, on the east bank of the Los Angeles River. This plan, many persons admit, would prove the most economical scheme yet presented, but it does not call for a terminal of any particular civic value, some think. It would eliminate grade crossings by a series of viaducts or trestles, and is not far different from the "Titcomb plan," except that it is several blocks farther from the business district, a thing which its opponents declare is one of the strongest arguments against it.

WOULD LET SANTA FE IN.

Mr. Titcomb indicated yesterday that the Southern Pacific and Salt Lake would permit the Pacific Electric to enter the union depot they propose, by viaduct from Sixth street, and that while they do not want to embrace the Santa Fe they would acquiesce to an order letting it in on a complete union terminal if such an order should be issued by the commission. It was made plain, however, that the two other steam roads would be expected to compensate the Southern Pacific for their share in the building of trestles to eliminate a number of grade crossings.

That the "Titcomb plan" accomplishes the elimination of all grade crossings along the Los Angeles

BUSINESS HIT BY CROQUETTES.

Dining-Car Delicacy is Crux of Damage Action Filed Against Railroad.

Chicken croquettes served on a Denver and Rio Grande dining car form the basis of a $40,000 damage suit filed yesterday in the United States District Court by Mrs. A. J. Wagoner, 4002 Central avenue.

Her health has been impaired, she asserts, because of ptomaine poisoning. Reparation from the railroad company and John Barton Payne, who was Federal Director-General of Railroads, is asked.

While traveling from Denver to Ogden, the plaintiff avers, she ate the croquettes and became ill. She was taken from the train at Elkton, Nev., for emergency treatment.

For several weeks she was in a hospital, according to her attorneys, Wilbert C. Hamilton and Otto C. Elgholz.

She has not since been able to conduct her confectionery and candy business properly, the complaint sets out, and financial loss has resulted.

SHOWS EVILS OF THE SINGLE TAX.

Weighty Arguments by Former Secretary of Treasury.

Proposed Law Would Bring Destructive Panic.

Financial Stability and Loan Values Endangered.

Striking at the single tax as the most destructive agent which today threatens the stability of State and national government, former Secretary of the Treasury Leslie M. Shaw in an address last night at Trinity Auditorium uttered a warning against its acceptance in the proposed amendment that will go on the ballot in November. He presented an array of convincing facts to show that the single tax plan had failed utterly wherever tried, and declared that it is unworkable as a scheme of fair taxation because it strikes at the inherent right of property possession. The former Cabinet member's auditors, who filled the big auditorium, warmly applauded his references to the cornerstone of American progress as being the confidence of the people in the soundness of America's basic laws.

"It is now proposed by single tax advocates that we destroy this confidence by destroying our tax system," he pointed out. "But my belief is that the desire of even that small portion of our disaffected people will not override their judgment in so vital a matter as this. The right that the American people enjoy to succeed and achieve is based on nothing so much as their right to hold their property once it is won."

E. P. Clark, a leader in the anti-single tax movement, introduced the distinguished speaker, who is touring the State in the interest of an educational campaign to expose the fallacy of single tax as an acceptable substitute for the present system of property taxation.

MATTER OF JUSTICE.

"The American people are inherently and intuitively honest and just," said Mr. Shaw. "Do you think it would be just, after granting the homesteader a patent title in fee simple now to adopt the policy proposed by Henry George and by levying a tax equal to its rental value deprive the land of all commercial value? Henry George called it 'taking the kernel and leaving the shell.'

"Thus far in our history, American people have sought to distribute the maintenance of government—that is to say, the burden of taxation—among all classes and conditions equitably and in proportion as each is able to pay. Does it appeal to your sense of justice now to shift this burden from all other forms of property and by force of this amendment destroy the market and commercial value of all productive as well as nonproductive real estate? Unless you think it just you surely will not vote for it.

"The experience of the ages has taught the wisdom, as a matter of public policy, of private ownership, and nothing but the doctrine that 'might makes right' will justify confiscation, or amendments to organic law stripping property of market value. Is it any more just to take the kernel and leave the shell, as Henry George explained the single tax scheme, than to take both kerne, and shell?

"Have you ever stopped to consider of what buildings consist, you laboring men? Buildings consist of iron, plus labor; clay, plus labor; limestone, plus labor; lumber in the forest, plus labor; sand for glass, plus labor. The transportation of all these products is mostly labor. Every building in California is 95 per cent labor.

COUNT COST OF LABOR.

"Let me suggest that before you join the single taxers in their efforts to deprive real estate of its commercial value and thereby render it impossible for the owners of real estate to borrow money with which to improve or to erect buildings thereon, would it not be wise to count the cost to labor? Have you ever known of a loan large enough to erect a building with no other security than the building itself? You have doubtless known of many loans with real estate as security sufficient to erect buildings. I venture to say that 90 per cent of all buildings erected in San Francisco and Los Angeles during the last twenty years have been 90 per cent borrowed capital.

"Imagine yourself, if you will, a small capitalist. The deposits of all savings banks, and the resources of all insurance companies and trust institutions, belong to capitalists, mostly small capitalists.

"Then assume that the pending single tax amendment prevails and the results predicted by Henry George follow, and land values cease longer to exist. Will you loan any of your money thereafter, taking California real estate as security? Have you any neighbors or friends who will loan money on California real estate after it ceases to have a market value? In this one respect, and only in this one respect, do both sides of the controversy agree. All agree that the effect of the single tax amendment will be exactly what Henry George said it would be. It will take the kernel and leave only the shell.

"Suppose a portion of your accumulated capital is already loaned on California real estate. Will you collect it when due, or at least attempt to collect it? Do you think the savings banks and life insurance companies are less prudent than you, or will they do the same as you? What will be the effect of a scramble for the collection of real estate mortgages?

WOULD BRING ON PANIC.

"Please hold the picture in your mind's eye and see it develop. What will you do if you have money on deposit in a savings bank and you know the bank has been loaning money on California real estate? Will you withdraw your funds at once, or will you take the risk that other depositors will precede you

Rates which will be charged to important points on the Pacific Electric routes under the 20 per cent increase authorized by the Railroad Commission were announced late last night by O. A. Smith, general passenger agent. The new schedule will be effective the 26th inst.

Announcement also was made that the 6-cent fare allowed by the State Railroad Commission will be put into effect at the same time. The 6-cent fare will apply on all local lines.

Under the blanket 20 per cent increase granted by the commission the zoning system cannot be put into operation and the fares on the South Side will be the same as those on the North Side.

Based on the company's last available figures, the increases in fares will mean a net gain of $1,284,000 per annum in the company's revenues. As originally estimated, the company hoped to increase its revenues by $1,760,000, but the striking out of the zoning system reduced the estimate by $110,000 and the commission's refusal to allow more than a 20 per cent increase in beach rates cut away $266,000 more which the company was anticipating.

Pacific Electric officials said last night that, although the commission's ruling did not measure up to their expectations, the new rates would be given a fair trial. The ruling provides for an eight-month survey of the company's operation, and at the end of that period, officials said, the exact remedial effect of the rates can be determined.

The officials stated emphatically last night that previous schedules of the new rates published in certain newspapers were unauthorized and worthless.

GET-TOGETHER SPIRIT BOOMED AT LUNCHEON.

MAYOR AGREES WITH MEMBERS OF COMMERCIAL BOARD ON NEED OF HARMONY.

All of the speakers at the Commercial Board's luncheon yesterday urged co-operation between the city officials and the business men. Mayor Snyder declared that this co-operation is essential. He said the city needs new buildings, needs a new City Hall, a civic center and a library, and that these things can be had only if all interests work together.

Councilman Fleming of the Harbor Committee told of the work being planned for the port. He declared this the greatest harbor on the Pacific Coast and asked that all business men assist in making it the most active.

E. C. Judah, chairman of the Commercial Board, made an earnest plea for co-operation. He declared this the era of industrial development and said the best progress can be made only by the organization of all manufacturing industries.

He declared that hysterical methods hurt everyone and that it is unpatriotic for the people to show fear for the future. He urged all members of the board to work in harmony with the Mayor and City Council so that this section of the State may prosper as it is entitled to by reason of its climate, location and wonderful natural resources.

LAND NEAR NILAND IN NEW HANDS.

Large Acreage in Imperial Valley Changes Owners for Price of Half-Million.

The sale of 3653 acres of the holdings of the Imperial Valley Farm Lands Association to Balfour-Guthrie & Co. was announced yesterday by Luther G. Brown, secretary and attorney of the association. The selling price of the property was reported as approximately $500,000. With the exception of the deal through which the Imperial Valley Farm Lands Association acquired 50,000 acres of land from the Southern Pacific, this is said to be the largest single transaction on record in Imperial Valley land. The tract purchased by Balfour-Guthrie & Co. lies in the center of a highly cultivated and productive district about three miles northeast of Calipatria.

Balfour-Guthrie & Co. was represented in the transaction by R. E. McLeod, general manager of the firm, while Luther G. Brown, attorney for the association, and Herbert L. Cornish, selling agent, represented the owners of the property.

The land purchased by Balfour-Guthrie & Co. forms a part of a tract of 10,000 acres which was leased by that company from the Imperial Valley Farm Lands Association five years ago. Since the negotiation of this lease, the property has been very successfully farmed by the present purchasers, who have produced large crops of wheat, barley, corn and cotton.

The holdings of the Imperial Valley Farm Lands Association, consisting in all of 50,000 acres, were purchased six years ago from the Southern Pacific by a syndicate of local business men. This property, located in the northern part of the valley, has been supplied with water through the association, and placed under cultivation. Later the towns of Niland and Calipatria were established and the region has developed rapidly until at present it is one of the most prosperous sections of the valley.

STAGE LINE ASKS RISE.

Pickwick Route Would Add to Fares From Here to Bay City.

The Pickwick Stages Northern Division, Inc., has filed an application with the State Railroad Commission to increase fares between points on the Coast division between Los Angeles and San Francisco.

C. F. Wren, manager of the Pickwick stages, could not be reached last evening. It was stated at his home, 631 South Bonnie Brae street, that he had gone to San Francisco with Niles C. Folsom, the company's auditor, to present the application for increased fares.

WOMAN GIVEN OFFICE.

First of Sex to be Made Deputy City Attorney Here.

City Attorney Charles H. Burnell yesterday appointed Miss Rose Phillips an assistant city attorney. This is the first appointment of a woman to this position in Los Angeles. Miss Phillips has been serving as deputy City Prosecutor. She will take office at once. Mr. Burnell said:

"I have long had in mind the creation of this post in the City Attorney's office. Miss Phillips is deserving of the promotion, but in addition to that I am convinced the women of Los Angeles are deserving of recognition because of the splendid advancement they have made in the legal profession, as well as in all other professions."

SEES PERIL IF POLAND LOSES.

Red Cross Worker Home from Warsaw Sounds Warning.

Even America Threatened if Russia Reaches Germany.

Thinks Petrograd, Tokio and Berlin Would Unite.

"If the Allies permit Poland to be crushed, a German-Bolshevist alliance will be the immediate result. Six months after the way to the vast storehouse of Russia is cleared to Germany, that country will lay down its terms to the Allies and dare them with the alternative of another world war. Already Germany is starting to aid Russia in its transportation problem, and the Poles fear the Germans far more than they fear the Russians.

"Bolshevist government simply is organized murder and robbery and is working such havoc in Russia that the country as a whole gladly would welcome a return of oligarchy or anything which would restore order—and the Germans are mighty good organizers. Give the Poles food, clothing and munitions and they will save themselves, and the rest of the world.

"We have been on fronts, where the Bolshevists outnumbered the Poles fifteen to one, yet the Poles were winning. Bolshevist armies are inefficient, like Bolshevist government. But Poland has been desperately short of ammunition for months. Unless the rest of the world aids Poland this coming fall and winter more than ever before there is going to be another world conflagration. Even America is threatened."

That was the startling message brought to Los Angeles by Col. and Mrs. Albert Chesley, who have just returned from Poland, where Col. Chesley was director of public health work for the American Red Cross since April, 1919, and has been American Red Cross commissioner, in charge of all American Red Cross work there, since last August.

MARRIED IN FEBRUARY.

Mrs. Chesley was Miss Placida Gardner, city bacteriologist of Los Angeles, before she went to France for the Red Cross. She went to Poland in April, 1919, where she has had charge of the American Red Cross laboratory work. She and Col. Chesley were married in Warsaw in February, but were too busy to start to America on their honeymoon until this summer. They are visiting Mrs. Chesley's mother, Mrs. E. H. Gardner, 1559 Vestal Drive, for about three weeks. Then they will go to Minneapolis, where Col. Chesley is to have charge of the division of preventable diseases of the Minnesota State Board of Health.

"For illustration of the ruin which inevitably follows Bolshevism, take the city of Kiev," said Col. Chesley. "Kiev used to have close to 1,000,000 inhabitants. Now it has about 350,000. Yet the city water plants operate only one hour a day.

AUTO BACKS OVER BEACH CITY CLIFF.

Hollywood Woman and Driver Pinned Under Wreckage.

Mrs. W. G. Haley, 1429 Laurel Canyon, Hollywood, and Paul Carsten, her chauffeur, are in a critical condition at St. Catherine Hospital, Santa Monica, the result of an automobile accident which occurred at the beach city early last night.

In attempting to turn the big closed car Carsten misjudged his distance and backed the machine off the cliff at the foot of Colorado avenue. The automobile and its occupants fell thirty feet to the hard pavement below. Both Mrs. Haley and Carsten were pinned beneath the demolished limousine and when removed to the hospital were found to be severely injured. Mrs. Haley has a broken jaw and serious internal injuries, the extent of which have not been determined. Carsten is suffering from a fractured skull.

PROMISE TO PUT OVER WAR MEMORIAL BONDS.

VETERANS OF THREE WARS AT WORKERS' RALLY PLEDGE AID IN CAMPAIGN.

Pledging unanimous support to the campaign to return an overwhelming majority for the bonds to build a Memorial Auditorium and a Civic Coliseum, more than 1000 earnest precinct workers last night overflowed the assembly hall at Normal Hill Center and received instructions for their work, which will terminate with the primary election on the 31st inst.

Mary Pickford, honorary colonel of the One Hundred and Forty-third Field Artillery, Douglas Fairbanks, Perry Weidner, Maj. Frank P. Doherty and Frank G. Tyrrell, all received tremendous applause when they commented on the municipal needs of Los Angeles, declaring that the two great projects would do most toward giving both citizens and visitors pleasure and profit.

Miss Pickford received a welcome which lasted several minutes and a bouquet which towered a foot above her head, when she responded to the welcome of the legionnaires on her first public appearance on her return from abroad. She, with her husband, pledged aid toward carrying the two bond elections.

Every Kind of Music to Suit Every Taste and Occasion Accurately Played on the

Chickering AMPICO Reproducing Piano

THE versatility of this humanly perfect instrument has won for it the distinction of appealing to all music lovers. Those who enjoy operatic arias and the classics have at their command such far-famed artists as Godowsky, Rachmaninoff, Ornstein, Levitski, Moiseivitch and Copeland.

For those who prefer the lighter gems there are delightful selections that breathe the spirit of mirth and beauty. Then from vaudeville favorites come the popular numbers with a peculiar fascination for those who like to dance.

DOROTHY DIX TALKS

BRINGING UP MOTHER.

BY DOROTHY DIX.

"There are a great many advantages in having a family," said a woman the other day, "and not the least of them is the advantage of being properly brought up by your children.

"Of course we talk a lot of nonsense about the influence of parents over their children. That is only to save our faces. All of us who have children know that they influence us, and shape our lives a thousand times more than we do theirs.

"And I am not referring to the moral uplift of children, either, though every baby inculcates in its parents a Spartan system of ethics that begins with self-abnegation and self-sacrifice and walking the colic and ends with self-control and refraining from doing things we would like to do, but don't do, because we would be ashamed for the children to see us doing them.

"Now, I mean that it is our children who are a perpetual college extension course to us, who bring us up to date, and keep us there, who alter our method of living, teach us the new pronunciation and see to it that we are kept on the firing line—that is, if they are good children, imbued with a fitting sense of their responsibility and with a conscientious desire to do their duty by their father and mother.

"When I see a middle-aged woman I can tell at a glance whether she has been properly brought up by her daughters or not. If she has, she has on just the right width skirt, and young-looking shoes, and the most expensive corset, and her hair is waved, and her nose is powdered, and she belongs to clubs and reads the six best sellers, and refrains from reminiscences of the complications of diseases from which her Aunt Susan passed away.

"For her Anne Maria's critical eyes have censored her costume, her Anne Maria's skillful hands have done up her hair. Her Anne Maria's scornful young voice has said, 'For heaven's sake, Mamma, what do you think anybody wants to hear all of those post-mortems for!'

"And Mamma meekly wears what Anne Maria picks out for her, and governs her conversation according to Anne Maria's code, for of all people in the world there are none before whom we so ardently desire to shine as our own children.

"But if a woman has no daughters, or has daughters who neglect her education and permit her to grow middle-aged without their guidance she is apt to dress sloppily and comfortably, to comb her hair the easiest way and to gossip about the things she is personally interested in, regardless of their affect upon her listener.

"For, alas, she has no Anne Maria to lay a restraining hand upon her and steer her flat-heeled feet into the right road.

"It is not to be denied that as the years go by we are apt to slump unless we have children who are on the job of properly bringing up their parents. We grow careless about our appearance and about our speech. We fall into "ways," and just because of our age no one has the authority or courage to bring us to book, and make us correct faults, except our children.

"They have no finicky delicacy about going for our most sacred feelings with a meat ax. They represent the brutal candor of a near relation raised to its highest power, and thus our olive branches literally become rods that scourge us into the straight and narrow path.

"Now Providence has blessed me with a daughter who regards it as her mission in life to keep me up to the mark, and who is a severe, but kindly critic of all of my faults and frailities, and I often wonder what would have become of me if I had not had the benefit of her careful rearing.

"Very likely, in my besotted ignorance, I should still have been playing Chopin instead of ragtime and jazz, and in composing a meal, I should have gone on putting together the dishes that taste well instead of considering whether I was getting a properly balanced ration. And, likely as not, I should have gone to my grave without finding out whether a calorie was a new brand of canned goods or an esoteric religion.

"And it makes me blush to think of how many words I pronounced incorrectly, and how many books I loved that are not real literature at all, when tested by the highest standards, and how atrocious my taste in household decoration and dress was, and how little I understood about the lines—or curves—of my figure.

"Fortunately, my Anne Maria took me in hand in time. She gently, but firmly, corrected my faults, and supplied me with a 1920 model vocabulary, with a fair sprinkling of up-to-date slang, and a new wardrobe with short skirts and high-heeled shoes. She also obligingly refurnished the house in period furniture, and has taught me how to keep house with a budget, and cooking-school cooking, which does not taste as well as my original brand, but is doubtless better for our digestions.

"I understand that Anne Maria thinks well of her job of bringing me up, and brags of me to her friends as an example of what a conscientious daughter can do with a mother when she gives her mind to it.

"I cannot say that I have invariably enjoyed the educational advantages I have been privileged to have thrust upon me, but I have one comfort. Anne Maria is about to be married. Some time she will have a daughter of her own, and then she will get her come-uppance."

MAKING MORE MONEY.

An Obvious, But Novel Method.

"WHAT'S the one thing that people object to in buying meat?" John Bommer, of Hazleton, Pa., asked his brother one day about six months ago.

"Unsanitary conditions," was the prompt reply.

"Right you are!" replied the elder Bommer, "and the man who can remedy these will be the man who can land the bulk of the meat trade of any territory. Do you want to go in with me on an experiment? We'll buy a wagon—a regular delivery wagon—and have it fitted up by a carpenter. The cost won't be much, but the value will be considerable. We'll line it with metal sheeting, making the whole thing waterproof, put ice chests at either end and swing a glass lid over the whole thing. Then we can put the meat in the bottom of the wagon, slap down the lid and make certain that everything will be dirtproof and dustproof no matter how long we are out. A drain pipe at the bottom of the ice chests will complete the apparatus. Then we can drive around the country, bringing the refrigerator right up to the doors of everybody that wants to buy meat and giving ourselves a splendid sales argument in the bargain. How about it? Do you want to get in on the idea?"

"I'd like to," replied the young Bommer, "but it sounds risky to me. Are you certain that we can build up a line of trade that would be really worth while?"

"I'm so sure of it that I'm willing to gamble a couple weeks' pay fixing up the wagon. It's a chance to run a business without an expensive overhead, and the people will be certain to see the advantages of having meat delivered, cold and fresh and clean, at their doors."

Now the Bommer Brothers are devoting themselves exclusively to the sale of meat, delivered by this refrigerator on wheels, and they intend to place orders for at least two more of the traveling stores. They hit upon one of those ideas for making more money which are so obvious that everybody overlooked it.

GASOLINE ALLEY—IN WHICH WALT SPRINGS A FEW ALIBIS

LETTERS TO "THE TIMES."

Tell the Truth.

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 16.—[To the Editor of The Times:] As I have noticed that several of the newspapers in various cities and towns of the country, have printed alarming reports of the recent earthquake shocks felt here and that in one or two instances letters from alarmists have been printed, it occurs to me that all loyal citizens of the city should do something to counteract the bad influence.

Many residents here came from other States and other towns, and it would certainly be a good thing if everybody who has eastern connections would write a short letter to the home town paper and tell exactly and clearly the truth about the quakes. Make the letter short, and ask your old friend the editor to print it and you will be doing your adopted home a very great favor.

We all know that if the truth were known Los Angeles would not suffer so join with me and help get the truth back where it will do the most good. Write the letter today.

J. Y. TODD.

Do you realize that it is impossible here for several weeks to have delivery of mail to the day following the mailing? If you doubt this statement, try it. LITCH SUIT REVIVAL.

Andrews & Co. Say State Decided Issue Against Plaintiff.

The suit for $16,875 instituted by Thomas K. Litch against Andrews & Co. is a revival of an issue which was decided against the plaintiff more than two years ago, according to A. E. Shifferman, secretary of the investment company.

"Andrews & Co. are not concerned over the suit," said Mr. Shifferman last night. "Mr. Litch made complaint to the commissioner of corporations in July, 1918, concerning the transaction mentioned in his suit and after a complete investigation the commissioner decided he was entitled to no relief. At that time we had $25,000 in securities deposited with the commissioner to assure the liquidation of any claims decided against us, but Mr. Litch was awarded no part of it."

Notice to Parents!

San Diego Army and Navy Academy

The Academy has enjoyed for years the highest recognition from the Colleges and from the War Department; it is the University of California's "Division A," the highest academic rating; the War Department rates it as Class "M" a real military school; its graduates, on appointment, are exempted from the regular military examination at West Point.

The deep heart interest in a boy, the spirit of good fellowship, the great amount of individual care and attention given the student, the Academy's genuinely democratic atmosphere and absolute freedom from snobbishness—these are some of the features that are so strongly appealing to red-blooded young Americans and to discriminating parents.

Special Overstuffed Offerings

Among the beautiful and dignified living-room furniture displayed on two floors of this store you will find that overstuffed pieces have a prominent place. This luxurious furniture is offered in both temporary and permanent coverings.

Buying a living-room suite in covert covering and having us recover it in material selected from our wide assortment of such goods is an advantage appreciated by many. It results in a harmony of color that is often difficult to get in any other way.

If one can find among furniture already upholstered just the desired piece, two marked advantages result. The piece is ready for immediate delivery and the purchaser knows exactly how it will appear. Studio of Furniture Decoration Now Open

We are opening on our eighth floor a studio of furniture decoration. This work has been done for us in the past by a talented artist and has grown in popularity to such a degree that we have found it expedient to have him and his assistants under our own roof where his services are now entirely at the disposal of our customers. His work consists in the decoration of all furniture, dainty bedroom and breakfast suites and the coloring of reed furniture. This work will be done to order for our patrons when desired.

PRIMER POLITICS.

The vari-hued Cox chickens which are flocking homeward to roost in increasing numbers as the campaign progresses indicates that a person never can be too careful. He never knows when he may want to run for President.

THE DARK MEAT.

Railway employees in Jamaica have gone on a strike because they were placed under a white inspector. If there is any inspecting to be done it must be in the hands of the brunettes or else our supply of Jamaica ginger will be late.

THE MOONSHINERS.

One Kansas moonshiner made $32,000 in seventeen days before his still was found by Federal officials and put out of business. A smooth-working still is as good as an oil gusher for quick results. About 600 stills have already been found in Kansas and it is safe to presume that as many have not yet been located. Moonshining has become the national sport.

MARS IS TALKING AGAIN.

Camille Flammarion, the eminent French astronomer, says that Mars is trying to signal us again. Either the Martians are incorrigibly loquacious or they have some message of immense importance which they have been trying to communicate to us for the last century or so. One guess is as good as another and ours is that they have a recipe for squelching the single-taxers.

THE SAVING SENSE.

The Brooklyn magistrate who declared that prohibition is a joke must be one of those sunny persons who would find something funny in his own case of mumps. Now if the man who lost the treasured contents of his cellar when the gas man came to read the meter and the unfortunate who bought a quart of hundred-proof cold tea for fifteen large, round, iron men can just see the humor of it everybody will be happy.

NOT MUCH HOPE.

There are more than a million and a quarter registered voters in California and 780,000 of them are proud to officially record themselves as Republicans, while but 282,500 are registered as Democrats. Those who do not give their party designation number 143,000. If most of these should turn out to be Democrats the Republicans would still have them snowed under by a vote of more than two to one. It is hard to imagine the Cox shouters finding a place to hang up their hats.

A PARTY AFFAIR.

A woman politician instructs her sisters to choose their party and stick to it—tooth and nail. But the records of the divorce courts show that women are not always good pickers and that many times they cannot get along with the party they have chosen. Then if they try to hang on with tooth and nail the party will retaliate by turning in and beating them up with both fists. The party takes its own part. Every woman should try to get the right party.

HAMSTRINGING SAN FRANCISCO.

Building in San Francisco is at a standstill again because of the war between the master masons and the bricklayers. The war started when the bricklayers demanded a union inspector for the new Carnegie library work and declined to lay any bricks until the inspector was produced. If it had not been this it would have been something else—in San Francisco. When the Bay City adopts the Los Angeles method of self-development through the liberty of its workers there will be less sorrowful reading for it in the census returns.

WILLIAM THE NOISY.

In a published statement made from Lincoln, Neb., three months ago William Jennings Bryan declared that Gov. Cox had easily won the dishonor he sought as the leader of the wets; that, after disgracing his State, Cox aspired to a position in which he could disgrace the nation; that the men who encourage the liquor traffic are the real anarchists of the country—far more dangerous than the professional anarchists; that Cox is their candidate and why should any Democrat be willing to support a man whose nomination is an insult to the conscience of the nation? That his election would turn the White House over to those who defy the government and hold the law in contempt.

The words are those of William the Unsilent, the Nebraska nemesis, and they indicate very plainly why Bryan cannot be expected to take the stump for the Democratic nominee. Bryan is a lusty trencherman, but he does not like to eat his own words, and if he attempted to speak now for Cox some one would drag out his previous statements and set them before him at every meeting place. Nothing that Gov. Cox has explained or promised since May has in any manner changed the facts upon which Bryan based his words and opinions. That he is now the chosen leader of Democracy cannot alter to the Bryan mind the circumstance that Cox is "more dangerous to the country than the professional anarchist" and that his election would be "the triumph of those who defy the government and hold the law in contempt."

Bryan and his following have definitely parted company with the Cox Democracy.

JOURNALISM AND POLITICAL TACT.

These are the days when journalism, and especially Ohio journalism, is at the front and in the limelight. The world has just bid farewell to a grand old man, who lived and died essentially a journalist—William Dean Howells, the loved "Dean of American Letters," born in an obscure Ohio town. By the time he was 14 years of age, his father, who was a newspaper man, got a political post at the State capital in Columbus and continued his labors as a pressman. The lad became a hustling reporter when most lads are still at school, and was in his teens an expert compositor, able to set up a translation from the Spanish directly, as he "Englished" the pages. Making a success with a life of Abraham Lincoln, when Lincoln was running for the Presidency, he was able to transfer his activities to the literary center of Boston, where he met the notables of the time, Longfellow, Emerson, Holmes, Lowell. He was able to secure a Consulship abroad at Venice, just at the beginning of the Civil War, and was thus serenely aloof from the agencies of that gigantic struggle. The result was that his note always remained particularly feminine, interpreting everything through the calm atmosphere of his study. Moreover, in studying continental literature, he was less at home than he ought to have been in the best English literature.

The continental valuation of English poets and writers is strangely twisted. While a thinking Englishman looks for wisdom and teaching—particularly in Tennyson, who was much of a political seer, in Matthew Arnold, who carried on the fine standards of this great father Thomas Arnold, instructor of statesmen, in Browning, in Kipling, the benighted continental has use only for Byron. Here is the estimate of English values in authorship, culled from a recent issue of a Berlin journal, Die Gloecke: "Except for Shakespeare, who is so difficult for school use, there are Byron, Scott, Dickens, yes, perhaps Cooper and Marryat. Then we have Macaulay, Carlyle, Spenser, and modern writers in history and philosophy. Their one great man is Byron, who directed the darts of his sarcasm against the middle class morality of his homeland from abroad. But how uninspiring and flat is modern British literature! How repulsive is its cant, its prudery and its national arrogance. Think of Kipling!" The doctor of philosophy, Carl Hedicke, who wrote these lines was giving forth the common ignorance among up-to-date foreigners of the real strength of English literary thought. Macaulay was a brilliant writer but a singularly superficial thinker, who thought he was a Utilitarian, but was not. Carlyle was a cracked "Hun" bell long before his death, and Spenser is already a back number. The less said of Dickens as a teacher and consistent thinker the better; he was an out-and-out sentimentalist.

Consequently when our Ohio journalist came back to his native land in the 60's, he was well prepared to see the eccentricities and the superficial life of the republic, by comparison with European manners, but not the realities. He became a wonderful depicter of American life, in a way that appealed to the world at large. Probably his novel, "A Modern Instance," published in 1882, is the ablest portrayal of American local manners in the half-century after the Civil War. Bartley Hubbard, Judge Gaylord, the Halleck family, and particularly Marcia, the heroine, are personages who seem to live and move. But the one fatal defect is that Bartley, the leading character, begins and ends so completely a "cad." He is unworthy to be the husband of his idealistic wife. When old man Kinney, a peculiarly American type, comes from the backwoods to visit Bartley and his wife at Boston, the illusion is complete. "Why, it's been like heaven to me to get into such a home as this for a day—it has, indeed," he tells Marcia in confidence. And, feeling safe "among gentlemen"—to use his own words—he pours forth his recollections which he intends to put into the form of a story one of these days.

This is really the crisis of the story, which is a study in degradation. Bartley uses the material to write an article that will pay him well, gets the money, buys some elegant things for his wife and baby, but loses the respect of his friends, and is despised by his wife. All because he did not know how to behave like a "gentleman;" a very serious and dignified word, if properly understood, lying at the very base of our modern institutions. Henceforth his descent is swift.

And yet, William Dean Howells, under the literary spell of the Russian wizard, Tolstoi, who has by his reckless sentimentalism wrought such havoc in that great empire, goes back on the word. In his essay on the Count he reaches the limit of eulogy. "As much as one merely human being can help another," he declares, "he has helped me; he has not influenced me in esthetics only, but in ethics, too, so that I can never again see life in the way I saw it before I knew him. Tolstoi awakens in his reader the will to be a man; not effectively, not spectacular but simply; really. He leads you back to the only true ideal, away from the false standard of the gentleman, to the Man who sought not to be distinguished from other men."

The wise conservative may well return, with deep satisfaction, from this false sentimentalism to the well-considered words of the English poet laureate; in the tribute he pays to his dead friend, Arthur Hallam:

For who can always act? but he,
To whom a thousand memories call,
Not being less but more than all
The gentleness he seem'd to be.

So wore his outward best, and join'd
Each office of the social hour,
To noble manners, as the flower
And native growth of noble mind;

Nor ever narrowness or spite,
Or villain fancy fleeting by,
Drew in the expression of an eye,
Where God and Nature met in light.

And thus he bore without abuse
The grand old name of gentleman,
Defamed by every charlatan,
And soil'd with all ignoble use.

The world is not likely to change this "gentle" type in which it trusts for the tender mercies of the Russian Bolshevist.

Of course, the average speed fiend does not consider himself a fool. On the contrary, he thinks himself exceedingly clever. A long jail sentence for such clever criminals might help some.

"Thanks So Much!"

NO NEED TO GRUMBLE.

People from really hot regions such as Kansas, Michigan, New York and districts almost as hot as the place where the gentleman with horns holds his court must be quite surprised to find fortunate Angelenos grumbling at the warm weather. Conditions here are idyllic as compared with the East in summer. There is just a suggestion of ardor in the atmosphere which gives a pleasant taste to life. Nobody who has ever experienced really torrid weather can truthfully call the Southland's August hot. Delightfully warm is the nearest truthful description. Here we have no "desolating fury of sunshines," but a sure and steady heat tempered by a breeze from the ocean, so cool at times that one imagines it must have swept past the snowy summit of one of Hawaii's extinct volcanoes on its way eastward. There are some parts of the United States where poor, heat-tortured people get little relief night or day. Here in Los Angeles a man can wear without discomfort during the day a three-piece suit and at night he wants to get within the covers in order to keep snug and warm. Is it any wonder that the trains from the East still bring daily to this delightful land people who have grown tired of sun-baked prairies or sidewalks like furnaces? They smile when they read the local reports of "hanging up a new record" for warmth. They have experienced real heat in their own home towns and on their way to this cool coast and they realize that they have come to a land where every prospect pleases and the weather is just right.

TRADE WITH RUSSIA.

All the big manufacturing countries are looking forward to trade with Russia. The three big Scandinavian countries, Sweden, Norway and Denmark, have already received deposits in gold from the soviet government to this end. Germany looks to the Russian market as the chief asset for rehabilitating her industries. France expects Russian trade to help restore her fortunes. England and the United States are both laying plans to capture their share.

By which it will be seen that, notwithstanding the grievous crisis through which Russia is passing, the world obviously believes in her ultimate recovery, in her restoration to place and power, in the convalescence of the Russian ruble and Russian good faith.

Perhaps the wish is father to the thought, but there is evidently a very strong thought afloat to the effect that Russia's troubles are about over. Wherefore it is interesting to remember that in days gone by trade with Russia was ever fraught with infinite courtesy, good feeling and satisfaction. The Russian used to be a pleasant chap to do business with. Either he believed in you or he didn't. When he believed in you he trusted you absolutely, without suspicion, bickering or querulousness. If he didn't believe in you he just did not do any business with you and that settled it. He had a reputation for always paying his debts on time, meeting every obligation, accepting unavoidable mistakes in good part and co-operating pleasantly in every difficulty. It is to be hoped that the Bolshevist interlude has not spoiled his fundamental virtues and that, even under a soviet regime, his manners will remain as wholly desirable.

Nor were his virtues restricted to buying. He sold well. It was rare indeed to find Russian goods below standard, rather was he renowned for a scrupulous regard to quality, quantity and good faith. If he has not lost these virtues the Russian ruble will not take long to recover its exchange value. France is now negotiating for a resumption of trade with Russia on the basis of payment of old debts. France and Russia have been close friends for, lo, these many years. French is the language of most educated Russians. Russian loans floated in France before the war were subscribed overnight. Russia's obligations to France, not only to the government, but to individual Frenchmen, are tremendous. If, therefore, Russia fully and freely accepts these old obligations to France it will be excellent evidence that her business morals are unimpaired, whatever her political morals may be. And, judging from the alert competition for Russia's trade favors, there is little doubt that the world believes in the ultimate virtue of Russia.

ECONOMY, NOT PARSIMONY.

Led by the Los Angeles county Chamber of Commerce and other industrial and commercial associations, a new campaign is on to secure the ratification of $95,000 in bonds necessary to establish a permanent Federal Balloon School at Arcadia. Last year the Legislature indorsed this project, but, under the Constitution, it must be submitted to the electorate of Los Angeles county for final decision. This procedure is eminently just, for it is Los Angeles county that must raise in taxes the money to retire those bonds. But the bonds failed to receive the requisite two-thirds majority by a scant few hundred votes in May.

Feeling that the bonds were not ratified because the electorate of the county did not understand fully the nature of the project, the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce is making a campaign of education in order to avoid a second failure on primary election day this month. The bond money will be used to purchase the ground where the temporary balloon school is now located and turn it over to the Federal government. Government officials have promised that the school will be made a permanent institution if Los Angeles county will donate the site.

Argument of the value of the balloon school as a part of the scheme of Pacific Coast defense can be dispensed with; for its necessity is self-evident. The local Chamber of Commerce and kindred associations are composed of the heaviest taxpayers in the county. If it were a useless expense they would not be campaigning to assess themselves for the additional tax burden. But when one considers that the school disburses more than $500,000 annually it becomes apparent that, viewed solely as a business proposition, it would be good business to keep the balloon school at Arcadia.

The position of The Times in regard to additional expenditures of the money of the taxpayers is well understood. But ecohomy must not be pushed to the point of parsimony. Maintaining the balloon school at Arcadia is desirable from every legitimate point of view. It may be argued that the government ought to buy the site; but that argument was used at Camp Kearny, and Camp Kearny has passed into history.

IS EUROPE DYING?

Before the war the supermen of Germany were all primed to make this the best of all possible worlds, with Deutschland uber alles. Under the beneficent rule of the intellectual Teutons the rest of Europe was to mount from one state of bliss to another. The Rhine was to become the river of life and the entire world was to be rejuvenated. But when the unexpected and, to the Germans, the incomprehensible happened, and the Teutonic armies were defeated, the Germans were plunged from the heights of optimism to the lowest depths of pessimism. The world which they had planned should proceed so well under them is now, they believe, to go to the devil. The sad and sorry view which they now take of things in general and of Europe in particular has found expression in a remarkable book which prophesies the death of western civilization. The author is Oswald Spengler, and his book, "Untergang des Abendlandes," is described as one of the best sellers in German-reading Europe. No copies of the book are known to have reached Los Angeles, but a review published in the Living Age of Boston gives one an idea of the work of an author who has been hailed by his countrymen as "a thinker of wonderful scholarship, a poet of inspired vision, who seemingly, following strictly scientific methods and citing a wealth of pertinent evidence, predicts the decline and disappearance of our proud, self-confident western civilization." Herr Spengler kindly advises us to prepare calmly for the end and declares that we shall die conscious and shall study every stage of our dissolution with the keen eye of an experienced physician. If Germany had beaten France and humbled Britain, had it come over and settled with impudent America, as the Kaiser threatened, and had it mounted to the heights of imperial world sway, would Herr Spengler today be filled with such black melancholy and such cold resignation? In the language of the poet we trow not and so at present will decline to prepare the funeral-baked meats.

LA FUMEUSE.

BY ALMA WHITAKER.

"La Fumeuse," meaning a lady-smoker, which, of course, there is no such thing, is causing much hectic debate in club circles just now. Shall the creature's existence be conceded recognition or shall she be treated with scorn and properly ignored?

Two big clubs are passing on building plans at this time—the Friday Morning Club's new and sumptuous edifice and the new Woman's Athletic Club. In both cases some graceless females have advocated the inclusion of a smoking-room. At first the idea was regarded as a flippant pleasantry, but it has become shockingly evident that it is no joke. And the matter has duly gone into debate.

"A smoking-room, indeed! Certainly not," snorted one indignant member of the Friday Club. "Since when has the Friday Club been associated with that type of person, I should like to know?"

"Oh, lots of women smoke and lots of members of the club, too. Why not? Most of their husbands and sons do. Why be hypocrites about it? The new clubhouse should cater to the comfort and happiness of all its members and those that don't smoke can keep out of the smoking-room," retorted one of the graceless tribe.

"I don't believe it and, if they do, they ought to be ashamed of themselves. The Friday Club caters to intellectual pleasure and progress and should set its face sternly against anything vulgar."

"Is it vulgar for men to smoke?"

"It is a nasty habit and why should women copy it? It doesn't do any good."

"Oh yes, it does. It is soothing, aids concentration and gives one a pleasant feeling of restful occupation while thinking."

"I don't believe it. No nice women smoke."

"How do you know? Have you ever tried it?"

"Tried it! I should say not. How dare you? It is disgusting."

"Then you are not in a position to know what you are talking about. Besides, lots of nice women do smoke, but at present they have to be hypocrites and do it on the sly. They don't happen to have confided in you, that's all."

"I shall resign from the club if a smoking-room is included."

"And I shall withdraw my contribution to the building fund if it isn't."

At this point the "mild reservationist" contributes to the argument.

"I don't see why women should not smoke if they want to," says this member sweetly, "but why deliberately incorporate it in the Friday Club? Now I think it will be quite all right for the new Athletic Club to have a smoking-room."

"Oh, do you? Well, I don't," remarks one of the charter members of that Athletic Club. "I would not countenance it for a moment."

"And I would not join the thing if I thought it was going to be that sort of a Y.W.C.A.," snorts another prospective charter member. "They told me it was to be like San Francisco's Woman's Athletic Club—and they all smoke up there."

"And more shame to them, then. What has smoking to do with athletics?"

And so the merry controversy goes on.

"Los Angeles is so progressive it surprises me to hear this out-of-date argument," murmurs the New York ex-patriot. "Smoking has ceased to be a novelty with our New York women, and nearly all the European women smoke, you know."

"And precious little good it does them," retorts the entirely nice Californian. "I should hate to see any daughter of mine smoke."

"Your son is quite a heavy smoker, I believe," smiles the New Yorker, "and cigarettes, too, which are so absurdly feminine."

This nearly precipitated a fight, only deflected in the nick of time by the mild reservationist.

"Why not take a poll of the smokers and if they are in a majority—"

"What about the rights of honest and respectable minorities? Aren't they helping to build the clubhouse? If they are so impossible, are you going to refuse their munificent donations? And, besides, you know very well that under the present hypocritical conditions half the smokers would not dare acknowledge it."

"There is the W.C.T.U., you know. They expect to bring in tobacco prohibition very soon, and it would be a pity to have a superfluous smoking-room on the premises."

"Are we, then, an adjunct of the W.C.T.U.?"

"But, my dear, aside from that, I don't think our husbands would like us to have a smoking-room and, after all, most of us are still financed by our husbands."

"Nonsense! Most of the women that smoke were taught to by their husbands, smoke with their husbands cigarettes presented by their husbands. The husband bogey is out of date. Do I understand that the club never acts without a poll of the husbands?"

"My husband does not smoke."

"And has no other vices, either, I suppose. Personally, I find it desirable to cultivate at least one small vice, otherwise one becomes such a prig."

"My dear!!!"

"Well, I admit that some women can't afford to smoke. But all the absolutely irreproachable ones like ourselves can, and it helps to make us human. Most of the most competent business men smoke, and as for our Legislatures, they are largely comfortable smoking dens. I rather think we need a little smoke to soften off our resolutions, soothe our asperities, deodorize our opinions and train our throats so they won't cough objectionably when we are elected to those Legislatures."

"The meeting is now adjourned. The building committee will pass upon the plans," sweetly announces the chairman of the occasion.

Left debating—and hoping—both ways.

AMERICANS BACKBONE OF WARSAW DEFENSE.

BY LEE SHIPPEY.

Although all the world is tremendously interested in the fate of Poland, the sympathies of America especially should be with the defenders of Warsaw in this crisis because the backbone of the Polish army is made up of American citizens, men who mean Chicago or Detroit or Los Angeles or some other American city when they speak of home; men who were among the first Americans to land in France to take part in the World War for liberty, but who did not stop when the others did Nov. 11, 1918. Instead, while all the other Americans were clamoring to go home "toot sweet," those Americans of Polish extraction eagerly asked: "When do we start for the Fatherland." While many of the original force have been killed in action and many others replaced, it is still known as the Polish-American Legion.

Impelled by their hereditary dream of liberty for the country which shamefully had been wrested from their forefathers by Russia and Prussia and from which their sires had been driven by Russian oppression, Americans of Polish origin began the organization of a legion early in the World War. More than 60,000 strong, that legion went to France under command of Gen. Haller, on whom the hope of saving Warsaw in the present crisis rests. They were given sky-blue uniforms, like the French, and were brigaded with the French, but they were bigger men, as a rule, and they wore the eagle of Poland and were known as the Polish Legion. They fought heroically against the Germans, many of them winning the Croix de Guerre and some the Medaille Militaire and the Legion d'Honneur, the highest honors in the gift of France.

Then the war ended—for perhaps 25,000,000 other soldiers—but not for those 60,000. While all the others were celebrating, with all the strain over and discipline relaxed, cannon still boomed, rifles still cracked and machine guns still sputtered on the ranges of the camps at LeMans and elsewhere where the Poles were concentrated, and Gen. Haller at once began preparations for taking his men across the hitherto impassable barrier of Germany.

It was strange to hear those men, under the Polish flag, dressed in French uniforms, in conversations in English, replete with American slang, talking of Poland with deep and fervent reverence. Many of them had never seen the martyred country, many others had emigrated from it in their early youth. But all of them knew and were proud of its illustrious history. They boasted of the times before when Poland had stood, as it stands today, the bulwark of civilization, once against the vandals of Central Europe and once against the hosts of Islam. They knew of the time when the Polish court was perhaps the most brilliant in Europe, the home of chivalry and culture and wit and beauty. They knew how relentlessly Russia had striven to crush out every vestige of the once-proud Polish nationalism, forbidding even the use of the Polish language. Then, just to show how their patriotism had triumphed over Russian tyranny, they would begin speaking Polish instead of English.

Germany had learned much more of international law then than it had when its armies started through Belgium. It protested that it could not permit the Polish Legion to cross its territory to fight people with whom it was at peace, so only the hospital and Red Cross and Y.M.C.A. supplies crossed Germany by train. The Legion took the longer, slower trip by ship. It arrived in Poland in the spring of 1919—and it has been in battle virtually ever since.

RIPPLING RHYMES.

EVERGREEN.

You'd say I'm in the yellow leaf,
If you should count my years; but I don't travel much with grief or slosh around in tears, and so I work a gorgeous bluff that's based on seemly mirth, and people say I'm young enough for anything on earth.
I have all kinds of pea-green pains along my legs and back; but when a lot of Jakes and Janes are calling at my shack, on maladies I waste
no words, I don't discourse of woes;
I talk of hams and humming birds and cheerful things like those. A man is old when he begins to talk of ailments dire, to sigh all day and toast his shins before a fitful fire.
A man grows old when he is prone to boost the vanished time, to view the present with a groan and swear it is a crime. If I should live eight hundred years, composing helpful rhymes, as Noah and such prophets hung on in ancient times, I'd still be young as I am now, though outwardly defaced, with heavy furrows on my brow and whiskers to my waist. For when I see what old men do I do the other thing; their vain replinings I eschew and whoop around and sing. WALT MASON.

Force of Habit.

"Now, that fellow has some sense!" exclaimed Mr. Dubwaite, triumphantly.

"You mean the man you were talking to just now?"

"Yes. When I gave him my views on the high cost of living, the political situation in America and the reconstruction problems of Europe he agreed to everything I said."

"Umph! That was mere force of habit. The man is employed as an attendant in an insane asylum, where it is the rule never to argue with a patient."—[Birmingham Age-Herald.

He Hadn't Seen It.

Lotion Horton, the milk king, was talking at a New York dinner about the modern woman's "ultra" gowns.

"A profiteer," he said, "was dressing the other evening for the opera when his wife stalked into his dressing-room.

"'Here you are,' she hissed, 'a war profiteer getting 300 per cent dividends, and I've got only one decent dress.'

"He turned and looked her up and down; then he said:

"'Well, I wish to goodness you'd wear it!'"—[Pittsburg Chronicle-Telegraph.

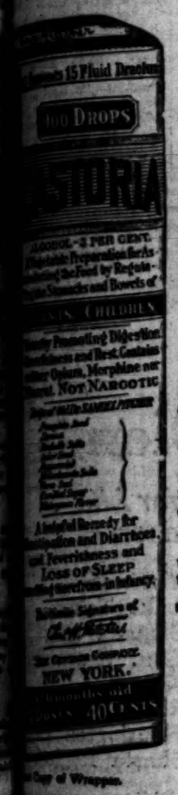
baby. A little child. Don't they appeal to you? Doesn't your heart yearn to pick them up, to cuddle them close to you, to shield them all harm? sure it does else you're not human. Being human you love them. Their very helplessness makes you reach out in all your strength to aid. In health there's no flower so beautiful. In illness there's no night so dear.

Love them then. Use every precaution. Take no chance. When sickness comes, as sickness will, remember it's just a baby, just a child. If the Physician isn't at hand don't try some remedy that you may find in the house for your own use.

Fletcher's Castoria was made especially for babies' ills and you can use with perfect safety as any doctor will tell you. Keep it in the house.



Children Cry For Fletcher's CASTORIA

Do the People Know?

Do you know why you are asked to call for Fletcher's Castoria when you want a child's remedy: why you must insist on Fletcher's?

For years we have been explaining how the popularity of Fletcher's Castoria has brought out innumerable imitations, substitutes and counterfeits.

To protect the babies: to shield the homes and in defense of generations to come we appeal to the better judgment of parents to insist on having Fletcher's Castoria when in need of a child's medicine. And remember above all things that a child's medicine is made for children—a medicine prepared for grown-ups is not interchangeable. A baby's food for a baby. And a baby's medicine is just as essential for the baby.

The Castoria Recipe (it's on every wrapper) has been prepared by the same hands in the same manner for so many years that the signature of Chas. H. Fletcher and perfection in the product are synonymous.

THE NEW.

IN STORES AND HOMES.

NOVELTIES, IDEAS AND PRACTICAL SUGGESTIONS.

By Olive Gray.

Up-to-Datest:

The outstanding, sacque-like coat for the fall and winter suit.

Or the jacket with ripple skirt, flaring out from the normal waistline or the waistline slightly raised.

The eye-brow hat: No, not exactly high-brow, although she who selects this hat is likely to be quite fashionwise.

Skirts short, shortest and the superlative in short—for little girls. This is the manifesto of la mode for youthful members of the well-dressed set.

Now is the Time to Buy:

The suit for early fall, before the new is worn off the mode. The woman who cares likes to be slightly in advance in acceptance of the mode's demand.

The final wants for household in the way of rugs, furniture, draperies which will create winter coziness at summer cost. That drapery sale is especially inviting.

The long-intended player piano. Should not the fact that a house has sold a carload of these instruments in three days spell something of a reason for purchasing?

The Knitted:

Has there ever been a time when things knitted, whether by machinery or by hand, have been so popular as now? From knitted underwear to knitted hats and including everything femininely wearable, the craze for the knitted is still at its height.

Knitted sweaters, knitted snugons, knitted slip-ons, knitted sasaques, knitted frocks entire; all are popular. And, by the way, Los Angeles has a number of knitting factories whose repute extends across the continent.

Pheasant Shades.

The new autumn millinery—this is the theme upon every feminine lip! The new autumn millinery runs to the pheasant shades—from gold to deep browns and spangled yellows.

The trimmings are glorious and lavish. Many, many paradise and gourahs; coque and ostrich plumes. Fences of them and droopy groups. Always in quantities and always placed with some novel charm. The placing of these feathery trimmings is as important as the quantity and the quality of the plumes. It requires skill of no ordinary type to be able to trim hats this season. The home millinery will be obliged to take a very back seat when it comes to the really high-class hat, it is to be feared. Pluming, especially, must be professionally "put."

Baby Spats.

Tiny spats or gaiters for baby are made from satin in delicate shades of pink or blue, as well as in white, or black or tan. These tiny over-gaiters are bound carefully with silken tape and are fastened with pearl buttons. One can fairly see the little feet and can imagine the joy with which the wee one views them, clad in these latest modish additions to the baby wardrobe. I could tell you instantly all who are fond of children by the expressions upon their faces as they paused before a case wherein these baby spats were displayed.

Stunning Wrap.

Some of the easily slip-on-able wraps may be made at home by the girl of nimble fingers and undeniable taste.

For example, Eleanor has made herself a first fall jacket which is rife with charm. She purchased at a bargain—yes, it was a real bargain—a remnant of black duvetyn. This she cut on lines of a short Mandarin coat and furnished it with double pockets at the front—a pair at either side giving a novel touch. She then embroidered bands directly on the goods, doing the handwork in clear white woolen yarn—a pattern very Chinese looking. These bands edged the jacket all around and down the front, as well as along the edge of the belled sleeves and around the low standing collar. Upon the pockets, too, the band-like embroidery was wrought. The jacket was lined throughout with silk, having Chinese-looking figures against a clear white background. Thus, the top-coat was made to easily slip on above a fluffy summer frock—rendering it a real utility coat, but still very ornamental.

A Woman's Age.

"How old is she?" asked he, in regard to the woman he was about to meet.

"I do not know what you mean by old," parried the friend.

"I mean how old does she think she is? That is the main point about a woman."

Interseason Hat.

An interseason hat, neither too autumn-like, nor too redolent of summer, is a close shape made from duvetyn and has an off-the-face brim formed in scallops, each scallop covered with velvet rose leaves—I mean rose foliage. At one side is a full-blown rose, placed just above the ear, as though it had happened to blossom there. This hat is wearable equally well with summer frocks or the first autumn dress.

August Birthstone.

The Sardonyx is the August birthstone. Some declare in favor of the peridot. Either is a pretty stone and either being quite inexpensive is appropriate for use with out-door clothes. The golf chains with these stones are excellent as gifts to the girl whose birthday comes in this summer month. There is no end to the variety of these chains and no denial of their beauty. It is a delicate compliment to thus remember the birth month of one's favorite friend; although no one wise in feminine lore would go so far as to even indicate that he remembered the year of her birth—did he chance to know it!

Fashion's Ringing Call.

Indian and Chinese designs predominate in figured goods.

Sashes often turn into hip-draperies, tunics, or even trains.

Voiles run with bold figured stripes in black are featured.

Pleated frills of serge trim a blue serge suit embroidered in white.

Dresses of printed georgette or voile are very popular just now.

A draped veil may be the sole trimming of a snug-fitting turban.

The hip-line is sometimes emphasized by a tuck straight around.

A wreath of large purple velvet poppies is worn low over the brow.

Plaid and serge will still be a favorite combination.

Intermediate length gloves will be worn most for fall.

Gorgeous brocaded silks are much in vogue for fall wraps.

Bright colored silk braids are much used as trimmings.

The Medici type of fur collar is seen on some fall suits.

A kiddie's smart hat of brown velvet has coral pipings.

Ornate gloves are favored by Paris.

Some sleeves are wide at the wrist.

Paris favors knitted woolens for fall wear.

Lace dresses show black and white effects.

Early autumn will see the long narrow collar.

Hats and muffs will be made to match this winter.

Silk will be a winter favorite for wraps and dresses.

Ostrich fringes retain their popularity as trimming.

The wide muffler collar is used on both coats and suits.

Skirts may be draped in front.

Suits will be self-tone embroidered.

Beaded laces are claiming attention.

Novelty crepes are favored for fall.

REMARKABLE RECOVERY

Due to Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Philadelphia, Pa.—"I want to let you know what good Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done me. I had organic troubles and am going through the Change of Life. I was taken with a pain in my side and a bad headache. I could not lie down, could not eat or sleep. I suffered something terrible and the doctor's medicine did me no good at all—my pains got worse instead of better. I began taking the Vegetable Compound and felt a change from the first. Now I feel fine and advise any one going through the Change of Life to try it, for it cured me after I had given up all hopes of getting better. You can publish this and I will tell any one who writes to me the good it has done me."—Mrs. MARGARET DAHL, 743 N. 25th Street, Philadelphia, Pa.

It hardly seems possible that there is a woman in this country who will continue to suffer without giving Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a trial after all the evidence that is continually being published, proving beyond contradiction that this grand old medicine has relieved many suffering women.

OFFICER KILLS SPEED VIOLATOR

Tulare Motor Cop Fires at Fleeing Car.

Arrested Man Fails to Heed Command to Halt.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

PORTERVILLE, Aug. 18.—Tom Blake, aged 36, A Bakersfield fireman, and one of the first motorcycle policemen of Kern county, was shot and killed in Tulare last night by Percy Menefee, Tulare county traffic officer, while driving an automobile at what is said to be a very high rate of speed in an attempt to escape from the officer after having been arrested.

Blake and another Bakersfield man, known as Max Stahm, were en route to San Francisco from the oil city, to meet Stahm's wife and a friend to drive them to their home in Bakersfield.

They were halted on the State Highway—below Pixley by Officer Menefee, who desired to know why only one headlight was burning. Finding the men apparently under the influence of liquor, he placed them under arrest. Upon reaching Tulare, Blake was ordered to drive into a garage, but turning the machine suddenly, he drove down the street at a high rate of speed, the traffic officer in close pursuit calling to him to halt.

Bystanders declare that Menefee shouted to the men several times, telling them he would shoot, but that they ignored his command, nearly escaping a collision with a big touring car, in which were Mr. and Mrs. E. P. Baker of Los Angeles, en route to Yosemite.

Menefee fired at the wheels of the speeding machine, another into the air, a third hit Blake beneath the shoulder blade, inflicting injuries from which he died almost instantly. The car continued on its wild career for almost a block. Stahm says he threw the switch when he discovered Blake was wounded. Officer Menefee reported to the Sheriff's office. Court Smith, Tulare county Sheriff, and other traffic officers hastened to Tulare to investigate.

Allen P. Blake, a brother of the deceased, who is said to be a deputy sheriff of Kern county, on being notified left for Tulare to take charge of the remains. An inquest is to be held this afternoon. Tom Blake is said to be well liked in Kern county.

VARIED PROGRAM AT CAMP MEETING.

METHODISTS ATTEND ANNUAL EVENT AT HUNTINGTON BEACH.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

HUNTINGTON BEACH, Aug. 18. "It's a long way from Tientsin, China to San Quentin penitentiary, but we have people from both places on our program," said Rev. Charles H. Scott, superintendent of the Huntington Beach Methodist Assembly, who is looking after business matters for the 2000 Methodists who are in a two-week encampment here.

Miss Lillian Halfpenny of Ontario, just returned from five years missionary work in Tientsin, told the story yesterday of Chinese floods and famine of last year, during which she assisted in the rescue. Miss Halfpenny is a graduate of the University of Southern California and daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Halfpenny of Ontario.

Rev. Laizure, who was also a U.S.C. student, has been chaplain at San Quentin for the past year, and has instituted many innovations among the prisoners, introducing phonographs and moving pictures into the various departments and thereby greatly improving the morale of the inmates. An audience of 800 listened to Rev. Laizure's descriptions of the prison, its activities and inmates, and the work done among them by the chaplain's department.

These meetings were held in connection with the John E. Brown camp meeting which continues through this week and next. "I'm afraid of money," said Mr. Brown to 1500 listeners last night. This was given as his reason for recently deeding away most of a lifetime accumulation, in the form of a large stock farm at Siloam Springs, Ark., which is now being transformed into an industrial school for young men and women, whose families are unable to provide educational advantages for them. This is Evangelist Brown's sixth season at the local camp meeting.

VENTURA, Aug. 18.—Mrs. Nancy Bonestel, widow of C. D. Bonestel, died yesterday at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Frank J. Sufford. The Bonestels came here in 1876. He was an early-day merchant and a member of the firm of Chaffee, Gilbert and Bonestel. The family have been prominent in the civic and social interests of the town from that time to the present. More recently Mrs. Bonestel had spent much time with her other daughter, Mrs. Frank Peard, in Los Angeles, but came here when stricken with what she probably realized was her last illness.

She was active in the work of the Presbyterian church during her lifetime and was a charter member of the Tuesday Club, the oldest woman's organization in Ventura. Besides her daughters she is survived by two sons, Alonzo F. Bonestel and Chester D. Bonestel and a step-son Watson Bonestel. The funeral was held Wednesday afternoon from the Sifford home.

AMERICANS POPULAR.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

RIVERSIDE, Aug. 18.—"Americans are very popular in Peru," remarked Senor Manuel L. Ayulo, Peruvian Consul, in an interview here today concerning the relations of the South American countries and the United States. "There are millions of American money invested in my country in mining interests, and there is room for more."

Senor Ayulo was the guest this evening of the Chamber of Commerce, and made a brief address. He expressed himself as being eager to see a large volume of trade built up between this country and his native land, whose resources, he says, have been hardly scratched.

SEEK MISSING BOY.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

PASADENA, Aug. 18.—Edward McNulty, 18-year-old son of P. J. McNulty, a member of the Pasadena police force, said good-by to his father at 7:30 o'clock Monday evening, saying he was going to the library. Nothing has been seen of him since. Mr. McNulty, who lives at 477 Toolen place, fearing that the boy might have met with an accident, today enlisted the services of a dozen or more of his boy friends in searching the hills and mountain canyons, but no trace of the missing youth could be found. He is deaf, is five feet eight inches in height, and weighs 175 pounds. At the time of his disappearance he wore a dark brown suit and light-colored cap. His complexion is light and eyes are blue.

MINIMIZE ACCIDENTS.

Pomona Council Takes Action—Other News Notes.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

POMONA, Aug. 18.—Arrangements have been completed by Mayor Vandegrift to round off the sharp corners along Alvarado street. Because of the dangerous condition of some of the corners, it was thought well to make preparations to alter them as soon as possible. This is one of the steps recently undertaken by the City Council to reduce accidents to the minimum in the city.

COMMUNITY PLAYS.

Casts of "The Tents of the Arabs" and "Nevertheless," two of the plays which local players will present at their first performance on September 2, were rehearsed Wednesday night on the Greek Theater stage. This is the first of the rehearsals of plays which these players have undertaken to popularize the municipal outdoor theater. At present the players are engaged in securing as many members as possible so as to make it a community affair similar to those that have met success in other cities with fewer advantages than Pomona possesses for such an organization. The plan is to give these plays throughout the entire year.

ACCIDENT VICTIM DIES.

Ben Reyes of San Dimas, who was injured Saturday afternoon in a collision with an auto driven by Supervisor Prescott F. Cogswell, died at 2 o'clock this morning at the Pomona Valley Hospital. The man did not regain consciousness after the accident. The smash occurred on Benita Boulevard between San Dimas and Laverne in front of the Benita High School building, and Reyes suffered a fractured skull. He was unmarried but was well known in Laverne, where he resided. He is a grand nephew of David Valdez, one of the pioneers of Pomona Valley. Supervisor Cogswell has made no statement regarding the accident.

CONDITION IMPROVED.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

VENICE Aug. 18.—Naurine Corlin, 12, who was severely injured yesterday when a car of the Whip, a pier amusement, ran over her, breaking her right leg and cutting open the side of her face, is improving, according to doctors at St. Catherine Hospital. The little girl was thrown from another seat of the car and was pinned beneath the wheels of the car following the one in which she was riding.

The girl is a daughter of A. Corlin of 1835 Roberts avenue, Los Angeles.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

SANTA MONICA, Aug. 18.—Lifesavers have been searching ceaselessly in the waters around the municipal pier today, diving in a vain hunt for the body of Charles L. Richards, who in a pitiful letter to his wife, declared that he committed suicide, as the result of persecution by the I.W.W. organization in and around Los Angeles, who stole his money and an automobile that did not belong to him.

The persecution, he wrote, came because of his pride in being a member of the American Legion, which he expressed once at a meeting of the I.W.W. propagandists which he stopped several months ago in Pershing Square, Los Angeles.

"They said they would get me then, and they have," he ended.

R. E. Dill, 615 West Pico street, who was Richard's employer and owner of the automobile referred to in the letter, said that Richards had been out several days selling merchandise for him, and that he knew nothing about his residence or the whereabouts of his wife.

AUTOIST INJURED.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

VENTURA, Aug. 18.—An automobilist, believed to be Elmer R. Gardner of Merced, lies unconscious with a fractured skull and other injuries at Bard Hospital, the result of an accident on the Rincon, about four miles north of Ventura. He was found beside his wrecked car, bleeding profusely, and unconscious, by passing travelers who brought him into this city. The car was badly wrecked.

Prefers Weeds to Crookedness in Ball Parks.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 18.—President William H. McCarthy of the Pacific Coast Baseball League declared today in an address before the San Francisco Advertising Club that he would "rather see weeds growing in every park in our circuit and to let signs on every lot than attempt to continue with players hippodroming the national pastime for the sake of a few dirty dollars."

He stated that investigations of gambling in the league had not ended and that every suspected player would be driven from organized baseball before long by the league.

PAUL FITTERY SLAPS ANGELS.

Portsider Heaving Niftily in Pinches, Wins Out.

Seraphs Rally in the Ninth and Tie the Score.

Bill Pertica to Rescue is Easily Overwhelmed.

BY ED O'MALLEY.

Sacramento turned around and swatted the Angels yesterday, 6 to 3, but it required ten innings to swing the victory. Paul Fittery did the slanting for the Yippers and he sure did go some.

It would have been cruel, indeed, had Paul blown the game, for a niftier piece of slab work we have not run up with in some time.

Some disgruntled Angel bugs drew a crumb of comfort out of the defeat by apostrophizing Paul something like this, "Why couldn't you pitch that kind of ball when you were with Killefer?"

CRAFTY IN PINCHES.

Although the Celestials rumpled Paul for nine hits he made them spread those hits into isolated instances. It was in the pinches when Angels were flitting around the bases that Paul projected the subtle stuff.

The Angels scored one run in the first inning and then held aloof until the ninth. In the meantime the visitors had gathered a brace of tallies, which looked to all intent and purpose enough and sufficient.

IN CARELESS MOOD.

But the last of the ninth brought some unlooked for stuff just at the moment when the Seraphim were about to warp their aerial way to earth. Bassler had flied to Compton and Statz had squibbed to Grover at short. Fittery, in a careless moment, lost temporary control and shot over four bad ones to McDonald. Lapan was allowed to run for McDonald.

With two strikes on Rube Ellis and the exit crowded with foregone conclusions, Rube squirted a drooper back of second for a misfit Texas leaguer. The blow was aided and abetted by 1,000,000 horseshoes. Ray Keating, pinch hitting for Curly Brown, belted a beauty bright past Firebrand McGaffigan, shooting Lapan over the rubber and darting Rube to third.

SHOUTS TOO SOON.

It was now up to Killefer to prove that he had regained his batting eye and incidentally bring Pete home safe to mother. Red leaned on the old satsuma all rightee, all rightee, and as it tore its way to the right of McGaffigan, who had rushed toward second, the crowd let forth a bundle of joy. Marty, like the little spiteful devil that he is, leaped up in the air and the ball struck his hands nestled against his right shoulder. It was a beautiful snare and Red was an easy out to Mollwitz.

GRAVEYARDS CLOSE WHEN HE QUITS.

One of Harold Lloyd's supporting cast is an old-time colored heavyweight boxer named "Kid" Blue, who never loses an opportunity of telling how "bad" he used to be.

"On the level, now," said Lloyd, "Were you a tough man in the ring—just how tough were you?"

ORDER THREE INNINGS TO BE PLAYED AGAIN.

PREXY HEYDLER ACTS ON THE PROTESTED GIANT-PHILLIE CONTEST.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

NEW YORK, Aug. 18.—Ruling on the protest of the Philadelphia club of the game played with the New York Giants here July 5, President John A. Heydler of the National League has ordered the last three innings replayed before the scheduled game of September 4. The teams are directed to line up as nearly as possible as in the game of July 5, to take the field as of the first half of the seventh inning, with Stengel of the Phillies on third and Fletcher on first and two out.

This was the situation when the disputed play took place. Wrightstone hit a fly to short left, which Umpire Harrison ruled an infield fly, retiring the batter. Left-fielder Burns of the Giants, however, permitted the ball to drop safely, then recovered it and threw to second base, Fletcher being declared out.

Fletcher, who was put out of the game for disputing the decision, will be permitted to take his place in the line-up. The score was 6 to 0 in New York's favor at the time.

BORTON'S STORY IS REFUTED BY BROOKS.

EX-VERNONITE SAYS IF ANYTHING WAS FIXED, IT IS NEWS TO HIM.

Evidently Clarence Brooks, who caught for the champion Vernon team last year, has his own views about Borton's alleged talk with him on a train going to Salt Lake last fall. Borton alleged that Brooks advised him (Borton) not to send Maggert's cut by mail as he feared Mrs. Maggert might get it.

The following is an answer from Brooks of a query sent to him several days ago to Idaho Falls, Idaho, where Brooks is playing ball in the Snake River League:

"Sporting department, The Times, Los Angeles, Cal: "If there was anything fixed, as Borton says, it sure is all news to me, and bad news for my work last year. Borton asked me after the season was over for Maggert's address and said he owed him $300. I told him Maggert was going to winter in Los Angeles and he could give it to him there. If any of them gamblers blame anything on me I'll be in Los Angeles, for trains are still running. Thanks. C. BROOKS."

NAVAL SEAPLANE IS REPORTED WRECKED.

BREAKS FROM MOORINGS AND DRIFTS AWAY, WITH DISASTROUS RESULTS.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 18.—Word that naval seaplane No. 10, which participated in the recent San Diego-San Francisco derby, was a wreck on the beach at Guallala, 160 miles north of here, was received here today by the headquarters of the Twelfth Naval District, following an all-night hunt for the craft as a result of her having broken her moorings.

The seaplane had gone beyond her objective here in the flight from San Diego as a result of dense fogs. She landed at Guallala with disabled engines and the naval tug Hercules was sent to tow her to this port.

Early last night she broke from her moorings and drifted to sea, and the Hercules and other vessels were unable to find her. This morning she was seen on the beach, battered and torn, by members of her crew.

The commander of the craft is expected to arrive here today to give a full account of the disaster.

BOOST FIFTEEN ROUND MATCHES

American Legion Post Indorses New Fight Law.

Want Boxing Commission Act Similar to New York's.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 18.—Golden Gate Post No. 40, American Legion, of San Francisco, has gone on record unanimously as indorsing the passage by the people of the State of California of a boxing commission act similar to that of New York. Their plan is to permit of not more than fifteen-round boxing matches under the most strict regulations.

GREAT VALUE.

The American Legion people believe that the great value of boxing has been demonstrated by the experience of the American forces during the war and wish to encourage the sport.

The bill they have recommended is but a rough draft and will be subject to amendments and alterations, after the matter has been taken up more thoroughly. It will be published for indorsement of the State convention, to be held at San Diego next week, August 23, 24 and 25. If it meets with approval, the Legion will endeavor to have the Legislature pass a constitutional amendment that may be placed on the ballot at the next general election.

FEATURES OF BILL.

Briefly, the features of the bill of interest to the fans are as follows:

Matches of not more than fifteen rounds in duration to be permitted, with boys under 18 years not permitted to appear. A physician to attend each show. Incorporated clubs, referees, judges, timekeepers, boxers, seconds and managers to be licensed and to pay a yearly license fee, as follows: Corporations in cities of first class, $750, second class, $500; other cities, $300; physicians, $25; referees, $25; judges, $25; timekeepers, $5; professional boxers, $5; seconds, $5.

No match to be made where there is a greater difference of weight than eighteen pounds. Every club holding exhibitions to pay to the State 6 per cent of the gross receipts. Regulation of boxing to be in hands of a State boxing commission to consist of three members appointed by the Governor, each to receive an annual salary of not to exceed $5000 and traveling expenses.

FOUR DEPUTIES.

Four deputies to be appointed at a per diem of $25 for actual service to attend boxing contests and see that same are properly regulated.

Secretary of commission at salary not to exceed $4000. License committee of three, appointed by Governor, with no compensation, to for fight permits, pass upon the application of clubs

It is planned to give the boxing commission full power to handle the game.

HORR IS CHECKER CHAMP.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

SANDUSKY (O.) Aug. 18.—J. F. Horr of Buffalo won the American checker championship today, when he defeated J. F. Bradford of Cleveland in the finals.

Horr qualified today for the finals only after fourteen hours of semi-final play with Alfred Jordan of Los Angeles.

OH, MR. ROBERTSON—HAVE YOU NOTICED OUR "WEAK" COAST ATHLETES OVER AT ANTWERP?

Except for the fact that pointing is considered vulgar in the best circles, this might be a fine time to point out what the Pacific Coast athletes are doing in the Olympic Games. We might particularly call the facts to the attention of Mr. Lawson Robertson, of the University of Pennsylvania, who recently intimated that Pacific Coast records aren't worth a hoot and Pacific Coast athletes less than that.

HOW ABOUT IT.

For Mr. Robertson's edification, it might be mentioned that, of the 101 points scored by the U.S.A. to date, 70 were hung up by athletes who were brought up and learned to run, west of the Alleghenies, and that 42 points were scored by athletes from the Pacific Coast alone. Not only that, but the grand old State of California has scored 35 points all by herself, almost a third of the total score of the United States of America.

In the 100-meter dash, Charley Paddock of Los Angeles and Morris Kirksey of San Francisco won 12 points. In the high hurdles Feg Murray of Palo Alto took a powerful third for 4 points. And right here California might come pretty close to claiming the 7 points won by Earl Thomson of Long Beach, in the high sticks. Earl ran for Canada simply because his dad wasn't thoughtful enough to become an American citizen, although Earl has lived in this country practically all his life.

BOOSTS IT.

In the 800-meter run, Bry Sprott of San Diego, brought the California total 1 point higher. The 400-meter hurdle event gave California 6 more points, 5 contributed by Johnny Norton of San Francisco and 1 earned by Charlie Daggs of Pomona. Harry Liversedge, a stalwart party, hailing from a little village in the northern part of California, added 4 points to our total with third place in the shot and in the high jump Brick Muller of San Diego gave us 5 points. Ric Templeton of Palo Alto, contributed 3 points with fourth place in the broad jump.

In other words, if California had become thoroughly enraged at the sassy and ignorant remarks of Mr. Robertson and competed in the Olympic Games as a separate nation —were such a thing possible—the score at the close of yesterday's events, would show the Golden State third in total points scored, only a few digits behind Finland and well ahead of Sweden, Italy, France, England and all the rest.

TABLE OF POINTS.

Following is a table of points scored by American athletes to date.

FAIR ANGLERETTE GETS BLUE BUTTON.

MRS. SPALDING NABS BIG TUNA AT CATALINA WITH REGULATION ROD.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

AVALON, Aug. 18.—The fair anglerette has again registered her prowess at stalking the game of the deep at Catalina. Mrs. Keith Spalding yesterday took her third blues button tuna, unaded, on rod and reel with regulation Tuna Club tackle. Accompanied by her husband, Mrs. Spalding, after a spectacular struggle with the blue fin, brought to gaff a 116½-pounder.

This is the heaviest tuna caught by a woman at Catalina in many years. Mr. Spalding also brought in two blue fin weighing 108¾ pounds and 92¾ pounds. A few days ago Mrs. Spalding landed two tuna in one day, a 105-pounder and a 108-pounder, and beat her husband on his day's catch with a margin of several pounds in the weight of her fish.

A 322-pound marlin swordfish was the prize landed by another fair anglerette, Mrs. D. Morgan of Los Angeles.

The greatest battle of the season recorded between angler and fish took place Monday night, between A. C. Parsons and a broadbill swordfish. Mr. Parsons hooked the big fellow at 3 p.m. and fought him for twelve hours and thirty-five minutes, only to lose him.

Shatters World's Record for the Event in Feature Race at Antwerp.

[BY CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

ANTWERP, Aug. 18.—The total scores in the athletic events—track and field—after today's events in the stadium follow:

United States, 101 points; Finland, 49; Sweden, 26; England, 24; France, 12; South Africa, 7; Italy, 7; Canada, 7; Norway, 3; New Zealand, 3; Esthonia, 2. These figures represent the scoring in the finals of eleven contests since Sunday.

ANTWERP, Aug. 18.—Although unable to win any events in today's program of four track and field contests of the seventh Olympic Games American athletes scored heavily in other places, and added considerably to their country's lead.

In the three events in which qualifying contests were conducted the Yanks placed heavily, insuring further additions to their point total tomorrow.

RAH FOR HIM!

Intense interest marked the final race in the 110-meter hurdles, due to the clash of Earl Thomson, the Dartmouth College world's record holder, running for Canada, and the American cracks, Harold Barron, Fred Murray and Walker Smith.

Thomson lived up to his formidable reputation, setting a new world's record of :14 4-5 and flashing to the tape yards ahead of Barron of Philadelphia. Murray placed third, inches behind Barron. Next came Wilson of New Zealand, who was wrongly named as "Orfidan, France," in yesterday's qualifying semifinals, and Smith, the Chicago leaper, who injured a thigh muscle two days ago, was fifth.

FINNS WIN.

The other events in which finals were held were the shot put, running broad jump and 10,000-meter walk. The Finnish shotputters placed first and second, with H. B. Liversedge, the Californian, and Pat McDonald, New York police officer, taking third and fourth places for America. Porkola of Finland won the event, with a put of 14.61 meters. Hiklander, Finland, was given second with his distance of 14.15 meters, made yesterday in qualifying under the Olympic rules which permit qualifying trials in the weight events to count for final places, if the athlete does not surpass the mark in the finals.

McDonald of America got his place in the finals the same way. Hiklander's best distance today was 14.02 meters and McDonald's 13.43.

The United States team sadly missed the negro college star, Butler, in the broad jump, which was won by A. Petterson, Sweden, at 7.15 meters. Carl Johnson, University of Michigan, earned second honors for the Stars and Stripes, and B. L. Templeton of San Francisco was fourth. Except for the two places taken by the Yanks, the points were won by Scandinavians. Sweden taking first, third and sixth and Norway fifth.

STEPS AHEAD.

Frigorio, the Italian, was three-quarters of a lap ahead of J. B. Pearman of New York A. C., taking the 10,000-meter walk. The remainder of the field was strung out away behind, some of the finishers being lapped more than twice. Pearman started strongly and at the end of the fifth lap, set the pace and looked like the winner, with the field trailing.

The Italian, a debonair, smiling, slight-looking fellow, gradually made his way toward the leader, and on the tenth lap spurted and passed Pearman. At the fifteenth lap, three-quarters of the distance, Frigorio led by ninety yards. At the finish, excited Italian officials rushed forward and kissed him. Pearman finished forty yards ahead of C. H. Gunn, Great Britain. T. A. Moroney of New York added another point for America by finishing sixth.

CENTER OF INTEREST.

The American giants in the weight events were the center of interest today. Even against the biggest athletes of Europe, the coterie of New York policemen and western youths towered hugely. Pat Ryan of Loughlin Lyceum, New York, led the qualifiers in the hammer throw, with 52.83 meters, and B. Bennett, University of Illinois, was second with 47.70. Matt McGrath, like Ryan, a New York policeman, and present Olympic record holder, placed fifth despite a sprained knee. He received the injury in practice this morning, and it may cost his services in the 56-pound weight throw. The injury to McGrath is the fifth casualty to the American Olympic team.

Joie Ray of Chicago, whose pulled calf tendon, occurring in practice on Monday, was feared as serious enough to keep him from competing, took the mark in his

Are to Resume Contests at Dayton, O., Today.

BY HARRY VARDON.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

NEWARK (O.) Aug. 18.—There was not a great deal of extraordinarily brilliant golf played here today over the course of the Moundbuilders' Country Club. Although there were five of us in an eighteen-hole best ball match, the only bright and shining feature of the play was the general soundness displayed by George Sargent, your open champion in 1920, who to my mind, has quite as much good golf left in him as he has ever had.

Three players here were arrayed against Ted Ray and me and yet we won by 1 up, gaining our necessary hole on the home green after I had missed a putt of little more than three feet and Ray had gone down for a par 3 at about six feet. The one of our three opponents who had a chance to keep the match squared was Bert Way, and he missed his chance for a 3 as disgracefully as I missed mine.

SHOWS WELL.

W. C. Sherwood, the manager of our tour, got out his clubs to play as our third opponent, and he showed to good advantage before his home gallery. Mr. Sherwood is a member of the Burge Golf Company of this city and has played often over the course of the Moundbuilders' Club. We have known him for many years for he formerly was a professional golfer. His play today gave evidence of lack of practice. I am certain that he has not had any play recently for he has been with us.

George Sargent, professional at the Scioto Club, Columbus, O., and Bertie Way, professional at the Mayfield Country Club, Cleveland, were our opponents yesterday, when we played the links of the latter named club. Yesterday both played nicely. Today Sargent was even better than he had been, while Way, for some reason or another, was badly off his normal excellent game. I think Way one of the finest professionals in America. I have no one in mind who knows the science of golf better or who has more thoroughly mastered the art of instruction.

WILD IN SPOTS.

Ted Ray was wild in spots, but was getting fine distance as he does always, his putting was not so faltering as was mine, his driving was, of course, much longer, but less accurate. He was the steadier of the two of us, however, and succeeded in getting a lower score by a stroke. When we are playing exhibition matches I am glad to see Ray slice or hook occasionally, for he then has the opportunity to let the onlookers observe his ability to recover from the rough or from other unfortunate lies.

There may be pretty shots played from the center of the fairway, shots perfect in every detail and amazingly near perfection in result but a nice, clean recovery shot apparently pleases the gallery more than any other sort, except of course, those accidential ones which many of the less tutored enthusiasts consider marvelous. As for example, a shot that goes down on a short pitch from the fairway.

We play tomorrow morning over the course of the Miami Valley Country Club and in the afternoon at the Dayton Country Club, both at Dayton, O.

Best ball scores:

Ray and Vardon—Out, 444- 534-443—85; in 445-543-443—36—71.

Way, Sargent and Sherwood—Out 454-543-443—36; in, 445-542-444—36—72.

SLIM LOVE EASY FOR SALT LAKERS.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 18.—Love was an easy mark for Salt Lake today, finally being driven off the mound in the seventh, so the visitors won handily, 6 to 2. McQuaid, Love's successor, retired the Salt Lake batters in one-two-three order in the last two innings. In the seventh Love walked two, allowed a single, a double, while errors by Corhan and Hasbrook completed the disaster that let in three runs.

ATHLETES' SHOWING VINDICATES TIMERS.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

REDLANDS, Aug. 18.—The showing of Charles Paddock and Morris Kirksey in the 100-meter dash at Antwerp is complete vindication of the competency of the timers of the Pacific Coast, in the opinion of Ashel Cunningham coach of the University of Redlands, and developer of the relay team that won the class B relay championships at Pennsylvania this year.

"I heard that a number of times in the East," said the coach, "that Lawson Robertson, the Penn coach, gave an interview, scoring the Coast timers unmercifully. I contended that under conditions similar to those on this Coast the men would always prove the correctness of the timing. The showing of Paddock and Kirksey is complete vindication of the abilities of the Coast men."

Paddock and Kirksey are capable of making 9 4-5s, in the 100-yard any day conditions are near right.

In the last heat of this event Wilhelmsen of Esthonia was disqualified after placing third and Fourneau of Belgium was given his place. The committee barred Wilhelmsen for shouldering another runner on a turn.

SAD MISTAKE.

After Thomson won the 110-meter hurdles it was found that failure had been made to provide a Canadian flag for use in hoisting to the stadium flagpole in case an athlete of that country should win a first, and after a hurried conference the Union Jack was run up instead.

Grumbles from athletes from many countries over the present championships were added to from a high quarter, when Count Henri de Latour, president of the Belgian Executive Olympic Committee, expressed keen dissatisfaction with his country's reception of the international event. He said: "We worked hard to get the games for Antwerp to show the world what Belgium could do with sporting events. Now we find ourselves in the unpleasant position of having more foreigners attending the games than Belgians. Even our press is showing less interest than foreigners."

In another quarter comes the report that the former American college coach, Ernest Hjertberg, who has been acting as trainer and in a coaching capacity with the Swedish team, has resigned as the result of friction. Hjertberg went to Sweden a number of years ago to aid in the development of the nation's athletes, and after an excellent showing of the Swedish team in the Antwerp Games had led to a period of revival.

NOT TOO LATE.

The crowd, as in the previous days, was not as large as it might The morning events were run under a baking sun, which undoubtedly affected the turnout. The weather in the afternoon was more comfortable.

It was announced that the previous Olympics provided a refreshment for runners in the marathon race would not be provided in the 1924 classic, to be held next Sunday. Stations, however, will be provided along the three-mile courses at frequent intervals.

The gruelling [illegible] yesterday may prevent the petition in this Olympic by Eby of Chicago, who plans, Eby said it was the only race in which he competes being ready to compete at every stride to overcome the pain of the other and be able to see coming down the stretch. Ray termed the greatest of his career.

Thursday P.M.

Dear Pete:

Just blew into Pittsburg to close that N and P purchase, while I was waiting for the contract to be signed who ambles in to the G.M.'s office but President Holt! Asked me if I had a cigarette. Slipped him my "Camel Garage". Remember, he hit the "straight" boys when I met him last year?

Pete, you ought to hear Mr. Holt talk Camels! Gee, I thought I was some Camel speiler. But he went right to the meat with the subject. Say, if I could have shorthanded that line of super-stuff I'd have the job writing Camel ads by noon today!

"Reynolds ought to get a dollar for every Camel cigarette," Mr. Holt declared. "Why, my boy, Camels are simply wonderful," he added. "Don't ever let anybody talk about mild cigarettes compared with Camels! I Know! (get that, Pete). I've proved it to a hundred smokers that Camels are the mellowest and most refreshing cigarette in the world". Etc. Etc.

Pete, Camels won Mr. Holt like they won me—on their quality! After hearing him cut loose, I felt like saying: "you tell it, old parcel post, I can't express it!

Pete, I'm hatching an idea about Camels. I'll spill it your direction next time I write! It's what York State folks call a "pip-ing!" And it's ripe!

Yours till the next fire-up.

PETER MANNING BEATEN.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 18.—Up- was in two of five races featured the second day of the Grand Circuit ting meeting at Narbeth today. The ack was slow owing to rains. The biggest surprise was the de- eat of Peter Manning. Tommy urphy's trotter, which hung up a new world's record for trotting ces at Cleveland. The veteran Geers was behind Murphy's se in the $5000 Winoga Stock ke, and in the first heat came from behind with a rush, beating E. Colorado. In the sec- ond heat, however, Peter Manning made a break at the first turn and was many lengths back of the field at the first quarter. He was dis- tanced. Tara's Hall won in 2:08 1-4, but was beaten by E. Colorado in the third heat.

The race was decided on the three-heat plan and the money di- vided according to the standing, with E. Colorado winner of the cup and the largest share of the purse. Best time, 2:07 1-4.

The second surprise came in the $2000 stake for 3-year-old trotters. Great Britton, driven by J. L. Dodge, was picked to win, but after taking third place in the first heat broke and was distanced in the second. Emma Harvester won in straight heats. The best time was 2:10 1-4.

Lon McDonald captured the 2:14 trot in straight heats with Baroness Cochato. His best time was 2:12. Dora Haynes won the novelty dash at one mile and 100 yards in 2:21⅘.

Only two started in the 2:02 pace and Geers won with Goldie Todd. Best time, 2:07 1-4.

MARINE CORPS TEAM NO. 3 WINS BIG SHOOT.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

CAMP PERRY (O.) Aug. 18.—More than 900 competitors were entered in the President's cup match shoot over the 200 and 600-yard stages today and to be finished to- morrow on the 100-yard range.

In the Herrick cup match, which opened yesterday, the first stage gives the United States Marine Corps team No. 3 first place on the 800 and 900-yard ranges, with a to- tal of 593. Marine team No. 4 is second with 590.

In the re-entry pistol matches just tabulated Lieut. W. J. Whaling of the Marine Corps is leading with a perfect score of 400 at the rapid- fire ranges. A. H. Hardy, Denver, civilian, is third with 395.

BARNES LOSES TITLE.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

CHICAGO, Aug. 18.—James Barnes of St. Louis, lost his second title this year, when Clarence Hack- ney of Atlantic City today eliminated him from the professional golfers' association tournament, 5 and 4. Barnes appeared off his stroke and won only four of the thirty-six holes.

WANT ACREAGE ANNEXED.

showing the region from which the athletes originally hailed. It might be mentioned that a very large per- centage of the remarkable perform- ances made in the East, are made by men hailing from the Pacific Coast and Middle West, who learned the game before they moved East. For instance Fred, Murray, a Stan- ford boy, is competing for the New York A. C. So is Loren Murchison, who learned to run in St. Louis. Carl Johnson, the Michigan broad jumper and Murphy, the Notre Dame high jumper, are both from the Pacific Northwest. Earl Eby and Tommy Campbell, the two star half-milers claimed by Pennsyl- vania and Yale, both learned to run in Chicago. Harry Liversedge, the shot putter is a Californian com- peting for the Navy. In fact, if you took the transplanted Western- ers away from the East there wouldn't be much left, except the New York policemen who heave the weights so jauntily.

EDDIE O'DONNELL SETS MARK IN DUESENBERG.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

ELGIN (Ill.) Aug. 18.—Eddie O'Donnell, driving a Duesenberg, set the record for the Elgin road race course in the first practice today in 6m. 52s. for the eight and one-quar- ter miles. This is only 29 seconds slower than the lap record made by Spencer Wishart in the race in which he was killed in 1914.

UMPIRES LAND ON CARL MAYS.

Pitcher Claims Rough Spot on Ball Caused Accident.

Arbiters Say Alibi is Decidedly Weak One.

Players May Refuse to Face Tosser in Game.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

BOSTON, Aug. 18.—The explana- tion by Carl Mays of the New York Americans that the killing of Ray Chapman, star shortstop of Cleve- land, was due to a rough spot on the ball Mays pitched which caused it to take an unexpected twist, was the subject of a statement today by Umpires William Evans and Wil- liam Dineen of the American League.

HITS HIM HARD.

"No pitcher in the American League resorted to trickery more than Carl Mays in attempting to rough a ball in order to get a break on it which would make it more difficult to hit," the statement said. "Until the new pitching rules came into force which put a severe pen- alty on a pitcher roughing the ball, Mays constantly used to drag the ball across the pitching rubber in order to roughen the surface. Hun- dreds of balls were thrown out every year because of this act."

The umpires took notice of a re- mark attributed to Mays that Um- pire Thomas Connolly, who was be- hind the plate, was responsible for the accident because he permitted a rough ball to stay in the game. The umpires characterized this al- leged statement as an "alibi" that came with poor grace.

"A short time ago," they added, "the club owners complained to President Johnson that too many balls were being thrown out. Presi- dent Johnson sent out a bulletin telling the umpires to keep the ball in the games as much as pos- sible, except those which were dan- gerous."

STRONG FEELING.

The players of the Boston and Detroit clubs who were at the point yesterday of signing a petition to have Mays banned from the game, today awaited word from Manager Speaker of the Cleveland club as to his views on their proposed action. Several asserted that regardless of any general action, they would not go to bat against Mays again.

NEW YORK, Aug. 18.—The gloom cast over baseball by the death of Ray Chapman, shortstop of the Cleveland team, was apparent today when the Indians and Yankees re- sumed their battle for leadership of the American League. Chapman's death was more deeply impressed up- on the spectators by the flag at the Polo Grounds, flying at half mast, and the bands of mourning worn on the left sleeves of the players. The fans paid tribute to Chapman's memory by applauding Lunte, his successor, when he came to bat.

There was much curiosity during the preliminary practice as to whether Carl Mays, Yankee pitch- er, whose throw caused the fatal in- jury to Chapman, would appear, but he was not in uniform and it was said he was not at the grounds. New York players would not venture a guess as to when Mays would again appear.

CHICAGO, Aug. 18.—President Ban Johnson of the American League had nothing to say today regarding the statement of Umpires Evans and Dineen at Boston that Carl Mays, who threw the ball which caused the death of Ray Chapman at New York yesterday, had resorted to trickery to roughen the ball.

BASEBALL NOTES.

Art Griggs, the slugging first baseman of the Angels, will hard- ly return to the lineup before next week. The injured index finger of his left hand is slowly mending but is rather stiff in the first joint, which prevents his grasping a bat with a firm left grip. With Griggs in the lineup against the Bees next week, Angel fans can reasonably expect to see their pets show im- provements in stick work.

It is hardly likely that Salt Lake will lose Hood until next spring. The Whittier boy is a tower of strength to the Bees and were they to lose him now, their pennant chances would die away to a grease spot.

Tex McDonald's leg still bothers him and this he plainly shows in his batting. Tex is a regular .300 hitter and should regain his stride when the injured limb allows him to get a firm foothold at the plate.

Buddy Ryan, probably the most popular player in the Coast League, is still whaling away viciously at the pill. Buddy was always a natural hitter and should be of big help to any club even after his underpin- ning begins to slow up on him.

McGrew has an awful time with Marty McGaffigan on balls and strikes. If Marty and Dennie Willie were playing on the same team it is more than likely that McGrew would take the Dutch route.

The Oaks are going good just now and it would not surprise many fans were they to finish in the first divi- sion. They are inclined to play a little listless at times and this was noticed in the double-header against the Tigers last Sunday. With any kind of pep on the coaching line that day, they should have copped one of the games.

Ray Keating has developed into somewhat of a pinch hitter. Ray came through admirably yesterday in the ninth with a darb of a single to right.

With Borton out of the Bengal lineup and Rumler absent from the Bees, it looks as if the Mormons have a shade the worst of it on pen- nant-winning strength. Vernon's re- serve power is stronger than that of Ernie Johnson's and for this reason the Tigers should soon gain a good lead on the Salt Lakers.

ASSOCIATED PLANS.

THOMAS INCE ANNOUNCES HIS FIRST SPECIAL.

By Edwin Schallert.

Increased momentum was given preparations for the launching of the Associated Producers' huge motion-picture project by the announcement yesterday of the first feature to be released by Thomas H. Ince on the program of the combination. This will be ready for nation-wide exhibition, it is stated, September 12. The production is the dramatic special, "Homespun Folks," a romance of rural life and politics said to be typically American.

It is now expected that this will be the initial picture bearing the imprint of the Associated Producers, Inc., composed of Messrs. Ince, Sennett, Neilan, Dwan, Tourneur, Tucker and J. Parker Read, Jr.

It is declared that in line with his plans for the Associated specials Mr. Ince has now practically abandoned his star system in favor of combination casts. In the premier release will appeaar Lloyd Hughes, Gladys George, Al Fillson, Edith Yorke, Lydia Knott and George Webb. Probably the only star who will continue under the Ince management is Douglas MacLean.

The locale of "Homespun Folks" is a small New Hampshire village, where the wholesome life of rural America forms background for a timely story, it is said. The picture was made from an original narrative by Julien Josephson, and was directed by John G. Wray under the personal supervision of Mr. Ince.

Of the Associated Producers, Mr. Dwan is already working on his first production, while Messrs. Tourneur, Sennett and J. Parker Read are prepared to furnish releases at short notice, it is understood. Mr. Neilan and Mr. Tucker will probably be busy on the features by the close of the year.

New U Director.

Universal has just turned the directorial spotlight on a new foreign member of their producing staff, and optimistic predictions are that he will prove a second Von Stroheim. The discovery is Marcel de Sano, who is in charge of the making of Carmel Myers's new starring special, "The Orchid."

Mr. De Sano has codirected with Rex Ingram, Herbert Blache and Winchell Smith. He signed with the U in New York, and has just returned to this city to begin Miss Myers's picture.

He originally came to this country on a diplomatic mission, having been educated in the University of Paris.

Linder Stays On.

Max Linder has given up his plans for a trip to New York in connection with the starting of a new cinema feature. He will continue his activities at his present location on the Universal lot for the time being. At present he is completing the cutting and titling of his first five-reeler, "Seven Years' Bad Luck." The picture is to have a preview Friday night at the California Theater in Venice. Linder will remain in this country for the next two or three years, and at the end of that time plans to return to France to make pictures on the Riviera. He prefers to stay in this country until conditions are more settled abroad.

Linder will shortly start work on a new feature.

With California Orchestra.

Elsa Grosser, is to be featured as solo violiniste with the California Theater Orchestra, according to announcement by Carli D. Elinor, who is now leading the instrumental body. Mr. Elinor has also signed Beatrice Fiseman, another popular violiniste, and Jack Genter, trumpeter.

Reid Going North.

Wallace Reid and his company will return to San Francisco the beginning of next week to film scenes for "Always Audacious." Wallie visited the northern city recently when he was hidden behind the ambush of two weeks' growth of beard, but on his approaching trip he will be shaven.

Margaret Loomis is playing the leading feminine role in this picture, which James Cruze is directing.

Sincere Art Atmosphere.

Rare antiques collected in Italy and other European countries are to add atmosphere to the Metro production of "The Four Horsemen of the Apocalypse," which Rex Ingram is directing. The consignment was received a few days ago, having come via the Panama Canal.

Included in the collection are reproductions of old prints, tapestries, paintings and other specimens of fine arts. As Director Ingram found that copies such as could be made in the property rooms would not fit in with the program for the production, he decided to secure actual reproductions of the real subjects from Europe.

New Viola Dana Film.

Viola Dana is to appear in "The Chorus Girl's Romance," adapted from the short story, "Head and Shoulders," next week at the Victory Theater.

Want McDermott Here.

Since viewing his work in "While New York Sleeps," producers are again making an effort to lure Marc McDermott away from his Long Island home. Mr. McDermott is one of the few picture actors who has resisted the attempts to persuade him to join the Hollywood film colony, but there is said to be some chance that he will accept this time.

"Mickey" Again.

Mabel Normand's picture, "Mickey," is to be revived once again next week. It will show at the Symphony Theater.

Goat King Visits.

R. E. Taylor, known as the goat king of America, because of his large farm given over to the raising of these animals in Texas, was a visitor at Universal yesterday. He introduced Eileen Sedgwick to some of the newest wrinkles in the gentle art of lassooing, which Miss Sedgwick plans to use in her forthcoming picture.

Dobson will Prove it.

Speaking of western stuff, Frank Dobson, he of the thirteen sirens, is expected to demonstrate how well he remembers the art of throwing a rinta upon his arrival to play the Orpheum here next week.

"Wild Horse" Harry Kennedy of Bakersfield, an old-time friend of the vaudevillian, is to be the principal judge of his ability.

Dobson was at one time a cowboy and took part in many roundups.

Kinema Program.

Features scheduled for early showing at the Kinema Theater include Jack London's sea story, "The Mutiny of the Elsinore," which will be flashed on the screen next week; Marshall Neilan's picture, "Go and Get It," a romantic thriller of newspaper life; "The Notorious Miss Lysle," with Katherine MacDonald; "What Women Love," starring Annette Kellerman, and "Forty-five Minutes From Broadway," featuring Charles Ray.

Will Stage Prize Play.

The second play by the Pasadena Community Players at the Brookside Park Theater in the Crown City, will be staged August 30. Director Gilmor Brown has selected Josephine Preston Peabody's "The Piper," which won the competition conducted by the Shakespeare Memorial Players of Stratfort-on-Avon some years ago. The premiere took place at Shakespeare's birthplace.

In the Pasadena presentation, Capt. Jack O'Deveran has been selected for the whimsical character of the piper, who, according to the legend, was able to charm children and animals. Other members of the cast will include Mrs. J. M. Steinberger, Judge F. C. Dunham, Kate Heffner, Mrs. N. Brazelton, Olive Heiss, Raymond Jarecki, Mr. and Mrs. L. M. Roberts, Dana and Ernest Barnes, Arthur Ormonde and Frederick Wright.

Reunited Before Camera.

Rosemary Theby and Harry Myers, who formerly appeared in the same pictures in the East, have been professionally reunited after several years separation in the cast of "A Connecticut Yankee at King Arthur's Court," being made at the Fox studio. This picture is an adaption of Mark Twain's celebrated story, the scenario having been written by Bernard McConville.

Semi-Social Note.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Corson Clark have returned to Southern California, and are stopping at the Hotel Virginia in Long Beach. Mr. Clark is well-known as the world-touring actor, and was seen here some months ago in a production at the Little Theater.

The Clarks have already entertained a number of prominent stage people, and friends, among them, Mr. an Mrs. Frank Keenan, Mr. and Richard Sterling and John Sainopolis of "The Great Lover" film cast.

Vidor Film to Start.

Charles Vidor manager of the King Vidor Productions, has returned to Los Angeles with the film rights to several books and stage productions, it is announced. Mr. Vidor was present at the national premiere of "The Jack Knife Man" at the Strand Theater.

The name of the forthcoming Vidor production will be made known in a few days, and filming will be started August 23.

Melodrama Pleases.

"Under Crimson Skies," is continuing to achieve popular favor at the Superba Theater, where it is now in the second week. The feature will close Saturday evening to make way for a realistic screen record of actual events entitled "Shipwrecked Among Cannibals."

Plays Opposite Meighan.

Gladys George is leading woman in Thomas Meighan's production of "East Street," which is now under way at the Lasky studio. Miss George has been both a stage and screen actress. She appeared in the Winthrop Ames revival of "The Bethrothal," and later was with Mr. and Mrs. Coburn, in "The Better 'Ole" and with De Wolf Hopper in the same play. More recently she has been taking part in the Thomas H. Ince pictures.

"Tarzan" Company Returns.

The company filming "The Son of Tarzan" from Edgar Rice Burroughs's story, which is being made as a special serial for the National Film Corporation, has returned from a location trip to the mountainous district near Arrowhead. The members of the troupe include Karla Schramm, Manilla Martan and K. C Searle. Harry Reviere, producer, and Roy Somerville, photodramatist, accompanied.

The players expect to visit San Digeo shortly to film sea episodes.

Desmond to Shine.

Will Desmond will brighten the screen at Clune's Broadway next week in his latest feature play, "A Broadway Cowboy."

Morrison as Imp.

James Morrison, who recently completed work as leading man for Anita Stewart in "Sowing the Wind," has been engaged by Jesse D. Hampton for the role of the Imp in "When We Were Twenty-one," now being produced at the studio.

It was his intention to return to New York immediatily on the completion of "Sowing the Wind," but the Hampton offer proved too much of an inducement.

STUDIO DOINGS ON THE CELLULOID.

NEW FILM REVEALS GLIMPSES OF HOW PICTURES ARE MADE.

A revelation of the interior activities of a film studio, which will be released under the title of "A Trip Through the World's Greatest Motion Picture Studios," has just been completed, according to announcement by Thomas H. Ince. The feature is expected to add to the fame of Los Angeles as the capital of cinema activities.

Depicting every phase of work and play in the representative American film institution, the new Ince special is described as a departure from anything of its kind attempted heretofore, in that it pictures, in story and continuity form, the complete twenty-four-hour motion picture schedule, from the arrival of the personages in the early morning, clear through the day's production to the final scene at night.

The Los Angeles premiere will be held at Grauman's million-dollar Theater, beginning next Monday. Studio prologue, in which the poohbahs who are responsible for the flickering film will be impersonated in their respective capacities on a regulation studio set, has been conceived by Mr. Grauman.

Following its premiere presentation at Grauman's Theater, the film will make the rounds of the country's leading picture houses, with a first-run exhibition simultaneously in all principal cities. Arrangements have been completed whereby the picture will be presented in Spain, Australia, Germany and other distant lands.

MARITAL COMEDY PROVES POPULAR.

Eliciting mirthful appreciation through its bright comedy and interestingly human situations, "Wait Till We're Married," now running at the Little Theater, continues to attract large audiences. The production has gained in quality since it was transferred into the intimate atmosphere of the smaller house, and many improvements have been made which warrant for the piece quite a successful career of favor. Frank Egan is staging the play and will probably continue its run until the return of Oliver Morosco from the East.

The various members of the cast have developed their roles until the general effect is attaining greater sprightliness. Particularly favorable is the impression made by Kathleen Clifford as Marian Livermore. Henry Duffy is leading man, and Vivian Rich, William Courtleigh, William Raymond, Patia Power, Frances Gaunt, Marie Van Tassel, Florence Bindley, Harry Garrity, William Austin and Max Paley are in the cast. The portrayals of the hero's three aunts are especially clever.

STARLET IS INJURED.

Little Jean Carpenter, the child who plays so successfully in "The Courage of Marge O'Doone," Vitagraph's James Oliver Curwood feature at the New Pantages, has broken an arm for the second time since she finished the picture. The three-year-old girl fell and fractured her arm soon after the picture was finished. When she recovered she was cast in William Duncan's Vitagraph serial, "The Wizard Spyglass," but on the evening of her first day's work she fell on the same arm while playing about her home and sustained another fracture.

CATALINA MAN GONE; FOUL PLAY FEARED.

PROSPEROUS MERCHANT COMES HERE, GOES TO HOTEL, THEN VANISHES.

Fears for the safety of W. L. Le Favor, well-known merchant of Catalina who dropped out of sight one week ago last Monday, were expressed by his wife and relatives yesterday after every available clew failed to disclose a hint as to his fate.

Mr. Le Favor arrived in Los Angeles from Catalina Monday before noon, and went to the Baltimore Hotel, as has been his custom for years. He registered and his bag was taken to his room. He never occupied that room and only one trace of him has been found since he left the hotel shortly before 12 o'clock that day. One person saw him after he left the hotel, and that was a business acquaintance, who met him near Second and Main streets about noon.

Detective Franklin, who has been engaged by the man's relatives to look for him, says Mr. Le Favor's business affairs are in first class condition. No troubles were known to worry him. Mrs. Le Favor fears that her husband met with foul play. Anyone knowing anything about the man's movements is asked to communicate with Mr. Franklin at 531 Chamber of Commerce Building.

Le Favor is 42 years old, five feet eight inches tall, weighs 142 pounds, has dark hair and blue eyes, was smooth shaven, and is sharp featured. The right thumb is missing. Both forearms have tatoo marks, and there is some gold in the dental work.

TELLS JUDGE HE DREW GUN IN OWN DEFENSE.

DEFENDANT ADMITS SHOOTING TAXI DRIVER; BELIEVED OTHER MAN ARMED.

Asserting that he shot in self-defense, Stanley Milton Baker took the stand yesterday in Judge Willis's court in his own trial on there counts of a grand jury indictment, charging robbery, grand larceny and assault with intent to commit murder.

He said he employed Louis Iacano, the complaining witness, to take him to the rancho of his mother, Mrs. V. G. Cllett, in the Calabasas district in an automobile. He said an argument arose as to the fare and he thought the driver drew a revolver. He himself then drew a weapon and fired, he said.

Questioned closely by Dep. Dist. Atty. Powell as to his intentions, following the shooting, when he took the driver's car and fled to Santa Barbara, where he was captured, he said he could not understand why he fled. Character witnesses will be called today by the defense counsel, Guy Eddie.

CHURCH WOULD SELL.

St. Stephen's Asks Power to Dispose of Hollywood Site.

The official board of St. Stephen's parish filed a petition in the Superior Court yesterday for permission to sell the church property in Hollywood Boulevard for $76,000. The petition states that because of the encroachment of the business district of Hollywood the present location of the church is unsuitable for religious purposes. A purchaser for the property has been found.

The petition also asks permission to pay the heirs of Mrs. Ida Wilcox Beveridge $15,000 for their interest in the property. St. Stephen's parish will construct a modern building in another part of Hollywood.

MINING CLAIMS LAP; CLEAR TITLE ASKED.

Suit to quiet title of the Golden State Portland Cement Company, to portions of two mining claims, Truthful Francis and Empire No. 3, which are said to overlap the Margaret mining claim, in San Bernardino county, was brought yesterday by the Oro Grande Lime and Stone Company in the United States District Court. The former company is defendant in the action.

SON FAILS AS PEACEMAKER.

George E. Cross, a Puente merchant, sent his son as an emissary of peace to his wife, Josephine Cross, he told Judge Crail in divorce proceedings yesterday, urging her to return to him. The son testified he saw his mother the day after his parents separated, but was given a negative reply, when he proffered reconciliation. The court granted Mr. Cross a divorce.

Urging Vincent to Again Take Old Harbor Job.

Edwin D. Vincent is to succeed J. W. Ludlow as assistant harbor engineer, if the Board of Harbor Commissioners can induce Mr. Vincent to reenter the service of the city. President Cordon of the Harbor Commission announced yesterday that Mr. Vincent had been asked to attend the meeting of the commission next Saturday for a conference, which is hoped by the commission will result in acceptance of the appointment.

Mr. Vincent, who was assistant harbor engineer from Nov. 1, 1911, to April 30, 1915, was suggested for the appointment by Harbor Engineer Griffin, who had previously reported to the board that Mr. Ludlow was not acceptable to him as field engineer in charge at the harbor. Mr. Ludlow, up to five years ago when he became assistant harbor engineer, was in charge of the drafting room of the harbor engineering force, and will return to his former position.

TO GET DIVORCE FROM MISSING LIEUTENANT.

WIFE PROMISED FREEDOM; SAYS HUSBAND WROTE HE WAS HURT; VANISHED.

The mysterious disappearance of Harry H. Vinson, former lieutenant in the Army, was revealed during the trial of the divorce suit of Nancy C. Vinson in Judge Taft's court yesterday. Mr. Vinson entered the service in November, 1917, while living at San Francisco. He was transferred to the eastern seaboard. Mrs. Vinson received the allotment, but because it was not sufficient, she lived with her parents.

Lieut. Vinson was discharged from service in 1919 and went to Portland. From there he corresponded with his wife. Believing they had been apart long enough, Mrs. Vinson wired him she was coming to Portland. When she arrived there she found he had left the city twelve hours previously.

The distressed wife returned to her parents' home. Subsequently she received a letter from her husband. He wrote her that in his athletic stunts he had been injured and would not impose upon her, but would wait until he had recovered before joining her.

Dr. Vinson, a brother, was sought by the distracted wife to locate her husband, but his efforts failed. Since then, Mrs. Vinson told Judge Taft, she has neither seen nor heard from him.

The court will grant Mrs. Vinson a decree when corroborative evidence is received from her family in Oakland.

TO TELL OF SWINDLE.

Victims who Lost Fortune will Appear Before Grand Jury.

Mr. and Mrs. M. Herr of Pennsylvania, who lost $18,000, or practically all they had, at the hands of bunko men last spring, will appear before the grand jury today and tell how they were swindled. The trick was similar, it is said, to the game practiced on Walter F. Evans, the Arizona telegraph operator, who lost $3000 in a fake stock deal. The men who bunkoed the Herrs are said to have been a different gang than that with which Fred Mayne, recently convicted, is believed to have operated.

BACKS BALLOON BONDS.

Chamber of Commerce Issues Unique Boost as Device for Auto.

"Kindergarteners of the air" will be distributed free by the Chamber of Commerce to automobile owners, it was announced yesterday at the publicity department. Those believing that a "kindergartener" necessarily is small are in for disillusionment, as the official "kindergartener of the air" is the huge observation balloon of the Arcadia Balloon School.

The souvenirs to be distributed by the chamber are miniature observation balloons for pasting on windshields of automobiles. These call attention to the balloon school bond issue to be voted upon on the 31st inst., and urge a favorable vote. The emblems are authorized by the Chamber of Commerce and auto owners may obtain them free by calling at the chamber offices.

A year ago Pizzo made a trip from here to New York in five months and eleven days. This time he is bringing a letter from Secretary of the Navy Daniels to Mayor Snyder. His route is New York, Chicago, Kansas City, Denver, Salt Lake, Reno, San Francisco and Los Angeles.

After treatment at the Receiving Hospital Ostrander was removed to the Pacific Hospital.

WILL ADVISE CLOSING.

Finance Committee to Tell Council to Give up City Markets.

In accordance with the recommendation of Supt. Sterling S. Boothe, the Finance Committee will advise the City Council this morning that the three municipal markets be closed on September 1. Maj. Boothe, in a report to the Mayor and Council, declared that the markets are not self-supporting and that they do not fulfill the purposes for which they were created, that of bringing together the farmer and the consumer.

Love Talisman of Mexican is Seen in Court.

A Mexican horned toad figuring as a love charm, a toad which Severo Rivera was charged with exploiting in order to win the love of Manuela Ramirez, 13 years old, of 622 Santa Fe avenue, was an exhibit in Justice Cooney's court yesterday. The toad, wrapped in a silk handkerchief, was found, according to the evidence in the trial of Rivera on a statutory charge, it once had hypnotic powers.

"If steadily looked upon, no one can could resist the toad's charm and the toad's owner could do as he wished," Mrs. Rainbow said she had been told by Riviera. She failed to hypnotize the girl by use of the toad and is said to have attempted force to win her love. He was arrested, and Justice Cooney held him to answer to the Superior Court in $1000 bonds. The prosecution was represented by Dep. Dist. Atty. Fitts.

Destructive Panic Certain if Amendment Wins.

and exhaust the available funds of the bank before you awaken? What will be the probable effect should every real estate mortgage in California be placed in liquidation and everyone having funds in a savings bank, or with life insurance companies, all of which have a large share of their resources loaned on real estate, seek to withdraw their deposits and realize upon their policies? Do you think the world has ever seen a panic such as would probably follow the adoption of an amendment to the Constitution, the avowed purpose of which is to strip real estate of its commercial value?

"Panics, as you know, are no respecters of persons. Not only large capitalists, and small capitalists, but laborers, as well as those whose families rely solely upon the pay envelope, are all sufferers.

"Please study your experiences, and observe the conduct of men and women everywhere, and see if achievement be not the underlying cause of most human happiness. Is it not possible, even probable, that this divinely implanted desire to achieve ultimately induced the race to recognize and protect property rights? In your opinion, did the race retrograde when it began to consent to private ownership of natural resources, or did it advance? It certainly brought into play this divinely bestowed desire to do and to enjoy the fruits of effort.

A STEP BACKWARD.

"Will the pending amendment, if adopted, start the race upon the open highway of truth, or will it reverse the experiences of all the ages and put the race back to where it started, with values gone, ambition throttled, desire dead?

"Consider what effect legislating away land values will have upon men who are struggling to remove incumbrances incurred in making improvements. There are thousands of men in California, and millions in the United States, who have their ranches and farms encumbered in excess of the value of their buildings. Unless the amendment dissipates values it will fail in the only thing in which its friends are certain it will succeed. Will these struggling farmers continue the battle after their credit is gone, or will they abandon their ranches as soon as they are unable to see any other end to their struggles? With the value of the land gone the mortgagee will be compelled to take both land and buildings, and he, in turn, will be unable to rent them, for the tax upon the land, supposedly, will be equal to the rent.

"Will the adoption of this amendment place increased acreage in cultivation, or will it cause the owners of the equity in millions of acres to give up in despair and let the ranches go back to Nature?"

RECKLESS LAD GOES TO JAIL.

Youthful Speeder is Given Term in City Prison; Caused Collision.

Chester Day, arrested for reckless driving, started yesterday to serve a fifteen-day term in the City Jail, imposed by Police Judge Chambers. The young man is 20 years of age and is the son of H. B. Day, a well-to-do cotton goods dealer of 1146 West Twenty-seventh street. The youth had previously pleaded guilty. He was made to don overalls, was given a broom and set to work with a gang of "trusties" cleaning up the jail.

The prisoner was arrested last Saturday after he had smashed his automobile into a machine driven by Louis Katich of 833½ East First street. Detectives say he was driving fifty miles an hour and had skidded over 100 feet when he hit the other car. The collision took place at Eighty-fourth and South Main streets. The Katich car was wrecked and the three occupants slightly injured.

FOUNDER OF PISGAH DIES.

Dr. F. E. Yoakum, founder of the Pisgah Home movement here, died on Tuesday at his home, 140 East Avenue 59, Highland Park, at the age of 69 years.

The Pisgah Home work was started in Los Angeles about twenty-five years ago, soon after Dr. Yoakum came here from Denver, where he had occupied the chair of mental diseases at Gross Medical College. The movement now includes several different establishments, but the original Pisgah Home at 6026 Echo street, which can accommodate 250 patients at one time, was found to give free care to drunkards and outcasts who wished to reform. At its beginning the home housed only eight persons.

One of the collateral institutions is Pisgah Ark, at Arroyo Drive and Omaha street, where wayward girls are sheltered. Another is Pisgah Gardens, near Lankershim, where beds are maintained for 100. In addition there is a Gospel Mission at Sawtelle, and eight miles from Santa Susanna there is a 3200-acre ranch, Pisgah Grande, where farm products are raised for free distribution among the poor.

Soon after he settled in Los Angeles Dr. Yoakum discontinued the practice of medicine and instead treated his patients by prayer. The institutions which he built up were supported by voluntary offerings. No specific charges were made for care or treatment.

Funeral arrangements will not be made until relatives in distant parts of the country have been heard from. Dr. Yoakum, who was married in 1873, leaves the following five children: Mrs. William N. Whitney, Mrs. Harold E. Wing, and Modrall G., Charles O., and Finis E. Yoakum, Jr.

BOY ADMITS AUTO THEFT, SAY POLICE.

Fifteen-Year-Old Lad also Confesses to Burglary of Beverly Hills Home.

Theft of an automobile and burglary of the residence of D. V. Fitzgerald, a wealthy contractor of 601 Beverly Drive, Beverly Hills, was charged to John Stanford, who says he is 15 years old, after he had been questioned yesterday by Chief Deputy Sheriff Manning and Deputy Modie.

Stanford and Paul Land, aged 12, were arrested Tuesday night by Deputy Modie and City Marshall Greenwood of Culver City, when the officers stopped Harry Walters, a youth, for speeding. It was stated by the officers that the car the youths were driving was stolen from Glendale.

Land, questioned, according to the officers, Stanford was confronted by a barber of South Main street, who says he loaned Stanford $15 on the jewelry stolen from the Fitzgerald home. This jewelry was valued at $1000. He is said to have then admitted he threw a pair of automobile pliers through a window, climbed into the Fitzgerald home and took the jewelry.

Land and Stanford are being held for the Juvenile Court.

Your Grocer Sells It

A Good Refrigerator Serves You In So Many Ways

The dainty desserts and refreshments of summer are made and kept so delightful and appetizing by proper refrigeration. But there is such a difference in refrigerators. Perfect refrigeration for instance demands very dry air, and active air circulation, and these factors involve scientific principles of construction.

The "Bohn Syphon" Refrigerator is very much more than an ordinary refrigerator. Its patented syphon system insures a perpetual circulation of dry air, which keeps foods wholesome and fresh for the maximum length of time, and reduces ice consumption.

The food chambers are lined with one-piece seamless porcelain with all corners rounded, which makes it easy to keep them sweet and clean.

The Bohn "Sanitor" and the Bohn "Icyco" also embody many of the unique features of the Bohn Syphon and are lesser priced. As a matter of fact we have refrigerators in almost every desired style and at almost every price to meet every limitation from the small nursery ice box at $7.00 up to the Bohn Syphon at $85.00 or even up to $655.00.

AUTOSTAGE ROUTES NOT STRIKE-TIED.

Service Back to Normal Soon, Says Manager; Protection to Loyal Drivers.

Automobile stage service between Los Angeles and San Diego and Bakersfield is fast approaching the absolute normal, according to announcement by W. H. Powell, general manager of the Union Stage Depot here yesterday. Regular schedules with full number of cars to each will be in force in a few weeks. The present schedules are being maintained, although a shortage in cars of about 40 per cent was brought about by the withdrawals of vehicles owned by the striking drivers, Mr. Powell said.

In addition to the owner-drivers on the San Diego run, approximately forty in all, twenty drivers without cars, detailed to the Bakersfield run, have gone out. These are being replaced satisfactorily, Mr. Powell said. Ten or twelve touring cars now closing the season in the Yosemite Park are expected to arrive here early next week, and other replacements are in sight, he said.

Reports that some of the striking drivers have tried to intimidate drivers still at work and that attempts to hinder the service by placing obstacles on the roads have been made in some instances, yesterday brought about a conference between stage line officials and the authorities of the five counties covered by the San Diego and Bakersfield routes. In every instance the authorities gave assurances of full co-operation, Mr. Powell said.

A few deputies were detailed by Sheriff Cline yesterday to guard the property of the stage lines in this county. Any overt act, however, will be followed by strict measures and arrest, Chief Deputy Sheriff Manning said.

NEW WAR IF POLES FAIL.

Returned Red Cross Worker Fears Alliance Between Russia, Germany, Japan.

One must draw water for the whole day then. Disease, filth, desolation and distrust of everything prevail. Nobody wants to sell anything, for the money is of no value. It is so throughout Russia. Farmers and other producers are willing to trade but not to sell. The result is that no one is producing more than he needs.

"With proper transportation Russia has food enough for all Europe, but in all the territory actively at war Russia would be worse off for food than Poland but for the present drive, which means the looting of perhaps the greater part of Poland's reserves. Tens of thousands will starve to death in Russia this winter, and in Poland, too, unless help is sent. The American Red Cross, the senders of food drafts, must not desert Poland now, not only because of suffering humanity, but because Poland is fighting for the world.

MILITARISM IS FICTION.

"We were horrified on returning to this country to learn how much Poland is misunderstood. There is almost a general feeling that Poland brought its troubles on itself. Some newspapers have taken the ground that Poland has imperialistic designs and is trying to pillage Russia of part of its territory. Much was made of the fact that the Poles captured Kiev. It was announced then, in thousands of placards printed in both Russian and Polish, that the Poles simply were aiding the Ukranians, because the Ukranian army was too weak.

"I know myself that it was to the Ukranian authorities that I had to go after the city was captured, for permission to do necessary things. The Poles never have attempted to conquer nearly all the territory which was originally Poland, before it was partitioned by Germany, Russia and Austria, and do not wish to. Part of that territory has been so Russianized that they no longer desire it, and want only what is truly Polish.

"One cannot see what the Poles have endured without passionate admiration for their bravery and patriotism. They are people of high ideals. The Russians are different. Fill a moujik's belly and give him peace and he is happy, no matter who runs the government or what flag is over him. That is what Germany realizes. With Poland wiped out Germany and Bolshevist Russia would touch. The coal supply of Europe would be Germany's, and coal controls Europe. Not a factory can operate, not an industry can survive without it. Even without access to the sea, Germany could snap its fingers in the faces of the Allies.

"France and England are terribly crippled. Germany is the one country in Europe which does not fear Bolshevism, because the German temperament is too well balanced to be affected by it, and the traditions of Prussianism are too deeply ingrained. With the great Russian supplies of fuel and food made accessible by German efficiency in transportation, Germany simply would welcome a chance to fight rather than fulfill the terms of the peace treaty. The River Dnelper, nearly as great as the Mississippi, is spanned by only three bridges in its whole length. Think what German efficiency would do to change that condition.

ANY CHANGE WELCOME.

"And Russia will be grateful. I have talked with Russian peasants and know they would welcome a change in government. Bolshevism is a nightmare to them. Yet, the Bolshevist armies have plenty of recruits. They are simply organized pillagers, and they have plenty to eat and wear, while the other Russians starve. Most of them are too ignorant to read and know nothing except what their leaders tell them.

"The Bolshevist army officers have no control. If a command is ordered to attack it can take a plebiscite, and often there are refusals. Likewise, the officers could not stop them from looting if they would. However, when there is an attack divisions of Chinese mercenaries line up back of the attackers, and if they dare retreat the Chinese pour bullets into them. Any command which fails to capture a point it is ordered to take is subject to court-martial, and all its members may be shot. That is why they fight so desperately for Warsaw."

Mrs. Chesley's work was mainly in the hospitals.

"I've seen two severely wounded men sharing one small bed, and many others lying on the floor," she said. "But through it all they were brave. They were totally out of hospital supplies when we got there. Every day they were performing surgical operations without anaesthetics. In the hospital in Bialystok the wounded were lying in the clothes in which they had fought.

"There were no hospital garments. The Germans had looted the hospitals, as well as nearly everything else, much of the looting being done after the armistice. They even took the keyhole fittings out of the door in their eagerness for brass and copper, and took all the coal from hospitals in November, the armistice month. Nobody but people of great moral courage and deep patriotism could have endured what the Poles have endured. They are worthy of all the help America can give them. Besides that, it is common talk over there that if the Germans and Bolshevists can form an alliance and then bring in Japan they can dictate to America as well as to the rest of the world."

DEADLY LETTER SENT TO GIRL.

Missive Full of Explosives is Snatched from Her Hand.

San Diego Police Spoil Plot for Tragedy in Hotel.

Camp Kearny Private Locked Up by Provost Guard.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

SAN DIEGO, Aug. 18.—A letter filled with high explosive and directed to Miss Betty Harrison was snatched from her hand shortly before noon today by Detective Al Carson as she was about to receive it at the Hotel Kingston.

First information that a letter containing explosive was in the mails was telephoned to Earl Grainger, secretary to Chief of Police Patrick, this morning. Mrs. Grainger immediately informed Detective Sergt. Lopez and Detective Carson was detailed to the case. He rushed to the Hotel Kingston, where his quick work is declared to have saved lives and averted considerable destruction.

The information was telephoned to the police by Capt. Souder, in charge of the blockade at Camp Kearny, who stated that a letter containing a high explosive had been mailed to Miss Betty Harrison, resident of the hotel, by Private Jack E. Kern. Capt. Souder told the police that the letter was due to arrive in the morning mail. After taking charge of the letter Detective Carson took Miss Harrison to the police station, where she was questioned by Sergt. Lopez.

Miss Harrison professes ignorance of any reason for Kern sending the explosive. At the bottom of the letter there was a postscript which read as follows:

"I am sending you a little dynamite which you can use if you desire to end your life."

Miss Harrison said she met Private Kern yesterday and that she held only a short conversation with him.

Kern is held by the provost guard at Camp Kearny. He was turned over to Capt. Souder for investigation by a company commanding officer, it was stated there. Kern had overstayed his leave and was being held at the guard-house.

Postal Inspector Jarvis is investigating the case.

DAILY TRADE TALK.

Electric Power Needed; the Potato Crop; Liberty Bond Conversion.

With the available oil supply of the country decreasing at an alarming rate, it is to be wondered whether the importance of the development of the hydroelectric resources of California is fully realized by the average business man. This is a subject which has been touched upon many times, but it is a matter upon which local bond men and investment bankers feel that the public should be thoroughly and correctly informed. In a new booklet which has been issued by Blyth, Witter & Co., the subject is treated at length.

"Just when we have become accustomed to use twenty times as much oil per capita as other countries," says this statement, "just when invention has indefinitely expanded the need for oil in industry; just when the point is reached that oil controls money instead of money controlling oil—the United States finds here chief sources of domestic supply beginning to be exhausted. The growing American consumption of petroleum, which at present seems almost irrepressible, may constitute one of the greatest menaces to the future prosperity of the United States and to its later equality of competition with the rest of the world. Without thought of the future, we have unrestrainedly degraded oil to its grossest and most wasteful employment. Today we require over 80 per cent of the world's output. With less than an eighth as much oil in the ground as the rest of the world, we are calling for four times as much as all other countries put together.

"California is undergoing a transformation. With exceeding rapidity her industries are cutting loose from oil as a fuel and equipping their plants for using hydroelectricity as a power. The day is not far distant when the railroads, not only in California, but of the country as a whole, will be electrified. As a matter of fact California railroads are deterred from electrification for just one reason and that is the prohibitive first cost of the transformation at this time.

"Purely from the standpoint of conservation of our oil resources, hydroelectric development in California should go forward. Oil is more valuable when broken up into its components, gasoline, mineral oils, asphaltum, etc., than when consumed as crude oil. Our remaining supply should be conserved for these products and for such fuel purposes as cannot be met by hydroelectricity.

"Applications for power to irrigate an acreage equal to 50 per cent of the total already under cultivation have been filed within the past six months. This, combined with the high price and rapidly diminishing supply of fuel oil, makes obvious the fact that California depends for its growth and progress, for its industrial prosperity, indeed, for its very life, upon the continued development of its hydroelectric resources. Today, these resources, totaling hundreds of thousands of horse power, are but 10.8 per cent developed. California can absorb all the power that all of the power companies of California can develop, as rapidly as it can be developed within the next ten years."

EAT MORE POTATOES.

Unless unforeseen conditions occur, the United States is to have one of the largest potato crops in its history, says John W. Law, local representative of the United States Bureau of Markets. The Bureau of Crop Estimates of the Department of Agriculture places its estimate of the crop at 402,000,000 bushels or approximately 40,000,000 bushels over the ten-year average. This means four bushels for every family of average size, and an increase over last year's crop of one bushel for each person in the United States.

As a result of this heavy crop, potatoes have already dropped in the wholesale markets from 12 to 3 cents per pound. "This drop was inevitable under the circumstances, and it has been a welcome one to the consuming public," says Mr. Law, "but unless it is met successfully it will involve disaster to the grower and the distributor this year, and a consequent reaction on the consumer next year."

Unless the public realizes that potatoes are one of the healthiest and, even at the present prices, one of the cheapest foods available, declares Mr. Law, prices will go much lower than the cost of production this year. Potatoes are now being offered at a fair price, it is pointed out, and the consumption should be increased as much as possible. If it is not and the present crop is moved at a loss, the grower will probably turn to other and more profitable crops next year, with the result that potatoes will again reach the high price level of last year.

"A wider use of potatoes will reduce the cost of living," says Mr. Law. "It will help the grower to market his crop at a fair profit and it will insure the public of a normal supply in future years."

INSPECT POWER PLANT.

In preparation for new financing by the Great Western Power Company, members of Los Angeles and San Francisco bond houses were the guests of the company on a four-day trip to its plants, now under operation and in course of construction, on the Feather River. Among points of interest visited by the party was Lake Almanor, which is said to be the largest artificial reservoir in California.

PACIFIC MAIL EARNINGS.

According to a report issued yesterday, the Pacific Mail Steamship Company has earned $3.99 per share on its stock during the period ended June 30, as compared with $4.13 per share for the first six months of 1919.

NEW MUNICIPAL ISSUE.

The Guaranty Trust Company of New York, W. R. Compton, E. H. Rollins and Halsey Stuart, comprise the syndicate which is offering an $8,000,000 issue of the city of Detroit (Mich.) bonds. The bonds are issued in serial form, to mature from May 1, 1921, to August 1, 1950, and they will be sold to the investor at prices to yield from 5.25 to 6 per cent, according to maturity.

UNION OIL OF DELAWARE.

A statement made yesterday by Dow Jones says that Union Oil of Delaware shows a net income, after operating charges and taxes, equal to $6 cents per share for the six months ended June 30.

SHOULD CONVERT LIBERTIES.

Warning has been issued by the Federal Reserve Bank of New York that the holders of certificates for the Liberty Loan 4 per cent and 4¼ per cent bonds must exchange their certificates for the permanent bonds before September, for unless this exchange is made there will be no way for holders of the certificates to collect the interest which shortly becomes due and payable. Permanent bonds of all issues, with the exception of the First Liberty Loan, second converted, and the Fourth Liberty Loan 4¼ per cent issues, are ready to be exchanged for the temporary certificates. It is pointed out in the statement that there is no way for the holders of the temporary bonds to collect interest due after the date of the last coupon unless these temporary bonds are exchanged for the permanent bonds, which bear all coupons to the date of maturity. Large investors in Liberty Bonds have already made these exchanges, it is pointed out, but the small investors, who are not accustomed to cashing coupons, have failed to do so. Unless the exchange is made before September 15, the holders of the bonds will have no way of collecting the interest due on that date. The exchange of the temporary certificates for the permanent bonds can be arranged through any bank.

SCHOOL DISTRICT BONDS.

An issue of $44,000 Ranchito school district, 6 per cent bonds is announced by Blyth, Witter & Co. The bonds are exempt from the Federal income taxes and from personal property taxes, and they constitute a legal investment for savings banks. The maturities extend from 1921 to 1940. The Ranchito school district lies in a rich and progressive walnut and citrus growing section twelve miles from Los Angeles. The assessed valuation of the district for 1919 amounted to $888,175, against which this issue is the only outstanding bonded indebtedness. The bonds are to be sold at prices to yield 5.75 per cent.

THE ANGLO-FRENCH LOAN.

According to reports received by local bond men from the East, France, in preparation for the retirement of the Anglo-French loan, which matures in October, has already bought about $40,000,000 of the bonds, and will probably redeem a like amount through remittances of exchange, it is believed. France also will probably send about $50,-000,000 in gold to this country, and on the basis of these gold shipments, will attempt to borrow about $165,-000,000 in this country. Eastern bankers state that with the aid of the gold shipments, the loan can probably be arranged.

OIL FIELD OPERATIONS.

Oil field operations as reported to the State Oil and Gas Supervisor, R. P. McLaughlin for the week ended August 14, show fourteen new wells started, as against seventeen during the preceding week. This makes a total of 540 new wells this year, as compared with 401 to the same date last year. Tests for water shut-off amounted to twelve, as compared with forty-two of the previous week, and the yearly total tests to the present time numbered 789, as compared with 732 last year. Twenty deepening or redrilling jobs were undertaken last week, as against twenty-eight during the preceding week, while the total to date this year amounted to 540, an increase of twenty over the same week a year ago. Three wells were abandoned during the week, as compared with six of the preceding week, making a total of 130 wells abandoned during the present year, as against 135 of a year ago.

TONE OF PRODUCE MARKET IS STEADY.

POTATOES ADVANCE SLIGHTLY IN CARLOT MARKET; BEANS AND EGGPLANT HIGHER.

For all varieties of fruit and vegetables a firm tone was in evidence on the local produce market yesterday, and the majority of the offerings were moved at the level of the preceding day. Demand was active throughout the session, and with arrivals again in moderate supply, there was no tendency for the market to react to lower levels. A few lines of certain vegetables were scarce, made slight advances. String beans ranged up about a cent per pound for the better grades, selling to retailers as high as 12 cents per pound, as compared with the previous high level of 11 cents per pound. Eggplant was also slightly higher yesterday, the range being from 4 to 5 cents per pound, as compared with Tuesday's quotations of 3 to 5 cents per pound. Fancy tomatoes held steady at previous prices, but the ordinary run of the offerings advanced sharply, being in good demand at 60 to 75 cents per lug, an increase of 20 cents per box. In the carlot market potatoes were slightly higher, the ruling sacked price of $3.00 per 100 pounds northern stock. Prices to retailers, however, remained unchanged, the majority of the offerings moving at $3.25@3.50 per sack.

COTTON MARKET OPENS FIRM WITH ADVANCES.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

NEW YORK, Aug. 18.—With the exception of November, which was unchanged, the cotton market opened rather firm at 4 to 84 points gain of 15@29 points. The tone seemed to be helped partly to more optimistic news from Poland. Although offerings were not large, there was a demand. Further rains in the central belt and in the Southwest led to reports of damage to the crop. Later the list was still firm, with prices fully 35 points over last night's close. Shorts were nervous over the strength displayed and the scarcity of offerings.

Reactions of some 15 to 20 points from the early high point, were followed by the publication of the weekly weather report. October sold up to 30.05, and December to 29.04, or about 25 to 47 points net higher, but the conclusion of the weekly summary read much more favorably than the openings, and the market soon broke under liquidation or reported pressure. Prices made new low ground for the day, in consequence with October selling down to 29.80, and December to 28.55 before the end of the noon hour.

Liquidation became more active, October declining to 28.05 and December to 28.00 during the middle of the afternoon, or about 35 to 60 points net lower, owing to the more favorable view of crop reports and continued nervousness over general trade conditions.

The range:

A High-Yielding Hydro-Electric Security

The yield on the $1,000,000 Pacific Power & Light Company First Lien and General Mortgage 8% Gold Bonds is unusually high on this type of security and is illustrative of the fact that good bonds may be purchased now at lower prices than at any time in the past quarter century.

The price of these bonds is 98¼ and the yield is 8¼%.

The high call price is a further attractive feature. Bonds are redeemable up to and including Aug. 1, 1925, at 105% and interest and 1% per annum less thereafter until maturity in 1930.

This Company is engaged in manufacturing and distributing electricity, gas and water in Washington, Oregon and Idaho.

Population in the Company's field has increased 61% in past ten years. Earnings are stable and dependable, amounting for year ending June 30, 1920, to 2.11 times interest charges including interest on this new issue.

We recommend these bonds because they are a first lien obligation of a well-managed hydro-electric company profitably operating in a growing territory—a security offering you a safe and sound investment.

HYDRO-ELECTRICITY

The only perpetual power, and the power least affected by the increased cost of labor, is water power.

The Hudson River and tributaries abound in large undeveloped hydro-electric resources, thus assuring economical power for the surrounding district for all time, including the cities of Albany, Troy, Schenectady, Amsterdam, Saratoga Springs and other industrial communities.

Many large industries are situated in this territory, including the General Electric Company.

Bond Market

BY C. F. SEIDEL
Manager, Bond Department, Los Angeles Trust & Savings Bank

Financial history depicts two incidents of speculation which resulted in widespread disaster. Both are famed as "bubbles." A brief recital at this time may not be out of the way as means of illustration in comparing modern safeguards in financial matters with conditions in other generations when the leading nations were endeavoring to work out the problem of finance.

* * * * *

In 1710, the Earl of Oxford, who at the time was Prime Minister of England, proposed a plan by which the holders of Government debt should be allowed to exchange the same for shares in the South Sea Company, a corporation which was granted certain trading monopolies along the Atlantic coast of South America. This was attempted as a method of consolidating the Government's indebtedness and to effect a saving in interest. It being upon the eve of a great speculative era in England, many exchanges were made, and the price of the shares of the South Sea Company advanced tremendously. The whole plan proved worthless and collapse followed in 1720, to the great loss of all the shareholders.

This era of unreasonable speculation is partially explained by Bagehot by the statement that there were no banks at that time for the deposit of the funds of the people, and the speculation was the natural outlet for their money.

* * * * * * * * *

Six years later, in 1716, John Law, a Scotch financier and an advocate of paper currency, founded in Paris, France's first banking institution, the Banque Generale, and issued paper currency in accordance with his views. These notes were accepted in payment of taxes, and soon were at a premium. In 1717 the French Government gave him control of Louisiana for the purposes of trade and colonization, and the Compagnie d'Occident was formed accordingly. It was commonly called the "Mississippi Company," but afterward became known as the "Mississippi Scheme" or "Bubble." Later, the East India, China, and Africa companies were absorbed, and the company took over the control of the Mint, besides the powers of "Receiver-General," thus becoming of vast importance in foreign commercial affairs, as well as home financial matters. The Banque Generale, in 1718, was changed to Banque Royale. In 1720, Law became Controller-General of Finance, and the company and bank became one. Prosperous conditions only continued for a short time, however, from the fact that there was an over-issue of paper money and the Government became antagonistic to Law's scheme, so in May, 1720, after a tremendous speculative craze, a complete collapse occurred and Law left the country.

* * * * * * * * *

Present after-the-war conditions have been conducive to an era of extravagance and, in some respects, speculation. However, with the Federal Reserve System offering an elastic currency and with certain legal safeguards and a general banking system, under excellent supervision and control by both Federal and State governments, all possibilities of a financial crisis or collapse are dissipated.

Added to this is the careful scrutiny by banking houses of every security offered to the public for investment by them. Where a bank operates a bond department double care is exercised before purchasing an issue or a part of an issue of securities.

* * * * * * * * *

In the first place, the issue is viewed from the angle of safety it offers for investment of the bank's deposits. Secondly, it is carefully analyzed as a possible lucrative offering to the clients of its bond department. Before purchasing such an issue, the bank requires reports by experts, the study of the business of the concern issuing the securities, which are made by able business men, and an examination of its books by expert accountants. All of these reports are reviewed, studied and criticized. Only then is the desired issue or portion thereof purchased.

* * * * * * * * *

The Bond Department of The Los Angeles Trust & Savings Bank has only such securities to offer for investment by the public as those in which the bank itself is willing to invest the money of its depositors in the conduct of its business as a bank. You are invited to come in and consult the writer at the Bond Department of The Los Angeles Trust and Savings Bank on investment matters. The interests of its clients are the interests of the bank itself.

NEW YORK STOCK EXCHANGE

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

NEW YORK, Aug. 18.—The session of the stock exchange today differed in no essential particular from the listless and reactionary trend of recent days. Shorts again controlled the market and exerted fresh pressure against many of the more volatile issues.

European affairs were once more an overshadowing influence, although this was perhaps less perceptible in the desultory movements of foreign exchange. Sterling, lire and marks were irregularly lower but the Paris rate strengthened.

Local monetary conditions also provided the bears with fresh ammunition. Money continued to flow to crop centers, with consequent depletion of time funds, and call loans rose to 9 per cent in the final hour after opening at 7 per cent.

Advices from leading commercial and industrial centers were mixed, some supporting the view of local financial interests of gradual betterment.

Prices of stocks were mainly higher at the outset but gave way under selling movement. Motor, metal, leathers and sugar issues were most frequently singled out by the shorts, oils, and shippings retrieving part of yesterday's losses at the irregular close. Sales 375,000 shares.

Trading in bonds was progressively dull, but embraced an unusual number of issues. Many active domestic groups, including Liberty Bonds, eased slightly but Dominion of Canada 5s of 1931 made up yesterday's two-point loss. Sales, par value, aggregated $7,300,000. Old United States bonds unchanged on call.

BEARISH NEWS MAKES COARSE GRAINS LOWER.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

CHICAGO, Aug. 18.—Bearish news counted strongly in favor of lower prices for coarse grains. The close showed prices at around the lowest, with oats at 6@7¼ and corn at 4@5¼ net lower. Wheat cut loose from corn and oats advanced and closed ¼@¾ higher on futures, with cash up 3@4¼, but there was off 4@4¼.

Buying of wheat futures by the seaboard continued light, light offerings now coming and higher cash prices in all markets made for a stronger market. Reopening of the trading in wheat in futures at Winnipeg after the close Monday was as high as expected, but a small advance from the low point induced covering by local shorts, and checked liquidation.

With a light outside trade and the general bearish sentiment of the pit element, there was little selling to start corn and oats down. The finish was within a fraction of the bottom, with a firmer undertone.

Trading in oats was mainly of a local character, the fluctuations being a reflection of those in corn, and the finish was within ¼ of the bottom.

The range:

CALIFORNIANS URGED TO BATTLE JAP TIDE.

STATE MUST BE SAVED, PHELAN SAYS; DELCARES NATION READY FOR FIGHT.

Senator Phelan urged the members of the City Club at their noon luncheon yesterday to vote for the anti-Japanese land law at the November election because, he said, "the land of California is ours and we will not permit an invasion of our soil. If it takes a real fight, we are ready now with a navy second to none. We must assert ourselves against the Japanese and save this great State."

The Japanese situation was discussed by the Senator from the biological point of view. He declared that the intermarriage of the white and brown races is certain to be a failure, and that since the Japanese cannot and will not will not blend with the white race, the question for Californians to settle is: Who shall rule?

"The Japanese," said Senator Phelan, "will not be a subservient people, as are the negroes in our Southern States. The Japanese are capable of being a dominant people. They own or control now 600,000 acres of the best land in California. If they can attain this hold in twenty years, where will they be in forty years unless they are checked?

"Before the council of the Allied nations, Japan demanded recognition throughout the world of racial equality for her citizens. Her demand was denied, but it will be renewed.

"Shall this Asiatic tide be stemmed at the Golden Gate? It can be stopped by the courage of Californians."

Senator Phelan was introduced by Albert Lee Stephens, president of the club.

TEST THERMOMETERS OF CITRUS GROWERS.

CHAMBER OF COMMERCE OPENS NEW DEPARTMENT WITH SAFETY DEVICES.

Because of the possibility of loss by frost to the citrus growers of Southern California through inaccurate thermometers, the department of meteorology and aeronautics of the Chamber of Commerce, through Dr. Ford A. Carpenter, yesterday announced that a new department of the bureau has been opened to test the temperature recorders of the farmers.

Even thermometers of better grades are at times as much as four degrees off the standard, according to Dr. Carpenter, and in the winter when the mercury reaches 32 deg., the danger point, the temperature may even be below that point. The loss of an entire crop may follow and it is the purpose of the testing bureau to standardize the thermometers of the growers.

The bureau recently received from the bureau of standards in Washington a thermometer which was six months in the testing-room. The tubes sent in by the grower will be placed in a bath with this standard and will be tested for each degree between 24 and 100. The variance at each point will be noted on the registers being tested and will be recorded on a sheet to be sent to the grower. When the grower uses the thermometer he will add to or subtract from the reading of the instrument and so learn the correct temperature.

This is the only station outside of Washington to give this service and it is expected that all the citrus growers in this part of the State will take advantage of the bureau. The only charge to be made for the work will be the cost of making the tests, which will be very small.

Besides thermometers, altimeters used by airplanes, balloons and dirigibles, aneroid barometers used by surveyers and travelers, and barograph or recording barometers used in high flights in planes will be tested. Incubator thermometers and others requiring exceptional cold or heat will not be tested at the bureau at this time, a department with additional instruments being under consideration.

REJECTS HILLMAN PLEA.

Court Insists on Usual Course to Get Divorce Dismissal.

Clarence D. Hillman and his wife, Bessie Olive Hillman, recently united after Mrs. Hillman had filed suit for divorce, asked Presiding Judge Myers yesterday to dismiss the action. He refused, stating that the case could only be dismissed on motion of her attorney or by an order of the court after notice to the attorneys on both sides. Later in the day the Hillmans returned to court, accompanied by Attorney Morgan, who obtained an order setting the motion to dismiss in Department Sixteen, where it will be heard at 2:30 p.m. today.

BAIL IS FORFEITED BY BARNEY SHERRY.

Barney Sherry, film actor, who was the defendant in two suits for recovery of property brought by Miss Maud Banks, oil queen, and who was arrested the 16th inst. by Detectives Cornall, Warn and Blackman on a personal-conduct charge, failed to appear in Police Judge Chambers's court yesterday afternoon and forfeited $500 bail. A warrant for his rearrest may be issued. Roy Osborne, who was arrested with Sherry at 332 West Fortieth on a similar charge, also forfeited bail of $50.

EXTORTION CASE GOES OVER UNTIL OCTOBER

Upon motion of the defendant's attorneys, the trials of Claude Morton, local attorney, E. N. Sanders of the police identification bureau and William Swan were continued yesterday by Judge Willis from the 20th inst. to October 10. The defendants were indicted by the county grand jury on a charge of extortion.

You Wouldn't Eat Bread That Was Only Half "Risen"

Half "risen" means only partially fermented, and causes flatulence and indigestion.

Yet, unless you choose wisely, you will be apt to drink one of the half-fermented beverages that the great demand for soft drinks has called forth in a rush.

Drink Schlitz in Brown Bottles. It is wholesome, fully fermented, and then Pasteurized. These processes take time.

When you make bread, you allow it to ferment fully, rise to double its bulk. Then you bake it, to kill the ferment—which is a living organism. After fermentation is complete, the ferments should be killed. They have done their work.

So with Schlitz. It is aged—fermented—fully ripe. Then it is Pasteurized so as to kill the ferments, which, as living organisms, are not good for the stomach.

When we say Schlitz is pure, we mean that it contains no living organisms to ferment in your stomach.

Why trifle with a two-day "rapid-transit" beverage? It is bound to make your stomach resentful. Order Schlitz—and be certain of pleasant after-effects.

The Drink That Made Milwaukee Famous

OPEN HIGHWAY OVER BIG DAM.

Devil's Gate Reservoir Road Christened by Autos.

Supervisors Tell of Value of Water Conservation.

Big Tejunga Bridge Link to be Next, Dodge Hopes.

The highway across the top of the new flood control dam at Devil's Gate, in the Arroyo Seco, a little more than two miles northwest of Pasadena, was formally opened to the public yesterday at noon. Traffic will be allowed to cross the structure only a few days, which will then be closed for a month while approaches to the bridge are paved.

A brief program featured yesterday's event. Short talks were made by J. W. Reagan, county flood control engineer; City Commissioner John J. Hamilton, who was a member of the Board of Supervisors when the flood control project was approved; A. L. Hamilton, chairman of the Pasadena City Commission, and J. S. Dodge, chairman, and R. F. McClelland, J. H. Bean and F. E. Woodley, members of the Board of Supervisors.

Mr. Reagan and the four Supervisors were in the first machine to be driven across the dam. Several other autos followed. About 300 people clustered about the ends of the dam. Included were a number of owners of the handsome homes that dot Flintridge, the "Montecito of Pasadena," who have been impatiently awaiting the completion of the new highway link because it affords a direct connection between Flintridge and Pasadena. For months they have been forced to take a roundabout route in reaching their homes.

DESCRIBES BIG DAM.

Mr. Reagan, in his talk, dwelt upon the physical characteristics of the dam, which measures 100 feet high above ground, with a base extending thirty feet below the earth's surface. The length of the dam is 310 feet, and the approaches are about the same. A lake a mile or more in length will be made when the water backs up during the winter. The cost of the improvement is about $360,000. Mr. Reagan laid emphasis upon the fact that the dam is planned to conserve water as well as for flood control purposes.

"This dam is of the gravity type, the most expensive to build and the safest," said Mr. Reagan. "While I am county flood control engineer no cheap type of dam will be put in. Others will be erected in many of the canyons, but State and national aid must be secured. The taxpayers cannot bear the entire burden of this extensive system."

FOR ANOTHER BRIDGE.

Mr. Dodge expressed the hope that another bridge link in the State highway system will soon be furnished in the building of a concrete dam across the Big Tejunga. The other three Supervisors touched upon the value of water conservation, saying that it is as important as flood control. Chairman Hamilton of the Pasadena City Commission emphasized the same point.

John J. Hamilton reviewed the stiff fight that was put up to make the dam a possibility, telling how the flood control bonds carried by a majority of only fifty-one votes, and how a battle was put up to get a bill through the Legislature authorizing construction.

Albert S. Bent of the firm of Bent Bros., who built the dam, said the contractor's only method of expression is through the honesty of his work. He closed with an invitation to everybody present to join in eating watermelons at the mess tent.

MADE DEPUTY CLERK IN BLEDSOE'S COURT.

After four years' service as naturalization examiner in the office of Frederick Jones, examiner in charge, William U. Handy yesterday was appointed deputy clerk in U. S. District Judge Bledsoe's court. He succeeds Maury Curtis. His appointment, made by Charles N. Williams, the court clerk, becomes effective on September 1. Mr. Handy took his law course at the George Washington University, Washington, D. C. He has been admitted to practice in this State.

WILL SAY WHO GAVE IT KICK.

Court to Decide on Cider's Strength; Sellers Blame Makers of Drink.

Whether four concessionaires of Ocean Park or the manufacturer of cider sold by them should be held responsible for the kick in liquor sold along the sea front will be decided on Saturday by U. S. Commissioner Long, it was announced yesterday.

Clarence E. Roper, Paul H. Lambert, N. B. Caslar and Arthur Mattal, the defendants, are at liberty on bail of $500. Other concessionaires will appear before the commissioner today.

The defense attorney quoted a section of the Volstead Act and asserted the manufacturer, not the concessionaires, are responsible, even if the alcoholic content was increased by natural sugar and fermentation.

SAYS SALT LAKE HAD WHIP HAND

River, which would be done away with by the Sachse Plaza plan; eliminates all through passenger and freight trains as well as light engine movements of the Southern Pacific Company from Alameda street; provides a modern terminal equal to that proposed by Sachse at the Plaza; affords early relief to interurban trains of the Pacific Electric; and in addition provides that work can be started as soon as authorized, was the declaration yesterday of Mr. Titcomb.

Going into the item of cost, Mr. Titcomb showed that all grade crossings along the Los Angeles River could be eliminated for $7,477,000 under his plan, as compared with a cost of $9,584,000 under the Sachse Plaza plan. Neither of the plans contemplates the elimination of grade crossings at North Main and Redondo, or North Spring and Redondo, and if this is deemed desirable, he said, an added expense of $600,000 for each crossing is necessary under both plans. Comparing the depression work under the Plaza plan, Mr. Titcomb pointed out that Sachse's estimate was $3,302,000, as compared with $1,000,000 under the "Titcomb plan."

COST BILLS COMPARED.

The total expense for a union passenger terminal and coach yards, if located at the Plaza, is estimated at $13,008,000, while the necessary expenditure if located at the Arcade site would be $4,585,000. An estimated expense for team yards, under the Sachse plan of $721,000, is eliminated under the "Titcomb plan."

Considering the matter from a Pacific Electric operating standpoint, Mr. Titcomb said that for twenty-four hours ending at 11 a.m. on the 18th inst., there were 513 trains inbound from northern division points, and 511 trains outbound, consisting of from one to three cars each, which under the Sachse plan would be put into the subway along Main street, and that during the rush hours there would frequently be less than one minute intervals between such trains.

He said that inasmuch as the subway would loop under the station and only one train could be loaded at a time, this would result in the slowing up of passenger loading.

He also said that the Pacific Electric now handles on an average of 3000 freight cars per month, from and to northern division points, which are switched from Macy and Alameda street to the Pacific Electric freight terminal at Eighth and Alameda streets by the Southern Pacific. Under the Sachse plan, he declared, this practice would have to be continued, while under the "Titcomb plan" the Pacific Electric would handle its own freight cars direct to its freight terminal, thus eliminating this expense as well as speeding up the service.

BATTLE WELL DEFINED.

Unless it takes longer to examine the remaining witnesses than the attorneys expect, the hearing should be concluded late today. The final arguments, it is thought, will be snappy and to the point. The hearing has resolved itself into a well-defined battle between the Plaza and the Arcade site proponents and opponents. The Santa Fe site, also reviewed in Engineer Sachse's report to the commission, has not been seriously mentioned as yet.

The City Council yesterday adopted a resolution requesting the State Railroad Commission to delay final decision on the grade crossing and terminal problems until the Council had been given ample opportunity to consider the reports submitted to the commission by the committees of engineers.
